HOW NEWTON IS GOVERNED

Twelfth of a Series of Articles Explaining the Management of the City

A department of the city whose direct connection with the health and comfort of every citizen is seldom realized, is that of Public Buildings and Inspection of Buildings. Not until we read of the collapse of improperly constructed buildings in other cities, or of conflagrations in school houses caused by imperfect heating arrangements, can we even appreciate the great importance of this branch of municipal life.

The Public Buildings Department of this city has two principal functions, the care of all the public buildings in the city except those of the Water department, and the inspection of the construction of all private buildings.

Newton has some 60 public buildings of which 29 are school houses. The assessors appraise the value of this property at about two and a quarter million dollars. So far as school buildings are concerned the department has charge of what might be termed the maintenance of structure and of structural equipment. The ordinary maintenance of the buildings being part of the duty of the department using the same. This maintenance includes such matters as painting, shingling, care and repairs to heating apparatus, new floors, new window glass and many other minor repairs. While the ordinary repairs are a matter of constant attention the larger matters on school buildings are usually done during the summer vacation. Some idea of the amount of this work can be gleaned from the 1914 report of the department, showing that over $24,000 was expended on school buildings, nearly $2500 on city stables, about $700 on Police buildings, over $2000 on fire stations, about the same at the City Hall, $400 at the library, $500 at the City Home and a total of over $34,000 for the entire year.

The heating and ventilating of school buildings is probably the most important work of the department to the parents of about 7500 school children. With a state law requiring the admission of at least 30 cubic feet of fresh air per minute, per pupil in each school room, and with some of the antiquated furnaces and other forms of heating apparatus now in use in the city, some idea of the problem can be obtained. Of course, all of our modern school buildings are fully equipped with adequate heating and ventilating apparatus, but there are at least eight buildings in the city where the facilities are woefully behind the times and when atmospheric conditions are not just right, the requirements of the above mentioned law are not fulfilled. Some work, however, is being done each year to remedy these conditions, about $15,000 having been expended on the Clafin schools this summer on these lines, and it is hoped that all our buildings, will within the next five years be in suitable condition.

The inspection of building construction in this city is rapidly becoming a problem for the limited force of the department. The building growth of this city is tremendous, the increase from 1911 being marked. In that year there were 340 permits issued with an estimated value of $1,165,000 increasing in 1912 to 501 permits and $1,701,677 valuation, to 539 permits in 1913 and $1,594,000 and 685 permits in 1914 and $1,813,000, while for the first six months of the present year the value of building construction was over $1,600,000.

A new Building Code was established some three years ago and has proved to be just about what was wanted in this city. Under its provisions, the process of building in this city is somewhat as follows.

An application for permit to build, giving all the details of the work must be filed with the Building Inspector, with two sets of plans, one to be retained in the office for record, the other

ANOTHER MURDER

Robbery the Probable Motive for Death of Patrick Cannon

The body of Patrick Cannon, a well known character about Newton Upper Falls, was found early last Friday in a vacant barn on Elliot street, near the railroad bridge, in such a condition as to point to a cold blooded murder. Cannon was last seen alive on Wednesday and from the appearance of the body, it was evident that he met his death that night. The body was discovered by two boys, Frank Genarzo of Columbia place and Charles Hurd of Thurston road, who entered the barn out of curiosity. The body was on the second floor lying on a mattress in a natural position. The face was practically covered with blood, and beside the body were two empty whisky bottles, one of which was broken; also an opened pocket-knife.

The left side of the head and ear was badly battered, a long gash was also found along the left side of the head, a cut which started at the forehead and ended at the back of the skull and several ugly bruises were on the right side of the head. A pay envelope was found beside the body with another name upon it, but the money had been taken.

The police made a careful examination of the barn in which the deed was committed, and a heavy club, two feet and a half long, was found in a corner. In another corner the officers picked up a good-sized stone, which was also covered with blood, showing that the assault was a particularly vicious one.

Cannon, as far as it was learned, had no intimate friends. It also developed that he had been sleeping for some time in the barn where the murder was committed. Last week he worked on a farm in Newton Centre, and on Saturday night received $12 in pay and also $8 from Dr. C. A. Thompson a day or two before. The clothes he had on when the body was found had been purchased but recently, as

NATIONAL PRESIDENT

Miss Flood Honored with Highest Office by Daughters of Veterans

Miss Katharine A. R. Flood, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Flood of Washington street, Newton, was elected yesterday at Washington as the National President of the Daughters of Veterans.

Miss Flood has filled nearly every office in the state and national organizations of the Daughters and was opposed for the highest office in the order. She has been closely identified with Grand Army work especially for the past four years, having been the private secretary of the Commanders-in-chief of that organization for that period. She was born in Newton and graduated from Radcliffe College in 1902 and taught school for some years at Providence, R. I. and Watertown, Mass. In May, 1910, she was appointed a clerk in the Census Office at Washington but resigned after the annual encampment of the Grand Army at Atlantic City in October of that year, having been appointed secretary to the newly elected commander-in-chief, John E. Gilman. Each Commander-in-chief since that time has re-appointed Miss Flood as his private secretary and veterans say that she is an encyclopedia on Grand Army affairs.

Miss Flood was president of the Massachusetts Department, Daughters of Veterans, in 1907-08. In 1906 she was national inspector. In 1911-1912 she was on the national council. In 1913 she was elected junior vice president and in 1914 senior vice president.

DISCUSS CITY GARAGE

Charter Objection Stops Final Action by the Board of Aldermen

The aldermen discussed a city garage at the meeting on Monday evening, attempts to pass an appropriation of $7500 to be expended by the Mayor being defeated by a charter objection, which ought not to have been allowed, and the net result being an appropriation of $300 for the preparation of a second set of plans and for obtaining bids.

President Blanchard was in the chair and Aldermen Calkins and Cobb were the only members absent.

Hearings on telephone conduits in Commonwealth avenue for Edison conduits in Waverley avenue and Nantum street were unopposed. Hearings for sewer in Brackett road brought out an advocate in A. W. Lincoln and a written protest from Eliza A. Brackett. Mr. F. L. Roberts appeared in favor of sewers in Rogers and Hood streets.

Mayor Childs responded to the request of the aldermen at its previous meeting and recommended $100 for overtime for the City Engineers department and the order was subsequently adopted. The Mayor also sent in requests for grants for city expenses for the next three months, and a request of the Riverside Recreation Grounds trustees to enter the Newton sewer.

The school committee asked for authority to expend the balance of an appropriation for fire extinguishers for various other purposes.

The County Commissioners gave notice of a hearing Oct. 23 on proposed alterations in the railroad bridge at Woodland.

Petitions of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Highland street and Jackson street of the Edison Co. for attachments on Homer street, Beacon street and Lothrop street of the Gas Light Co. to open Linwood avenue and Albemarle road, and of Catherine Peters for an intelligence office license were granted.

Other petitions were received from Joseph DeAngelis for pool tables on Langley road, of Josephine F. Fountain for Soldiers' Relief, for sewers in Fisher avenue, Park avenue, and Cotton street, and Jackson road, of W. H. Mague to change fire limits in ward 3, for sidewalks under betterment act on Broadway and Collins road, and claims of Sarah C. Goodwin and Raymond H. Pierpont on account of defective highways.

On recommendations of committees, Morseland avenue and Elmwood street were laid out under the betterment act and $2623 appropriated for construction, a hearing was assigned on Oct. 18 for the widening of Beacon street in Waban, $200 was appropriated for fire insurance on the City Home, polling places were established for the state election, city primary and city election, city primary and city election, an appropriation was made to pay some 1914 bills of the Charity Dept., a grant made for city expenses for October and November, $230 appropriated for sewer connection to the Bowen school permits for public garages granted Geo. C. Weed, Washington street, and Furbush Bros, Washington street, a gasoline permit granted C. G. Carley, pole locations granted the Edison Co. on Lagrange street, Vine street, Waverley avenue and Bacon street, Waverley office license granted Ida E. Ericson, and leave to withdraw granted on a sewer in Ridge road, on Edison poles on Churchill street, on a public garage for J. P. Ramee and on a petition to sell gasoline by A. H. Geyer & Son.

An order for $1200 for shower baths in the Bowen school was referred.

An order for $8000 bonds for a city garage was taken from the table on

MR. GREGG FATALY INJURED

Mr. Charles A. Gregg, a resident of Newtonville for the past fifteen years, was fatally injured in an automobile accident late Wednesday morning at the Haymarket Relief Station in Boston. Mr. Gregg, who had been to a meeting in Tremont Temple, was on his way to the South station about 11:20 accompanied by Mr. Oliver S. Hayward of Dorchester and Mr. Henry C. Frazier of Roxbury. The men were on Washington street at the corner of Franklin street and Mr. Gregg stepped into the street directly in front of an automobile owned by Thomas Cunningham of Roxbury and driven by John J. Driscoll, which was proceeding slowly in a southerly direction. Driscoll applied the brakes but before the car could be stopped its headlight had struck Mr. Gregg and knocked him down. He was taken in the car to the Relief Station where it was learned that he had sustained multiple injuries about the body and a concussion of the brain. He never recovered.

General Hull Lodge, No. 123, Ancient Order of United Workmen of Massachusetts, opened its fall season at its lodge room, Dennison Hall, Newtonville, on Friday evening, Sept. 24th. Master Workman Laurence A. Sprague in the chair, with all the officers and a goodly number of members and guests present. The lodge received an official visitation from Brother Shove S. Symonds of the Grand Committee on Laws, who made a stirring address calculated to arouse genuine enthusiasm on the part of the membership in the fall campaign, when all are expected to get busy and show results. The report of the Auditing Committee was read by the Chairman, Brother Charles D. Cabot, which showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition and that its charitable work among sick and distressed members had been carefully looked after. Two applications for membership were received and it is expected that at least six will be ready for initiation in October. The lodge expects a busy and prosperous season, and an early resumption of its ladies' nights, which proved so popular earlier in the year.

TO MEN OVER 40

It has been found that the death rate in the case of men over 40 years of age is much increased over that of former years, and is still on the increase. The heart, lungs and kidneys are the chief offenders. Worry, business cares, domestic unhappiness, and habits are found to be the most common and direct causes for this condition.

Men over 40 need a let up. They will find it in the Newton Y. M. C. A. gymnasium classes, on the (indoor) running track, in the swimming pool. The muscles will be strengthened, the circulation quickened, the whole system toned up, so that headaches, backaches and general run-down feeling may be overcome.

Let the Y. M. C. A. physical department help you to get right in body, and thus prolong your days. Take out a membership today.

OLD TIME VIEWS

Mr. Ellis E. Moore, the Newton photographer has just presented the Newton Library with a portfolio of old time views of the town and city which will be of great interest to all of the older residents. The photographs include views of Centre street, looking north from the old railroad station showing the former grade crossing and the old Nonantum House in the distance. There is also a view of Centre street looking south, showing the grade crossing and the part of the old railroad station. The old bank building surrounded with trees, a view of Cole's block, Howes' block and the railroad depot, with several well known persons standing in front of the Coffin store will be of interest to many. The old Nonantum House, when it was used as a hotel, and another picture of the same, some 15 years later with the Claffin Guard in front of it will also recall many reminiscences. There are also pictures of Hyde's block, with an old Mt. Auburn horse car in front of it, the Fuller house, which stood at the corner of Washington street and Nonantum place, the old Daniels' stable, opposite the engine house, Washington street at the old grade crossing, looking both ways, stores of Francis Murdoch, and Boynton & Marsh, a bird's eye view of the town from Mt. Ida, over 30 years ago, and views of the old Kenrick house on Waverley avenue and the old Hammond house at Chestnut hill are also included in the collection.

The library officials are anxious to obtain as much material and pictures of old time Newton as possible and Mr. Moore has set a splendid example for other public spirited citizens to follow.

GOLDEN WEDDING

On Saturday evening, Sept. 25, 1915, the friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rines gathered at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Benj. H. Plaisted, Jefferson Highlands, N. H., to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers. The presents, which were many, consisted of several pieces of gold, silver, cut glass and a gray silk dress pattern. Ice cream and cake were served. All joined in wishing them many more happy years.

 In youth's fair golden weather,
 Hand in hand you started out
 To walk life's path together.
 Now fifty years still finds you
 That pathway bravely treading!

Two Gold Medals—Highest Award at The Panama Exposition, 1915

Glenwood Coal Ranges, Gas Ranges, Furnaces and Heaters, awarded Two Gold Medals, at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, Cal., 1915.

Glenwood Ranges are the product of New England's largest and best known foundry. They are designed by makers of life-long experience. They weigh more, are put together better and burn less fuel than most ranges. The castings are wonderfully smooth and easy to keep clean.

They are handsome, convenient and mechanically right—no modern feature lacking. Smooth cast, Colonial design, plain finish, compact structure, big roomy ovens, easy working grates and countless other features.

Owing to their sturdy construction and fine workmanship, they will stand hard usage, do better work and last much longer than the ordinary kind.

They certainly do "Make Cooking and Baking Easy".

motion of Alderman Rice and order for $7600 for construction of a city garage and was recalled from the committee on motion of the same alderman. Alderman Cox led the opposition to the passage of these orders saying that there was no definite data on which the board could act, as the committee wished the Mayor to obtain bids on a different set of plans from that first submitted. Alderman Rice said it seemed impossible to make any headway in this matter and if we are to continue to appropriate money for plans we would spend more for plans than for a building. It is certain that a suitable garage can be built for $7500 and he felt that it might be possible to build one with a single door for $6200. This form of garage would obstruct the coal bins at the boiler house and the coal would have to be carried in thru the garage. Under these circumstances he felt that a garage with separate doors for each car would serve the city better. His motion to amend the orders to $7500 was then carried, 17 to 2.

Aldermen Rice and Cox had a little discussion which added nothing to the knowledge of the board on the subject, and Alderman Pratt said that he was not sure of the right type of a garage for the city. He thought the matter of subsequent operation ought to be considered as it might be far more economical to build a higher cost garage, if it cost less to maintain cheaper. His present opinion was in favor of the multiple garage.

Alderman Hollis opposed action because the committee had given the matter considerable thought and were now endeavoring to learn the exact cost of the single type garage. Alderman Clark wanted to know what the city would get for its $7500.

Alderman Rice said he had had unsatisfactory relations with the Building Commissioner and Aldermen Hollis and Cox both defended that official. Alderman Cox thought we had a "bug" on a city garage and said that the present quarters in the city stables were good enough. President Blanchard then took the floor and said that this matter had been under discussion for several years without any action. The present quarters in the city stable did not comply with the state law and it would cost a large sum to change them over. He thought the single type garage on account of the difficulty of handling the coal was a ridiculous proposition and he also believed it would require at least one more person to operate that form of a garage.

He hoped action would be taken that evening for if it was delayed further it would be impossible to dig foundations this year and the whole matter would go over until 1916.

Alderman Cox said there was no need to rush. Alderman Rice said the order put the entire responsibility up to the mayor where it really belonged, and Alderman Hollis wanted to know why the sub-committee had ever been appointed. The board refused to refer the matter to a committee again by a vote of 7 to 12 and Alderman Cox then interposed a charter objection to further action, and to the surprise of the board, the President sustained the objection. President Blanchard stated later that he had done so as he believed the amendment in the amount stated in the order had made it a new proposition and therefore subject to the objection.

After a short recess the board passed an order for $300 for plans for a city garage and adjourned at 9:55 until Oct. 18th.

An order was adopted requiring the city clerk to send each voter a statement prepared by the city solicitor relative to the proposed amendments to the constitution to be voted upon at the state election.

WINS FIRST GAME

The Newton High foot ball team won its first game of the season on Tuesday by defeating Needham High by the score of 21 to 0, on Clafin Field.

Needham High fought hard, but its lighter players could not seem to gain consistently through the Newton line. Needham played a great defensive game and Newton was fortunate to thrice cross its opponents' goal line.

Newton scored touchdowns in the first, second and third quarters. The first one came as a result of straight football, working the ball from mid-field down to the five-yard line. After three attempts Newton finally opened the way through the Needham line and Vachon scored.

The second touchdown came after a clever forward pass from Vachon to Hughes which put the ball on the three-yard line. After another play, Hughes went over for the score. The third touchdown was made in the fourth period on straight football, aided by a short forward pass.

Mr. G. Norman Bankart was referee and Walter Mullen was the linesman.

RICHARDSON—TUCKER

The marriage of Mr. Edward Thomas Richardson of Marshall street, Newton Centre and Miss Fay B. Tucker, the daughter of Mrs. Henry Otis Tucker of Brookline and a grand daughter of the late Hon. Gideon Tucker of Maine, took place at the Leyden Church in Brookline on Saturday evening. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock by Rev. Harris G. Hale, D. D., pastor of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Fred I. Tucker, was gown in white embroidered crepe de chine, trimmed with pearls and Chantilly lace, the veil carried with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Elizabeth Bowker of Brookline as maid of honor, wearing peach golden rod satin trimmed with gold lace and carrying a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Mr. Chester C. Butts of Newton Centre was the best man and the ushers were Messrs. George F. Richardson, Jr., Hughes Richardson, Dr. Edward Leonard, and Harold Gordon of Newton Centre, Phillips Byfield of Newton and Harrington D. Learned of Brookline. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will reside in Portland, Me., where they will be at home after November first at 180 High street.

DANCE RECITAL IN PLAYERS HALL

Miss Lillian F. Harrington of Newton Centre has sent out invitations for a Dance Recital to be given in Players Hall, West Newton, on next Friday evening, October 8th.

The program will be arranged to illustrate the work of Miss Harrington, her pupils, and associates in esthetic, classic, national, character, court, and ball-room dancing.

The principles who will appear in groups of two or more during the "Ensemble des Premieres" are, the Misses Harrington, Miss Pauline Jones of Cambridge, Miss Beatrice Gings of Lawrence, Miss Pauline Chamberlain and Miss Zella Hall of Boston, and Miss Hazel Sands of Newton Centre, while Miss Pauline Fisher of Worcester will render an Arabian Dance.

One of the features of the varied and attractive program will be a Chorus Dance between Miss Harrington and Miss Hall and fourteen of the young society girls of the Newtons and Boston. The scene is laid in a flower garden. A fairy enters and weaves a spell of enchantment around a bed of stately roses. Slowly they come to life and are compelled to follow the bidding of her magic wand as she flits around the stage. She soon tires of the sport, however, and beguiles them back to their places once more.

Miss Harrington's Solo numbers will be a Spanish Dance, an impersonation of a doll, the Paderewski Minuet in G, the Butterfly Chase, and a Shadow Dance.

During the half hour intermission and after the final curtain general dancing will take place in the smaller hall.

The patronesses are, Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, Mrs. Arthur C. Badger, Mrs. Edwin P. Brown, Mrs. Thomas A. Crimmins, Miss Fannie Faullhaber, Mrs. Frank J. Fessenden, Mrs. Edward E. Hopkins, Mrs. John T. Walworth, Mrs. Harry D. Priest.

Tickets are to be had from Miss Ethel Howland of West Newton and Mrs. Frank A. Mason of Newton Centre, and may also be obtained through the patronesses.

THE NON PARTISAN ASSOCIATION OF CLUB WOMEN

The introduction of a resolution endorsing equal suffrage at the annual meeting of the State Federation at Marion last June, has caused such wide-spread protest that loyal Club women, both suffragists and anti-suffragists, have formed a temporary organization called "The Non Partisan Association of Club Women."

The Association is in no way a rival of the State Federation. It is not trying to disrupt the Federation, but is trying to preserve and strengthen it by endeavoring to keep it non-partisan.

The new Association furnishes a medium of expression for club women throughout the state who wish to maintain a non-partisan position in their activities, and who believe that women's clubs have a distinct function of their own, and a broad field of usefulness, both social and humanitarian.

The numberless objects crying for attention, for which the Club can work harmoniously, effectively, without controversy or friction or ill feeling. Those who so believe can help the cause of non-partisanship by joining the Association. Their names, with the name of club, and with twenty-five cents membership fee, should be sent to Mrs. Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., Wellesley Hills, Mass.

The first object of the Association is to secure such amendments to the By-Laws of the State Federation as will, in the future, prevent action being taken on partisan and highly controversial questions. They are giving their active support to some amendments contained in a petition sent to the State Executive Board.

The petition was signed by the presidents of twenty-two federated clubs, more than double the requisite number. Some of these clubs are the largest and most influential in the state.

The first amendment contains the provision that, "a neutral position shall be strictly maintained on all sectarian, partisan and controversial subjects." The second amendment calls for the adoption of Shattuck's Advanced Rules as a Parliamentary Authority in all meetings of the Federation. These amendments will probably be voted upon at the autumn Federation meeting. It is hoped that every Club will give careful consideration to these proposed amendments, and instruct its delegates so that the vote may register the desires of the Club Women of Massachusetts in regard to the introduction of partisan questions into the councils of the Federation.

Minna R. Mulligan, for the Executive Board of the Non Partisan Association of Club Women.

SYNOPSIS.

The New York police are mystified by a series of murders and other crimes. The principal clue to the criminal is the warning letter which is sent to the victims, signed with a "clutching hand." The latest victim of the mysterious assassin is Taylor Dodge, the insurance president. His daughter, Elaine, employs Craig Kennedy, the famous scientific detective, to try to unravel the mystery. What Kennedy accomplishes is told by his friend Jameson, a newspaper man. Enraged at the determined effort which Elaine and Craig Kennedy are making to put an end to his crimes, the Clutching Hand, as this strange criminal is known, resorts to all sorts of the most diabolical schemes to put them out of the way. Each chapter of the story tells of a new plot against their lives and of the way the great detective uses all his skill to save this pretty girl and himself from death.

FOURTEENTH EPISODE

THE RECKONING.

Pacing up and down his den in the heart of Chinatown, Long Sin was thinking over his bargain with Kennedy to betray the infamous Clutching Hand.

At length he seated himself on a teakwood table still deliberating over the promise he had been forced to make to Kennedy.

Suddenly an idea seemed to strike him. Lifting a little hammer, he struck a Chinese gong on the table at his side. At the same time he leaned over and turned the knob at the side of a large roll-top desk.

A few seconds later a sort of hatchway, covered by a rug on the floor, in one corner of the room, was slowly lifted and Long Sin's secretary, a pale, cadaverous Chinaman, appeared from below. He stepped noiselessly into the room and shuffled across to Long Sin and handed him a letter.

Long Sin scowled, as though something had interfered with his own plans, but tore open the envelope without a word, spreading out on his lap the sheet of paper it contained.

The letter was a typewritten message, all in capitals, which read:

"BE AT HEADQUARTERS AT 12. DESTROY THIS IMMEDIATELY."

At the bottom of the note appeared the sinister signature of the Clutching Hand.

Bowing low again, the secretary shuffled across and down again through the hatchway, closing the door as he descended.

Long Sin read the note once more, while his inscrutable face assumed an expression of malicious cunning.

With an air of deliberation he reached for a match and struck it. He had placed the paper in the flame when suddenly he seemed to change his mind. He hastily blew out the match, which had destroyed only a corner of the paper, then folded the note carefully and placed it in his pocket.

A few moments later, with a malignant chuckle, Long Sin rose slowly and left the room.

Meanwhile the master criminal was busily engaged in putting the finishing touches to a final scheme of fiendish ingenuity for the absolute destruction of Craig Kennedy.

He had been at work in a small room fitting up a sort of laboratory. In the mysterious house which now served as his headquarters.

Clutching Hand, at a bench in one corner, had just completed an infernal machine of diabolical cunning, and was wrapping it carefully in paper to make an innocent package.

He was interrupted by a knock at the door. Laying down the bomb he went to answer the summons with a stealthy movement. There stood Long Sin, who had disguised himself as a Chinese laundryman.

"On time—good!" growled Clutching Hand surlily as he closed the door with equal care.

No time was wasted in useless formalities.

"This is a bomb," he went on, pointing to the package. "Carry it carefully. On no account let it slip, or you are a dead man. It must be in Kennedy's laboratory before night. Understand? Can you arrange it?"

Long Sin glanced at the dangerous package, then with an expressive look, replied, "Have no fear. I can do it. It will be in the laboratory within an hour. Trust me."

In Kennedy's laboratory I was watching Craig make some experiments with a new X-ray apparatus.

We were oblivious to the passage of time, and only a call over our speaking tube diverted our attention.

I opened the door and a few seconds later Long Sin himself entered.

Kennedy looked up inquiringly as the Chinaman approached, holding out a package which he carried.

"A bomb," he said, in the most matter-of-fact way. "I promised to have it placed in your laboratory before night."

Kennedy took the bomb and carefully placed it under the wonderful rays, then with the fluoroscope over his eyes studied the shadow cast by the rays on its sensitive screen.

"It's a bomb, sure enough," Craig exclaimed, looking up from it at last to me. "It's timed by an ingenious and noiseless little piece of clockwork, in there, too. And it's powerful enough to blow us all, the laboratory included, to kingdom come."

As he spoke, and before I could remonstrate with him, he took the infernal machine and placed it on a table where he set to work on the most delicate and dangerous piece of dissection of which I have ever heard.

Carefully unwrapping the bomb and unscrewing one part while he held another firm, he finally took out of it a bottle of liquid and some powder. Then he placed a few grains of the powder on a dish and dropped on it a drop or two of the liquid. There was a bright flash as the powder ignited instantly.

"Just what I expected," commented Kennedy with a nod, as he examined the clever workmanship of the bomb.

One thing that interested him was that part of the contents had been wrapped in paper to keep them in place. This paper he was now carefully examining with a microscope.

As nearly as I could make it out, the paper contained part of a typewritten chemical formula, which read:

TINCTURE OF IODINE
THREE PARTS OF—

He looked up from his study of the microscope to Long Sin.

"Tell me just how it happened that you got this bomb," he asked.

Without hesitation the Chinaman recited the circumstances, beginning with the note by which he had been summoned.

"A note?" repeated Kennedy, eagerly. "Was it typewritten?"

Long Sin reached into his pocket and produced the note itself, which he had not burned.

As Craig studied the typewritten message from the Clutching Hand I could see that he was growing more and more excited.

"At last he has given us something typewritten," he exclaimed. "To most people, I suppose, it seems that typewriting is the best way to conceal identity. But there are a thousand and one ways of identifying typewriting."

"Look, Walter," he remarked at length, taking a fine tipped pencil and pointing at the distinguishing marks as he talked. "You will notice that all the 'T's' in this note are battered and faint as well as just a trifle out of alignment. Now I will place the paper from the bomb under the microscope and you will see that the 'T's' in the scrap of formula have exactly the same appearance."

I strained my eyes to look. Sure enough, Kennedy was right. There was that unmistakable identity between the 'T's' in the formula and the note.

Kennedy had been gazing at the floor, his face puckered in thought as I looked. Suddenly he clapped his hands together, as if he had made a great discovery.

"I've struck it!" he exclaimed, jumping up. "I was wondering where I had seen typewriting that reminds me of this. Walter, get on your coat and hat. We are on the right trail at last."

With Long Sin we hurried out of the laboratory, leaving him at the nearest taxicab stand, where we jumped into a waiting car.

"It is the clue of the battered 'T's,'" Craig muttered.

Aunt Josephine was in the library knitting when the butler, Jennings, announced us.

"Where is—Miss Dodge?" inquired Kennedy, with suppressed excitement as we entered.

"I think she's out shopping, and I don't know just when she will be back," answered Aunt Josephine, with some surprise. "Why? Is it anything important—any news?"

"Very important," returned Kennedy excitedly. "I think I have the best clue yet. Only—it will be necessary to look through some of the household correspondence immediately to see whether there are certain letters. I wouldn't be surprised if she had some—perhaps not very personal—but I must see them."

Kennedy lost no time. He went to a desk where Elaine generally sat, and quickly took out several typewritten letters. One after another he examined them closely, rejecting one after another, until finally he came to one that seemed to interest him.

He separated it from the rest and fell to studying it, comparing it with the paper from the bomb and the note which Long Sin had received from the Clutching Hand. Then he folded the letter so that the signature and the address could not be read by us.

A portion of the letter I recall read something like this:

"This is his contention: Whereas, TRUTH is the only goal and MATTER is non-existent—"

"Look at this, Walter," remarked Craig, with difficulty restraining himself. "What do you make of it?"

A glance at the typewriting was sufficient to show me that Kennedy had, indeed, made an important discovery. We stared at each other almost too dazed to speak.

At that moment we were startled by the sudden appearance of Elaine. She entered the room carrying in her arms a huge bunch of roses which she had evidently just received.

The moment she saw Craig, however, she stopped short with a look of great surprise.

Her keen eye had not missed the fact that several of her letters lay scattered over the top of the desk.

"What are you doing with my letters, Mr. Kennedy?" she asked, in an astonished tone, evidently resenting the unceremoniousness with which he had apparently been overhauling her correspondence.

As guardedly as possible, Kennedy met her inquiry, which I could not myself blame her for making.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Dodge," he said, "but a matter has just come up which necessitated merely a cursory examination of some purely formal letters which might have an important bearing on the discovery of the Clutching Hand. Your aunt had no idea where you were, nor when you might return, and the absolute necessity for haste in such an important matter is my only excuse for examining a few minor letters without first obtaining your permission."

She said nothing. At another time such an explanation would have been instantly accepted. Now, however, it was different.

Kennedy read the look on her face and an instant later turned to Aunt Josephine and myself.

"I would very much appreciate a chance to say a few words to Miss suppressing a momentary flash of anger that had reddened his face, and controlled himself as if by a superhuman effort.

"I believe you really love that man Kennedy," he exclaimed in a tone that was almost a hiss. "But I tell you, Elaine, he is all bluff. Why, he has been after that Clutching Hand now for three months—and what has he accomplished? Nothing!"

He paused. Through Elaine's mind there flashed the contrast with Kennedy's even temper and deferential manner.

Bennett, by another effort, seemed to grip his temper again. He paced up and down the room. Then he changed the subject abruptly, and the conversation was resumed with some constraint.

While Elaine and Bennett were talking Kennedy and I had entered the office.

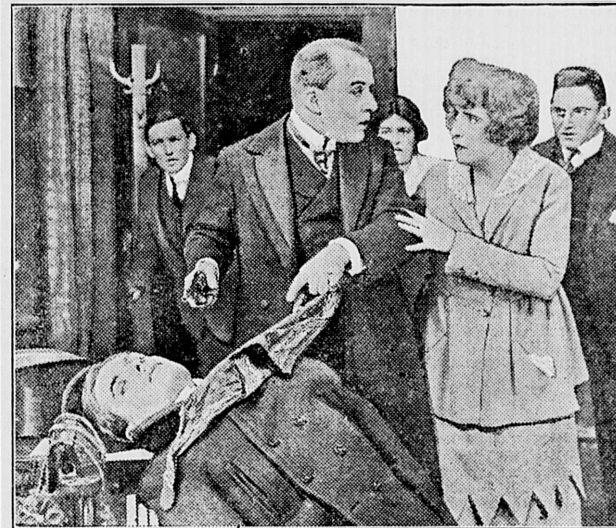

Craig stopped the boy who was about to announce us and asked for Bennett's secretary instead, much to my astonishment.

The boy merely indicated the door of one of the other private offices, and we entered.

We found the secretary hard at work at the typewriter, copying a legal document. Without a word Kennedy at once locked the door.

The secretary rose in surprise, but Craig paid no attention to him. Instead he calmly walked over to the machine and began to examine it.

"Might I ask?" began the secretary. "You keep quiet," ordered Kennedy, with a nod to me to watch the fellow.

Kennedy is About to Shoot When He Discovers That It Is Jameson and Not the Clutching Hand Who Lies There Before Him.

Dodge alone," he intimated. "I have had no such opportunity for some time. If you would be so kind as to leave us in the library—for a few minutes—"

He did not finish the sentence. Aunt Josephine had already begun to withdraw and I followed.

For a moment or two Craig and Elaine looked at each other, neither saying a word, each wondering just what was in the other's mind.

Craig cleared his throat, the obvious manner of covering up his emotion.

"Elaine," he said at length, dropping the recent return to "Miss Dodge," for the moment, "Elaine, is there any truth in this morning's newspaper report of—of you?"

She had dropped her eyes. But he persisted, taking a newspaper clipping from his pocket and handing it to her. Her hand trembled as she glanced over the item:

SOCIETY NOTES.

Dame Rumor is connecting the name of Miss Elaine Dodge, the heiress, with that of Perry Bennett, the famous young lawyer. The announcement of an engagement between them at any time would not surprise.

Elaine read no farther. She handed back the clipping to Kennedy. As her eyes met his she noticed his expression of deep concern, and hesitated with the reply she had evidently been just about to make.

Still, as she lowered her head, it seemed to give silent confirmation to the truth of the newspaper report.

Kennedy said nothing, but his eyes continued to study her face.

He suppressed his feelings with a great effort then, without a word, bowed and left the room.

"Walter," he exclaimed as he rejoined us in the drawing room, where I was chatting with Aunt Josephine, "we must be off again. The trail follows still farther."

An hour or so later, Elaine, whose mind was now in a whirl from what had happened, decided to make a call on her lawyer and the confidant of her father, Perry Bennett.

As Elaine entered his private office, Bennett rose to greet her effusively and they exchanged a few words.

"I mustn't forget to thank you for those lovely roses you sent me," she exclaimed at length. "They were beautiful, and I appreciated them ever so much."

A moment later Bennett led the conversation around until he found an opportunity to make a tactful allusion to the report of their engagement in the morning papers.

He had leaned over, and now attempted to take her hand. She withdrew it, however. There was something about his touch which, try as she might, she could not like. Was it mere prejudice or was it her keen woman's intuition?

Bennett looked at her a moment,

"You are under arrest—and the less you say the better for you."

I shall never forget the look that crossed the secretary's face. Was it the surprise of an innocent man?

Taking the man's place at the machine Kennedy removed the legal paper that was in it and put in a new sheet. Then he tapped out, as we watched:

BE AT HEADQUARTERS AT 12. DESTROY THIS IMMEDIATELY.
THREE PARTS OF—

This is his contention—whereas TRUTH is the only goal and MATTER is non-existent—

"Look, Walter," he exclaimed as he drew out the paper from the machine. I bent over, and together we compared the 'T's' with those in the Clutching Hand letter, the paper from the bomb and the letter which Craig had taken from Elaine's desk.

As Craig pointed out the resemblances with a pencil my amazement gradually changed into comprehension and comprehension into conviction. The meaning of it all began to dawn on me.

The writing was identical. There were no differences!

While we were locked in the secretary's office Bennett and Elaine were continuing their chat on various social topics. Suddenly, however, with a glance at the clock, Bennett told Elaine that he had an important letter to dictate and that it must go off at once.

She said that she would excuse him a few minutes, and he pressed a button to call his secretary.

Of course, the secretary did not appear. Bennett left his office, with some annoyance, and went into the adjoining room, the door to which Kennedy had not locked.

He hesitated a moment, then opened the door quietly. To his astonishment he saw Kennedy, the secretary and myself apparently making a close examination of the typewriter.

Gliding, rather than walking back into his own office, he closed the door and locked it. Almost instantly fear and fury at the presence of his hated rival, Kennedy, turned Bennett, as it were, from the Jekyll of a polished lawyer and lover of Elaine into an insanely jealous and revengeful Mr. Hyde. The strain was more than his warped mind could bear.

With a look of intense horror and loathing Elaine watched him slowly change from the composed, calm, intellectual Bennett she knew and respected into a repulsive, mad figure of a man.

His stature even seemed to be altered. He seemed to shrivel up and become deformed. His face was terribly distorted.

And his long, sinewy hand slowly twisted and bent until he became the personal embodiment of the Clutching Hand.

In a tone which betrayed alarm and

As Elaine, transfixed with terror, watched Bennett's astounding metamorphosis, he ran to the door leading to the outer office and hastily locked that also.

Then, with his eyes gleaming with rage and his hands working in murderous frenzy, he crouched nearer and nearer, toward Elaine.

She shrank back, screaming again and again in terror.

He was the Clutching Hand.

In spite of closed doors we could now plainly hear Elaine's shrieks, Craig the secretary and myself made a rush for the door to Bennett's private office. Finding it locked, we began to batter it.

By this time, however, Bennett had hurled himself upon Elaine and was slowly choking her.

Kennedy found that it was impossible to batter down the door in time by any ordinary means. Quickly he seized the typewriter and hurled it through the panels. Then he thrust his hand through the opening and turned the catch.

As we flung ourselves into the room Bennett rushed into a closet in a corner, slamming the door behind him. It was composed of sheet iron, and effectually prevented anyone from breaking through. Kennedy and I tried vainly, however, to pry it open.

While we were thus endeavoring to force an entrance Bennett, in a sort of closet, had put on the coat, hat and mask which he invariably wore in the character of the Clutching Hand. Then he cautiously opened a secret door in the back of the closet and slowly made an exit.

Meanwhile the secretary had been doing his best to revive Elaine, who was on the floor, hysterical and half unconscious from the terrible shock she had experienced.

Intent on discovering Bennett's whereabouts, Kennedy and I examined the wall of the office, thinking there might be some button or secret spring which would open the closet door.

While we were doing so the door of a large safe in the secretary's office gradually opened, and the Clutching Hand emerged from it, stepping carefully toward the door leading to the outer office, intent on escaping in that direction.

At that moment I caught sight of him, and, leaping into the secretary's office, I drew my revolver and ordered him to throw up his hands. He obeyed. Holding up both hands, he slowly drew near the door to his private office.

Suddenly he dropped one hand and pressed a hidden spring in the wall. Instantly a heavy iron door shot out and closed over the wooden door. Entrance to the private office was absolutely cut off.

With an angry snarl the Clutching Hand leaped at me.

As he did so I fired twice. He staggered back.

The shots were heard by Kennedy and Elaine as well as the secretary, and at the same instant they discovered the iron door which barred the entrance to the secretary's office.

Rushing into the outer office they found the clerks excitedly attempting to open the door of the secretary's office, which was locked. Kennedy drew a revolver and shot through the lock, bursting open the door.

Clutching Hand was apparently seated in a chair at a desk, his face buried in his arms, while I was apparently disappearing through the door.

Kennedy and the clerks pounced upon the figure in the chair and tore off his mask. To their astonishment they discovered it was myself!

My shots had missed, and Clutching Hand had leaped on me with mad-dened fury.

Dressed in my coat and hat, which he had deftly removed after overpowering me, Clutching Hand had by this time climbed through the window of the outer office and was making his way down the fire escape to the street. He reached the foot of the iron steps, leaped off and ran quickly away.

Shouting a few directions to the secretary, the clerks and Elaine, Kennedy climbed through the window and darted down the fire escape in swift pursuit.

The Clutching Hand, however, managed to elude capture again.

While these exciting events were occurring in Bennett's office some queer doings were in progress in the heart of Chinatown.

Deep underground, in one of the catacombs known only to the innermost members of the Chinese secret societies, was Tong Wah, popularly known as "the hider," engaged in some mysterious work.

Before him were eight odd-shaped Chinese vials, and from these he was carefully measuring certain proportions, as if concocting some powerful potion.

He stepped back and looked around suspiciously as he suddenly heard footsteps above. The next moment Long Sin, who had entered through a trap door, climbed down a long ladder and walked into the room.

Approaching Tong Wah, he asked, "When will the death drink be ready?"

"It is now prepared," was the reply.

A few minutes later the Clutching Hand drove up to Long Sin's house in the taxicab and, after paying the chauffeur, went to the door and knocked sharply.

In response to his knocking, Long Sin appeared on the threshold and motioned to Bennett to come in, evidently astonished to see him.

As he entered, Bennett made a secret sign and said: "I am the Clutching Hand. Kennedy is close on my trail, and I have come to be hidden."

In a tone which betrayed alarm and fear the Chinaman intimated that he had no place in which Bennett could be concealed with any degree of safety.

For a moment Bennett glared savagely at Long Sin.

"I possess hidden plunder worth seven million dollars," he pleaded quickly, "and if by your aid I can make a getaway, a seventh is yours."

The Chinaman's cupidity was clearly excited by Bennett's offer, while the bare mention of the amount at stake was sufficient to overcome all his scruples.

After exchanging a few words he finally agreed to aid the Clutching Hand. Opening a trap door in the floor of the room in which they were standing, he led Bennett down a step-ladder into the subterranean chamber in which Tong Wah had so recently been preparing his mysterious potion.

As Bennett sank into a chair and passed his hands over his brow in utter weariness, Long Sin poured into a cup some of the liquor of death which Tong Wah had mixed. He handed it to Bennett, who drank it eagerly.

"How do you propose to help me to escape?" asked Bennett huskily.

Without a word Long Sin went to the wall, and, grasping one of the stones, pressed it back, opening a large receptacle, in which there were two glass coffins apparently containing two dead Chinamen. Pulling out the coffins, he pushed them before Bennett, who rose to his feet and gazed upon them with wonder.

Long Sin broke the silence: "These men," he said, "are not dead; but they have been in this condition for many months. It is what is called in your language suspended animation."

"Is that what you intend to do with me?" asked Bennett, shrinking back in terror.

The Chinaman nodded in affirmation as he pushed back the coffins.

Overcome by the horror of the idea Bennett, with a groan, sank back into the chair, shaking his head as if to indicate that the plan was far too terrible to carry out.

With a sinister smile and a shrug of his shoulders Long Sin pointed to the cup from which Bennett had drunk.

"But, dear master," he remarked suavely, "you have already drunk a full dose of the potion which causes insensibility, and it is overcoming you. Even now," he added, "you are too weak to rise."

With a malicious chuckle Long Sin moved closer to his victim and spoke again.

"Divulge where your seven million dollars are hidden," he suggested craftily, "and I will give you an antidote."

By this time Bennett, who was becoming more rigid each moment, was unable to speak.

Slowly, and after a desperate struggle, he managed to raise one hand and pointed to his breast pocket. The Chinaman instantly thrust in his hand and drew out a map.

For some moments Long Sin examined the map intently, and, with a grin of satisfaction, he placed it in his own pocket. Then he mixed what he declared was a sure antidote, and, pouring some of the liquor into a cup, he held it to Bennett's lips.

As Bennett opened his mouth to drink it, Long Sin with a laugh slowly pulled the cup away and poured its contents on the floor.

By this time I was slowly recovering my senses in the secretary's office, where Bennett had left me in the disguise of the Clutching Hand. Elaine, the secretary and the clerks were gathered around me, doing all they could to revive me.

Meanwhile Kennedy had enlisted the aid of two detectives and was scouring the city for a trace of Bennett or the taxicab in which he had fled.

Somehow, Kennedy suspected, instinctively, that Long Sin might give a clue to Bennett's whereabouts, and a few moments later we were all on our way in a car to Long Sin's house.

Though we did not know it, Long Sin, at the moment when Kennedy knocked at his door, was feeling in his inside pocket to see that the map he had taken from Bennett was perfectly safe. Finding that he had it, he smiled with his peculiar oriental guile. Then he opened the door and stood for a moment, silent.

"Where is Bennett?" demanded Kennedy.

Long Sin eyed us all, then, with a placid smile, said, "Follow me. I will show

Shall the Proposed Amendment to the Constitution Enabling Women to Vote be Approved and Ratified

TAFT ON SUFFRAGE

Ex-President Taft contributes to the Saturday Evening Post an elaborate article on woman suffrage. He recognizes that it is coming and thinks that in the long run it will do good. He says: "The benefit it will ultimately bring will be in greater solidarity and strength to the government, because of the increase of the electorate, and in widening woman's sphere of thought and action by added interests and responsibility." But he thinks it should be delayed till women have gained more "training and experience," and until it can be shown that the great majority of women want the ballot.

It is clearly impossible for women to gain experience in voting till they are allowed to vote. No one can learn to swim before he is permitted to go into the water. The women of the twelve suffrage States had no more training or experience, before they were enfranchised than the women of the rest of the country have now; yet in every State their admission to the suffrage has brought good results and none of the predicted evils have followed.

Governor Stuart of Virginia lately told a delegation of suffragists that he had been very favorably impressed with the women of California during his recent visit to that State. They seemed to him not only attractive, but unusually able, and "exceedingly well up on public matters." He said, as reported in the Richmond Leader, that he "believed Californians were well satisfied with woman suffrage, and had heard that in some instances the woman's vote had been responsible for the defeat of undesirable candidates."

GOMPERS URGES LABOR TO HELP

Declaring that a solution of the problem of industrial freedom rests upon every toner having a role in the fixing of working conditions, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in an official bulletin, issued from New York Sept. 14, urged organized labor to fight for woman suffrage.

"Women cannot assume equal rights with free men," he said, "in the industrial struggle, while classified with idiots and irresponsibles in political affairs. The ballot cannot be long denied them. Industrial freedom is not a sex problem; it is a human problem. Men and women work side by side, and until both have a voice in the establishment of working conditions the problem will not be settled. Men workers find women workers exploited against them just as long as women are denied responsibility as members of the political society."

"As a matter of justice working women demand a right to participate in the determination of political affairs because they are affected by the determinations. The ballot will bring power because it will bring full citizenship."

"There is no easy way, but if anything in life is worth while, it is the beautiful ideal of a national individual ordering his or her life in full acceptance of the opportunities and the limitations of freedom. Protection and resignation may offer immediate relief, but they are not freedom."

"Men must join the women in the effort to solve their common problem or they will find women used against them as competitors."

"I come from the civilized State of Illinois, where women vote," said Dr. Gunsaulus, of Chicago, in the course of a recent speech, "The America of Tomorrow." Dr. Joseph S. Kornfeld, quoting these words during Suffrage Day at the Ohio State Fair, said: "Many of Dr. Gunsaulus' remarks evoked generous applause, but this one statement was received with intense enthusiasm."

I would be ashamed not to be willing to accord women the same privilege under the law that I have myself. Representative Shropshire of Tennessee.

SHUBERT THEATRE — "Experience," the wonderfully successful modern morality play which has created a veritable sensation at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, will enter upon the sixth week of a remarkable engagement next Monday night, October 4th. "Experience" is a great moral play, with a strong lesson back of the entertaining adventures of Youth, who goes forth into the world like a modern Christian in a new and up-to-date edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress." There are lively and sparkling scenes of comedy, mirth and music, together with more serious episodes which border on the tragic. The play is finely presented and splendidly acted by a strong company headed by Ernest Glendinning in the role of Youth and William Ingersoll as Experience. Matinees are given Wednesday and Saturdays.

WILBUR THEATRE — Beginning Monday evening, October 4th, Ye Wilbur Theatre announces the engagement of the piquant comedy success of all last season in New York City, "A Pair of Silk Stockings." In this delightful play Mr. Winthrop Ames, the producer will offer a company of unusual excellence and headed by a noted English comedian Mr. Sam Sothern, a younger member of the noted theatrical family of that name and a brother of our own E. H. Sothern. "A Pair of Silk Stockings" deals with the work of Cyril Harcourt, which with life in high English society. It is piquant, pleasing, but perfectly proper. It is uproariously funny, at the same time possessing that refinement and smartness that gives it social caste and an appealing charm for even the most discriminating theatre patron. Briefly the story deals with the adventures of a young married couple who "agree to disagree" over the selection of a motor car and separate.

NO

The suffrage map is a fraud. Area does not vote, and less than 10 per cent of the inhabitants of the United States live in double suffrage states.

"What makes the suffrage blue bird blue?" Asked little robin red. "You'll know upon November 2." The anti-suffragist said.

It is wise of the suffragists to have their Victory Parade before Nov. 2. After Nov. 2 it would need a different name.

According to the Denver (Colorado) "Post" and the "Rocky Mountain News" of July 10, 1915, 361 divorces were granted in the City of Denver from July 1 to July 10, 1915, inclusive, making an average of 32 divorces a day for eleven days.

During that same time an average of 7 marriage licenses a day were applied for.

Within the last few months, every suffrage journal, and nearly every suffrage writer has published a purported resolution by the Colorado Legislature unanimously approving suffrage as "Having inculcated a higher respect for law and order." The anti-suffragists have regarded it as a joke that the only State to call on Federal troops twice in ten years to put down armed anarchy should talk about its "law and order." Now it appears, however, that the suffrage resolution was shelved, and that the report was a fake put out by the suffragists.

In a letter to Mrs. T. C. Clifford, of Pittsburgh, Hon. John B. Ramey, Secretary of State for Colorado, recently said:

"Some time during the Session of 1915 it seems that there was a resolution before the members of the House and Senate, but it must have died a natural death for it does not show in statutes of that session."

"I also took this matter up with the Attorney General's office and they say they know nothing more about it than we do."

Reluctant to believe that the suffragists would thus deliberately fake the passage of a turned down resolution through a State Senate, the Pennsylvania Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage wrote again to Colorado's Secretary of State, and has just received the following reply:

"Campaign Manager, Pennsylvania Assn. Opposed to Woman Suffrage. 'We are in receipt of your letter dated September 1st and beg to state that the Session Laws of 1915 do not show that any resolution endorsing woman suffrage was passed by that Session of the Legislature. (Signed) John E. Ramey, Secretary of State." It thus appears clearly from the highest authority, that the suffragists attempted to get an endorsement of woman suffrage, which "died a natural death"—yet they faked its passage any how. More of their "Purified politics!"

Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, President of the National Anti-Suffrage Association, calls attention to an error in a list given out by the suffragists of Women's organizations which have endorsed their cause. The list included the American contingent of the International Council of Women, representing 7,000,000 Women. The inference could be easily drawn that the 7,000,000 had endorsed suffrage. The truth is that the National Council of Women (American) which is a part of the International Council has not only never endorsed suffrage, but has never brought the question up for discussion at its council! It is against its constitution that it should do so.

There is a suffrage sign in Cambridge which reads: "Those who oppose woman suffrage either belittle democracy or belittle women."

Thomas Jefferson is generally believed to have been a pretty good friend of democracy. He was opposed to woman suffrage.

"Nature," he said, "has marked the weaker sex for protection rather than the direction of government."

We do not think even a suffragist would go so far as to say that Daniel Webster belittled democracy, yet he felt that woman was out of place in the political arena.

"It is by the promulgation of sound morals in the community," said Webster, "and more especially by the training and instruction of the young, that woman performs her part toward the preservation of a free government." Charles W. Eliot, LL.D., President Emeritus of Harvard University; Le Baron R. Briggs, President of Radcliffe College; Senators Lodge and Weeks of Massachusetts; Senator Root of New York; Cardinal Gibbons, the Rev. Lyman Abbott, D.D., editor of the Outlook; former President Taft, Henry L. Stimson, formerly secretary of war; Miss Mabel Boardman, chairman of the National Relief Board of the American Red Cross Society; Miss Ida M. Tarbell and numerous other eminent workers for and believers in democracy do not favor woman suffrage.

The late President Cleveland was against the enfranchisement of women. Was he a belittler of democracy?

Anti-suffragists are fighting a battle for democracy. Those who belittle it are the suffragists, who fight every proposition to permit women to vote on the question whether they want to be enfranchised, and who would force the will of a small minority upon the great majority. As long as the mass of our women consent gladly to our form of government, those who rebel against it and seek to change it against the will of those women, must be classed as the enemies of democracy.

But, we are told, if anti-suffragists don't belittle democracy they belittle women. Surely that must be intended as a joke. Anti-suffragists maintain that women are citizens, that their work in the world is equal in value and importance to the work of men, that they have an opportunity as non-partisans to work for the public welfare and to accomplish results which men as politicians cannot accomplish themselves.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—An announcement that will be received with pleasure is that of the advent at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, on Thursday evening, October 7, of the dramatization of Irvin Cobb's story, "Back Home," that ran serially in The Saturday Evening Post. It was inevitable that this wonderful character of Irvin Cobb's Judge Priest should find his way to the stage. Certainly there is not in the field of modern literature a more finely drawn character than this wholesome, lovable Southern justice, the dear, old arbiter of the difficulties of his homely community. To properly present this comedy, Selwyn and Company have provided a perfect cast and splendid scenic investiture, and this first metropolitan production of the play will prove an eventful occasion.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—Sailing along merrily through its second month at the Park Square Theatre, Boston, "Twin Beds" continues its hilarious course. Many thousands have already laughed to the top of their bent at this most mirth-provoking of farces, and the throngs who attend are undiminished in numbers. There is no mystery surrounding the reason for this, for it has all the elements a farce should have, brilliancy of lines, rapidity of incidents, consistency of situations and fulsome characterizations. Then, too, the players are sterling in their ability to interpret farce, a qualification too rare in the present day. Moreover, it is that other rare avial, an absolutely clean farce. It is thoroughly wholesome, and it is absolutely the funniest play ever produced. The matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturdays.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—All records, theatrically, have been smashed completely by D. W. Griffith's mighty spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation," at the Majestic Theatre, Boston. In number of weeks this attraction completes in Boston one solid half year of consecutive performances, for this is the 26th week of its stay. It is the more remarkable if one stops to consider that the most of this time has been through the summer months when theatres are closed as a rule. It is well known theatrical history by this time that after a run of 22 weeks at the Tremont Theatre "The Birth of a Nation" was obliged to leave this playhouse, on account of the opening of the regular season on Labor Day, and a new home was found at the Majestic in order to meet the very pronounced public demand for a continuance of the Boston engagement.

Kilometer. A kilometer is a length of 1,000 meters, equal to 3,280 feet, or 0.621 of a mile. The kilometer is the chief unit for long distances in the metric system of measurements.

They wish to continue to specialize as women, and not be forced to imitate men. That belittling women?

The suffragist on the other hand, declares that women are slaves and chattels and parasites, and that it is only ignorance which prevents them from wanting the ballot. She maintains, as she maintained in the famous Seneca Falls Woman's Rights convention of 1848, that she can never be man's equal until she does the same thing he does, has the same education and works side by side with him in the trades, the professions and in government. To maintain that only men's occupations are important is certainly to belittle not only woman's work, but women themselves.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Association management has been asked a number of times why they have not flooded the athletic field during the winter months to make a skating rink for the boys and young men of the community. It has also been suggested that the rink be open at suitable times for girls and ladies. The Association this year would gladly undertake to flood the field and supervise, provided enough interest is taken in the project by the people of the community. A small fee could be charged to those using the rink to cover the additional expense. We should be glad to hear from those in the community who would favor a safe place for children to skate and also a place where the older ones might enjoy themselves during the evening without having to go a long distance.

Mr. Leslie Hamel, a graduate of the University of Maine, and a member of last year's varsity football team, has been secured as assistant physical director. Mr. Hamel comes here with a wealth of experience in athletic sports and work with boys, having served as a leader at the Y. M. C. A. State Camp at Friendship, Maine, where he was very popular. He comes highly recommended from the Y. M. C. A. State Office.

MR. BLAKEMORE A CANDIDATE

Mr. Arthur W. Blakemore of Park street, Newton, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for mayor at the city primary to be held November 23rd. As nominations for this primary close before the state election, it is probable that our state and city politics will run together this fall. Mr. Blakemore has served as president of the board of aldermen and was one of the most useful members of that body during his service of five years. He has a thorough knowledge of city affairs and is a man of ability and strength.

Alderman Abbott B. Rice of Newton Centre is said to be a candidate for the office and Mayor Childs may also endeavor to capture the Republican nomination.

to be approved and returned to the applicant if found correct. After examination and approval by the inspector, a permit to build is issued, on a large-sized card, which must be attached to the building as it is being erected in order to show that proper authority is being exercised. There are usually three inspections, one of the foundations, another when the frame has been erected and a third just before lothing is to begin. The Building permit attached to the structure has places for rubber stamps carried by the Plumbing Inspector, the Chief of Fire Department (for electrical construction) and the inspector of buildings, and these stamps are attached as the work proceeds and is inspected. The final building inspection before lothing is largely to see that proper fire stops of brick and mortar or of concrete have been placed all around the building, between the floors at each story, and around the stairways, and at such other points as the Building Code requires. While the building is under construction, the plumbing work is inspected by the inspector of plumbing, who is connected with this department. Application is made for a plumbing permit, with sketch showing the details of the work, and after a permit has been issued, there is usually more or less consultation with the inspector as to the best methods of running the pipes. When the main stack and branches of the plumbing have been erected, the inspector makes what is called a water test, the pipe being filled with water to a point above the highest fixture and thoroughly examined for leaks and imperfections. The law requiring a self testing seal joint at the base of all water closets is also strictly fulfilled. 628 plumbing permits were issued during last year.

A recent change in the Building Code requiring non combustible roof coverings, otherwise known as the "shingle ordinance" has been the subject of much public discussion and has placed a large amount of responsibility on the department. With something like 30 varieties of so called fire resisting shingles, it has been something of a task to determine just what kinds are really of use. For this purpose, the department has fitted up a "shingle" laboratory, probably the first of its kind in the country, where the fire resisting qualities of shingle can be determined. The tests cover the fire resisting and wearing qualities, the character of the saturant and the flexibility of the shingle. Practically all of these shingles are made of wool felt with saturants of asphalt.

The fire resisting qualities are found by first burning a hole thru a board 3-8 inches thick, the time and temperature being noted, and then by attaching a test shingle to the same board at another point and noting the time and temperature needed to burn it thru. The asphalt or tar obtained during this process is saved and tested for the point of temperature at which it will flash into fire when touched with a small flame. The minimum being 425 degrees. The wearing surface is also carefully examined altho no mechanical test is made. The flexibility or curling point of the shingle is found by immersing the shingle between two pieces of brass in a tank filled with water at 77 degrees, about five inches of the shingle protruding beyond the metal. A delicate system of weights is attached to the free end of the shingle by which the pressure needed to curl the shingle is found.

The manufacturers submit their own samples for the test, and thus determine their own standard. Further tests are made from samples picked up by the inspector as he is about the city and if the samples do not come up to the manufacturer's own standard, the shingles are not allowed to be used in the city.

The Building Code gives the inspector of buildings considerable authority but also provides that there shall be a Board of Appeal, who may overrule his decisions whenever necessary, and to also approve any new form of construction or new type of material which may be introduced. During its existence, the Board has passed on less than 20 cases most of which were brought on recommendation of the Buildings Commissioner and related to new types of material or construction.

Another duty recently placed on the inspector of buildings was the new state law relative to the inspection of elevators. This has been done under direction of the inspector, there being 60 elevators in this city used for public purposes. The work must be done each year and contemplates the safety of the elevator and the licensing of the operators.

Another new duty required by state law is the supervision of garages containing not more than two automobiles. As there are about one thousand garages of this character in the city and as the law prohibits wooden floors, no direct connection with sleeping apartments, and a restriction of the amount of gasoline, it is evident that the inspector of buildings and the chief of Fire department have considerable work cut out for them. Fifty gallons of gasoline may be kept in these small garages, of which not more than 10 gallons can be kept in safety cans, with the balances in the automobiles. The department has a workshop and store room in the boiler house at police headquarters, where articles taken from the various buildings may be repaired for future use. It is used also as storage for 2nd hand material taken from buildings during repairs and which are used from time to time as needed.

Proper housing for dwellers in cities is becoming quite a problem, and it has been the purpose of this article to indicate in some slight degree the work and methods followed in this city, with the hope that our citizens may partially realize the importance and value of this department.

The members of the "Review" Staff held their first meeting Friday, September 24. Numerous plans for the managing of the school paper were discussed with Mr. Thomas, the head of the English department. It is the intention of Alfred Palmer, the chief editor, to make several improvements in the "Review" this year. The essays, poems, and humorous sketches are to be more original, and the members of the staff will see that all the jokes are made up in this school. An effort will be made to encourage the pupils to take interest in the "Review," and to make this magazine represent the best literary work of the Newton High School. Mr. Thomas expects that the "Review" of this year will excel all the previous publications. Owen Frost is the business manager. The first issue is expected to appear October 20.

Fifteen minutes Friday morning and thirty minutes Wednesday were allotted for the filling out of the students' registration blanks and program cards.

Edgar Burkhardt, who has been expected since the week of September 19, returned to school Monday. On account of the Needham game Tuesday, Coach Dickinson gave the football squad light practice Monday and Wednesday. A large part of the work consisted of signal drill. The line was considerably strengthened Monday when Burkhardt, who won his "N" in three sports last year, returned to the squad.

The team will receive its first real test Saturday afternoon when it will line up against the strong Medford High School eleven at Medford. Mr. Dickinson is fairly well satisfied with the showing in the Needham game. He says that although the players made many mistakes and gave a very poor exhibition of team-play, they really did as well as could be expected, considering their lack of experience. Mr. Dickinson expects the boys to show much better team-play in the Medford game.

The first meeting of the Girls' Debating Club, which was known last year as the Portia Club, was held in the hall Monday noon. All the high school girls were invited to be present.

The first practice of the girls' hockey team was held Monday afternoon at Cabot Park, under the supervision of Miss Flanders. The girls will practice regularly every Monday and Wednesday.

Mr. Thomas has urged all the pupils to endeavor to bring their English up to such a standard that they will be eligible for membership in the English Club this fall.

APPOINTED AT ANNAPOLIS

Congressman William H. Carter has nominated two candidates for the appointment as midshipmen to the Naval Academy at Annapolis and also nominated six alternates from the Thirteenth Congressional District. Mason Dix Harris, a graduate of Waltham High School in 1915, received the first principal appointment and Richard S. Morse of Marlboro received the second principal appointment.

The first alternate appointments have been awarded to Lawrence G. Piper of Marlboro and Addis D. Nelson of Brookline. The second alternate appointments have been awarded to Samuel A. Milliken of Holliston and Harold R. Turner of Waltham. The third alternate appointments have been awarded to William H. Dyer of Waltham and Lucius P. Collins of Brookline.

The appointments have been made as the result of a competitive examination which was held by the United States Civil Service Commission in Boston on September 2nd. Twenty candidates from the district took the examination.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE LECTURE

Fine Lecture by Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale at the Hunnewell Club

Stanley Hall, at the Hunnewell Club, Newton, was taxed to its capacity on Friday evening, when a representative audience assembled to listen to Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, the celebrated Suffrage speaker, lecture on Equal Suffrage.

It was the first in a series of October meetings which are being held in this city under the auspices of the Newton Equal Suffrage League.

Hon. Samuel L. Powers, who is a prominent advocate of Equal Suffrage, was the presiding officer, and his introductory remarks were a vigorous appeal for the support of the Equal Suffrage proposition.

Mr. Powers said that although some one had selected him to preside over the meeting, he had a feeling that there was no occasion for any one to direct the Suffrage meetings, as they always run along so smoothly. He urged all present to take pledges to appear in the Suffrage Victory Parade, which takes place on Saturday, October 16th in Boston, for he hoped that everyone would become a part of that "Triumphal March", as it is so easy to march to a winning cause, and he believes it is a cause that is bound to win, sweeping from the west to the east, and Massachusetts should now fall in line.

Mr. Powers said that he had sixteen agreements to speak on Suffrage this month, and gave two good reasons why he should not speak at the present meeting. First, that he did not believe in arguing with a woman as it might cause distress, and second that no man would want to take the time from such a charming speaker as Mrs. Hale, and he doubted if he had ever listened to a better, more interesting or more happy platform speaker.

Mr. Powers then said that it gave him great pleasure to introduce the speaker, and Mrs. Hale certainly lived up to the charming things said about her, for she held her audience captive for two hours, and received generous applause. She proved herself not only a charming speaker, but remarkably forceful, and entertaining, and brought the truth of her statements home to her hearers in a thoroughly convincing manner.

Mrs. Hale said that it is the cause and not the speaker that makes itself felt; it is so practicable. It is a question that goes back to the very beginning of life. If we did not altogether believe in Democracy as the best way, we all realize now that America has got to make Democracy good, for it is the hope of the world.

The most democratic centres in the world do not engage in warfare. She believes in the old legend "Give women the vote and with ballots she will conquer bullets."

Women are less warlike than men but they do bear the burden of war as much as the men, for women and their children suffer most cruelly from war.

They ask, will women be willing to do their duty on defense? That is a question which all history answers instantly. Women have always stood shoulder to shoulder with men when it came to defending their homes, but they have never taken part in aggressive warfare.

One of the greatest hopes of the world is democracy, for when women exercise the legitimate right to influence government, there will be less in the full bitterness of war, because they know the full value of human life. The votes, power, position and responsibility of woman are the great hopes of the world today.

What is Democracy? A status of liberty, equality, but we can think of no one as equal to another. What we mean is equality of opportunity. We should have equality of opportunity for every citizen in the United States. We have not yet got it, but we believe in it. We have the right to consider our-

ARCHERY TOURNAMENT

Championship of Eastern Association Now Taking Place at Newton Centre

The Eastern Archery Association, composed of archers and archery clubs in the Eastern portion of the United States, will hold its annual championship tournament on the Newton Centre Playgrounds Friday and Saturday of this week.

The program consists of a York round in the morning and an American round in the afternoon for the gentlemen on each day and a National round in the morning and a Columbia round in the afternoon of each day for the women. The York round consists of 72 arrows at 100 yards, 48 arrows at 80 yards and 24 arrows at 60 yards. The American round is composed of 30 arrows at 60 yards, 30 arrows at 50 yards and 30 arrows at 40 yards. The National round is composed of 48 arrows at 60 yards and 24 arrows at 50 yards. The Columbia round is composed of 30 arrows at 50 yards, 30 arrows at 40 yards and 30 arrows at 30 yards.

Shooting will commence at 9:30 in the morning. At noon there will be a picnic lunch at which the archers from other States will be the guests of the local archers, and shooting will recommence at about 2 o'clock.

A number of special events have been planned for the entertainment and amusement of the archers, but these are to be a surprise. The Newton archers are acting as hosts to the association in this tournament. The officers of the association are George Phillips Bryant, ex-National champion, of Melrose, president; C. T. Switzer of Newton, secretary and treasurer. Mr. Switzer is in active charge of the arrangements for the meeting, and the shooting upon the field will be under the control of the president of the association, who by virtue of his office, acts as field captain. Mrs. B. P. Gray will act as ladies' field captain.

STATE PRISON FOR LIFE

Charles E. Warren Guilty of Murder of Walter G. Green

The trial of Charles E. Warren for the murder of Walter G. Green, the restaurant keeper at Newton Centre last June, which began this week at the Superior Court in East Cambridge, came to an abrupt end on Wednesday, when, by advice of counsel, Warren changed his plea of "not guilty" to "guilty," and the case was taken from the jury by Judge Raymond. The sentence of hard labor for life at the State Prison, with one day solitary confinement was then given, Judge Raymond stating that as the law imposes but one sentence, there was no alternative. Warren is 23 years of age.

CAMPAIGN FOR SUFFRAGE

The third in the series of open-air meetings will be held this evening at Auburndale and Miss Edna L. Spencer will be the speaker. Monday evening, October 9th Rev. Ida C. Hultin, pastor of the Unitarian Church at Sudbury will give an address at Newton Centre. On Thursday, October 12th Miss Edna L. Spencer will speak at Waban. On Saturday, October 14th Nils Kjell Strom will speak at Newton Highlands. On Saturday, October 21st, Miss Margaret Foley, who is one of the best known speakers on Suffrage in the country, will speak in the School House at Upper Falls. On Monday, October 23rd Mrs. Marian Booth Kelley will speak at West Newton and on Monday, October 26th there will be speaking in every ward in the city.

NEWTON HOSPITAL MEETING

Officers Elected and Annual Report Read by Dr. F. E. Porter

The annual meeting of the Newton Hospital Corporation was held last week Tuesday at the Nurses' Home. The following officers and trustees were elected:

President, Mr. W. C. Bray; Vice-Presidents, Hon. George Hutchinson, Hon. Henry E. Bothfield, Mr. G. R. Pulsifer; Treasurer, Hon. A. R. Weed, Clerk, and the following Trustees: Messrs. W. H. Allen, John S. Alley, A. C. Burnett, James E. Clark, Bernard Early, C. L. Ellison, Chas. E. Kelsey, A. Stuart Pratt, J. L. Richards, F. L. Richardson, Chas. E. Riley, C. I. Travelli, H. A. Wilder, Dr. F. S. Keith, Dr. George E. May, Dr. F. E. Porter, Dr. Geo. L. West, Mesdames, H. P. Bellows, Allston Burr, G. D. Byfield, J. R. Carter, A. B. Cobb, H. B. Day, N. H. George, W. H. Gould, E. B. Haskell, C. E. Hatfield, J. T. Lodge, H. O. Marcy, Jr., E. H. Mason, G. W. Morse, E. P. Saltonstall and Miss C. A. Lovett.

The Treasurer's report showed that the Hospital was being operated at an annual deficit of from $18,000 to $20,000, of which about one-half was met by the proceeds of Hospital Sunday. The following interesting report was given by Dr. F. E. Porter:

During the past year the hospital has continued the work of improved facilities and convenience in material and medical affairs. The new chapel and morgue building is approaching completion, and a new subway runs from the basement of Founders' to the new building. Some of the buildings have been refreshed in rooms and hallways; electric group lighting has been placed in Coburn.

The question of water supply on the premises is under consideration. We are finding the laboratory and X-Ray outfits of increasing value in routine work, and the staff work out the new thought in technique with added experience as the years go on. Through the assistance of the Ladies' Aid some $200 was placed in the hands of Miss Riddle, and during the winter a Lung-motor was secured. This very practical expenditure has already been put to frequent and favorable use in resuscitating infants in Founders, and two opportunities at least have brought the Lungmotor to the Operating Room. There was a balance around $50 which afforded the opportunity of providing the Operating Room with a Thermo Cautery. This has saved a lot of time over the older methods of cauterization.

Through the energy of some of the surgeons and their friends a sum of money approaching $500 was placed in the hands of the Treasurer with which from time to time instruments have been added to the surgical outfit, also a donation to the X-Ray department. Another medical advance through the agency of Dr. Moore is in the photographic work of the orthopedic department. It is not perhaps known or even its want understood outside the workers themselves.

A day or two ago on ranging through the usual and permitted paths of the hospital I was guided to a room in the basement of Founders' where several Mazda Lights with blue globes hung on a curve behind prepared screens concentrating a thousand ohms power, on an orthopedic frame that can pose and expose any section of the body for diagnosis, study and treatment; can make photographs for filing, for publication and all purposes bearing upon an acquaintance with orthopedic work.

It will readily be noticed that medicine for many years has been more and more absorbing larger fields in chemistry, biology, bacteriology, and fine mechanics. The research laboratories of our and other countries are being devoted to the dark dead spaces that through the ages of man have remained like some geographical areas of our planet awaiting the adventurer and

EDITORIAL

So many of our good friends have criticized recent editorials in the GRAPHIC for their evident effect upon the candidacy of the editor for the Republican nomination for representative, that it seems only fair for us to state our side of the matter.

During the past fifteen years, we have endeavored to express our opinion on matters of current interest, from the sole standpoint of what we conceived to be for the public good. We have not allowed the popularity or the unpopularity of those opinions to influence us in any way, but have stated them in as sincere and frank a manner as possible. It has been our custom before the state primary to advise our readers to support the men whom we considered the best fitted for the various offices to be filled, and it did not seem to the editor that his own candidacy at the recent primary ought to change that policy. This position was taken after the most careful consideration, and is based solely on the hope and desire that our readers may know that our editorial opinions are not to be biased by their possible effect on our personal fortunes.

The Republican city and town committees of Middlesex County have an important duty to perform at the convention held next week to nominate a county commissioner in place of Mr. Williams who has withdrawn from the primary nomination which he recently won. It is not so many years since Middlesex County cast a plurality of its votes for a Democratic president and a Democratic governor and if a wise choice is not made tomorrow, there is danger that the party will be defeated for this office next year. As the representative apportionments for the next ten years will be made by the County Commissioners next year, it is of great importance that a Republican County Commissioner be elected.

Vice President Winslow and President Blanchard of the board of aldermen ought to get together and decide on the proper action to be taken on a charter objection. Mr. Winslow ruled a charter objection out of order on the recent appropriation of $2000 to establish a Bureau of Public Markets and President Blanchard allowed a charter objection to stand on exactly the same situation as applied to the city garage order. Both of these rulings cannot be right and possibly the precedents established in 1895 and 1899 when the charter was new and objections came thick and fast might be studied with profit by both gentlemen.

Mayor Childs has yielded gracefully to the request of the aldermen in the matter of recommending an appropriation for overtime in the Engineering department. This is really a victory for the new method of accounting and means that hereafter appropriations made by the aldermen must be used only for the purpose intended.

Mr. Arthur W. Blakemore announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination in a frank and candid manner which ought to attract support from all citizens who are looking for the best interests of the city.

The proposed city garage is rapidly getting on the nerves of some members of the board of aldermen. The matter has struck so many obstacles in its progress that it is hardly wise to prophesy the result.

There is ample evidence to indicate that the recent representative primary was conducted on a plane more like South Boston and Roxbury than what has been the custom in this city.

With Coolidge certain to be elected lieutenant governor, the Republican party ought to concentrate all its energies on the election of Mr. McCall as the chief executive of the Commonwealth. Governor Walsh has a fine record of "amiable inefficiency" and there is a splendid opportunity to elect Mr. McCall.

Each voter in the city will soon receive from the city clerk, a statement prepared by the city solicitor in regard to the three articles of amendment to the constitution which are to be voted upon at the coming state election.

INTERVIEW WITH SENATOR WEEKS

United States Senator John W. Weeks has given Practical Politics an interview upon national and world topics. For an hour he outlined his views upon questions in the solution of which he may be called to act as President of the United States. He declined to talk about himself.

"Will you give me your opinion upon the Anglo-French loan?" was the first query put to the Senator.

"With pleasure," he replied. "I see no reason why our people should not get this business. I should as quickly favor a loan to Germany under like circumstances as I would to France and England."

"This practice has been followed by other countries and especially by Germany."

The loan is well secured by the promise of France and England to pay, and those countries have in the United States property very much in excess of the amount of the loan.

And this led to the European situation so far as it bears upon our own politics.

"If it were not for the European war there wouldn't be any question as to the result of a general election."

"The tide during the last 18 months has been running altogether in one direction. If an election were based upon legislation and general policies of the democratic national administration I doubt if the democrats could carry one northern state."

"The country is very much affected by the Underwood-Simmons tariff," said he. "In many parts of the country where business is poor it is largely on account of this measure. If it were not for war orders I believe we would be in a state of acute industrial depression."

"When the war is over we are likely to see the greatest importation of goods and labor the country has ever seen."

"The average rate of duty under the democratic tariff measure is 11 percent against 17 1/2 percent, the lowest under the Payne-Aldrich law."

"In other words the tariff bars are down. Now at the end of the war Europe is going to bankrupt. Her people will have to work for the lowest living wage. They will sell their surplus product for less than they ever did before and will be too poor to buy the things that under the old conditions they bought from us."

"The Underwood-Simmons tariff has failed to carry out the things claimed for it. It is the poorest revenue producer ever placed on the statute books."

This indictment of the democratic tariff led to a question regarding the general dimensions of a republican national platform.

"In the first place we should enact a protective tariff law," said Senator Weeks.

"Secondly we should prepare a reasonable program of military and naval preparedness. That is to say, let us do those things which we find essential to any military or naval organization."

"We should be thoroughly prepared and equipped for defense. If there should be established a military reserve of 500,000 men by shortening the term of enlistment in the army it would be possible to support 10 men in the reserve at the cost of supporting one in the army."

"By all means establish a merchant marine. There should be no delay in forming a program that shall enable us to carry our own goods. At the same time the navy should be furnished with a suitable fleet of auxiliaries."

"We should also adopt such policies relating to business that the government will be put into the position of co-operation and assisting rather than one of coercion and restricting."

"Our policy has been to push legislation which imposes burdens on business when we should have followed policies similar to those of Germany in which government would be giving encouragement by assisting individual effort."

Having outlined the republican national platform, Senator Weeks touched upon the platform which will be placed before the voters by Massachusetts republicans.

"I predict the election of the entire republican ticket."

"I have always been in favor of biennial elections," he said, "and the short ballot too, and I am very glad to see planks advocating those things go into the state platform."

"Undoubtedly advantageous changes may be made in our constitution, and I have concluded that where people elect delegates to a constitutional convention they will choose without regard to political affiliation. I feel sure that if we are to have such a convention in Massachusetts it will be a good one."

Senator Weeks was asked to discuss the Mexican situation.

"We have no Mexican policy," he said. "So far as Mexico is concerned we are simply drifting."

"We made the first mistake by refusing to recognize Huerta."

"We should have prevented the exportation of arms and munitions of war into Mexico. We should not have sent troops into Vera Cruz for the purposes assigned."

"We should have required our ships to provide protection for Americans stranded in Tampico instead of withdrawing them and allowing the British and German ships to perform services we should have performed."

"We should have made a vigorous protest in the early days of the war against the destruction of American lives and property."

"Failure to do these things has brought about a condition of anarchy and chaos in Mexico unparalleled in the history of any country."

"This policy has left the United States in a position where it is difficult to take any action which doesn't involve us in the whole Mexican trouble."

"At the Pan-American Congress we urged Americans to invest their money in Central and South America. Mr. Bryan urged a loan for that purpose. And yet he declined to talk with those who had property interests in Mexico on the ground that they were prejudiced persons."

"No, I don't want to discuss Mr. Bryan except to say that he completely demonstrated his lack of fitness to conduct an administrative office."

"His successor, Mr. Lansing, is an excellent international lawyer. He seems well fitted to advise the President in the technical questions of diplomacy."

RESOLVED THAT WOMAN SHALL HAVE THE VOTE

It seems to me that the only answer to that question is in the affirmative. I believe we women should feel it our duty to advocate suffrage in every way possible, because there are certain existing evils which will never be eradicated until the right of vote is accorded us. We want the ballot in order to help make the world safer and saner for our boys and girls, an easier place for them to be good in.

God has implanted in every woman's heart the divine spark of Motherhood. L. some it rises to a living flame of devotion and self-sacrifice, others who may not have children of their very own, are Mothers to the Motherless and friendless, and I believe that even in our sisters of the shadows and the dark ways of life, hidden it may be beneath layers of filth and degradation the spark is faintly glimmering, waiting for a chance to shine, and so every woman must feel, if she has the ballot, she may help the children of the world, and she should not hesitate to accept the responsibility.

We mothers go down to the gates of death for our dear ones, and they come to us absolutely helpless, dependent on our care for their very existence, and we give it so gladly. Later as they grow older comes the question of food and nourishment and we give them milk and we may be giving them poison through its impurity, and food which we think is all right, but which is adulterated and doped. In our legislative halls it is very hard to pass laws against food poisoning and food cheating, and as Dr. Wiley the great food expert says: "When a law is jammed through, it is more likely to be tampered before it gets out, some little word is slipped in which lets the life out."

There is a place where we may help, by giving our support only to those men, who would make and enforce proper food laws, and as Dr. Wiley says again: "If there were no other reason for woman suffrage, this would be reason enough."

Then as our children get older, we try to teach them purity and loyalty and temperance, and before we realize it, our children are grown up and go out from us.

Our boys go into the great cities and on every street corner is a liquor saloon, with its tempting glitter and glare and from many a doorway a painted face looks out allowing, enticing, appealing to the lower part of our boy's natures, and we mothers sit at home with folded hands and uplifted prayerful eyes, asking God to deliver them from evil and lead them not into temptation.

We must rise and help to answer our own prayers. I believe God expects us to do so, by demanding the ballot in order to put down these unholy things, which are hurting our children's bodies and souls. It is hardly safe for our daughters to venture out alone, for every newspaper tells of girls seized in broad daylight even, (and there are hundreds of cases of which we never hear) and carried away into that which is worse than death, White Slavery.

That has been organized by Men for Men.

What women would uphold that terrible evil? Is there a woman who would not do everything in her power to put it out of existence and the only way in which she can do it, is by the ballot.

Then there is the curse of Child Labor. Do you know there are over two million little children working in the factories, mills and mines of America? These poor little creatures are pulled out of bed, in the cold early morning, hustled into their ragged clothing, and swallowing what little food there is for them, hurry away to their work, out of the blessed sunshine into the drudgery of ten hours' work a day. Poor helpless little ones robbed of their education, cheated of their childhood, stunted physically and mentally. In a few months, we will be eating our cranberry sauce with our turkey. In the state of New Jersey between 1000 and 1500 little children from 3 to 14 years of age are worked like slaves for five weeks or so, each year, helping to harvest this cranberry crop which adds a quarter of a million dollars in profits to the resources of the State annually. They are kept at work nine hours or more a day and often seven days a week. If our cranberry sauce sometimes tastes a trifle bitter it may be that the berries that go to make up the sauce are from the

The Milk that's best by Government test

ONCE each year the National Dairy Show is held in Chicago.

The United States government holds a contest open to every Milk producer and dealer throughout the country. Medals and Banners are offered to those who produce the best Milk.

H. P. Hood & Son's have won the Gold Medal and Highest Honors four times in National Competition—And the United States Government did the judging.

That's why you so often hear from competing Milk dealers that their Milk is as good as Hood's—is it any wonder that they quote Hood's as a standard?

The Government has settled the quality question.

Perfect pasteurization guarantees its safety. It costs no more than unsafe Milk.

Order from our salesmen;

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

CANNING VEGETABLES.

WHEN vegetables are cheap and abundant they may be canned for winter use. The process is not a difficult one, and, thanks to it, the housewife may be assured of pure canned goods at a minimum of cost.

An Easy Method.

Canned Beans.—Butter, wax and string beans may be put up in this way. Beans must be tender. Cut off stem of the beans, but do not break. Select wide mouthed jars. Wash beans in cold water. Pack into jars, placing the beans full length in jar. For a quart jar add one teaspoonful of table salt. Fill jar with cold water nearly full, leaving about one-quarter to one-half inch for steam, so as not to break jar. Put on cover, put in washboiler, having cold water to neck of jar, and boil between two hours and a half and three hours. Place strips of wood in bottom of boiler under jars. Jars must be air tight.

Preserving the Flavor.

Canned Beets.—Select small, perfect beets, wash carefully without bruising or cutting, cover with cold water and cook until tender. When tender turn off the hot water and pour on cold. Skin the beets, using the fingers to slip off the skin, and not a knife and fork. Then pack carefully in sterilized jars and cover with very salty water. When quite cold set the jars in a boiler of cold water to cover three-fourths of the height, boil an hour, fill up to the brim with boiling salted water, adjust rubber and top and screw tight. When quite cold set away in a cool, dry place, protecting from the light.

Economizing For Winter.

Canned Green Peas.—Be sure the peas are fresh and tender. Pack into quart jars and pour over them salt water, allowing a teaspoonful of salt to three-quarters of a pint of warm water for each quart jar. Adjust the lids of the jars without the rubbers part way and set on a rack in the bottom of a large kettle or boiler, separating the cans by cloths, ropes or wisps of hay, so that they do not touch. Pour in cold or lukewarm water, never hot, allowing the water to cover the jars three-quarters of height. Put on cover of boiler and steam three hours. Take out the jars one by one, fill to overflowing with more of the salt water kept hot for this purpose, put on the rubber and top and screw slowly air tight. Put back in boiler, adding more water, enough to immerse the jars this time. Steam one hour more, lift out and set on thickly folded paper or a board out of a draft and allow them to cool, screwing the lid tighter if possible. When quite cold wrap in coarse brown paper and set in a cool, dark place.

SEASONABLE FARE.

DINNER MENU.

Soup.
Creamed Spinach.
Mashed Potatoes.
Mutton Ragout With Macaroni.
Banana and Lettuce Salad.
Peach Cream Whip.
Coffee.

A SIMPLE dinner for the family may be prepared according to the above menu.

Creamed Spinach.—Wash, cook, drain and chop fine one-half peck of spinach. In a saucepan melt one tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-third teaspoonful of pepper and cook for two minutes. Gradually stir in three-fourths of a cupful of rich milk until smoothly thickened, add the spinach, draw to one side and simmer gently for ten minutes. Serve on toast.

Plain, but Wholesome.

Mutton Ragout With Macaroni.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a stew pan, add one tablespoonful of chopped green pepper from which the seeds have been removed and a teaspoonful of chopped onion. Cook until the onion is a golden brown. Add one-quarter of a cupful of browned flour and cook until frothy. Then stir in slowly one cupful of the liquor in which the mutton was cooked, and when thickened add one cupful of tomatoes. Season with salt, pepper, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and one-quarter teaspoonful of horseradish. Put in slices of cooked mutton, heat and turn over boiled macaroni.

Banana and Lettuce Salad.—Wash a head of lettuce, line the dish with green leaves, shred the rest of the lettuce, mix with one large or two small pared sliced bananas and a chopped hard boiled egg. Dissolve one tablespoonful of sugar and one-eighth teaspoonful of salt in vinegar. Mix and serve.

A Delicious Dessert.

Peach Cream Whip.—Sprinkle a large cupful of sliced peaches with a small cupful of powdered sugar, allowing them to stand until a thick sirup forms. Then press through a fruit sieve and pour slowly upon a pint of cream that has been whipped solid, beating constantly. Place directly on the ice to chill, and just before serving fold in the stiffly whipped white of one egg.

PECULIAR ACCIDENT

An accident which made a loud noise but did but little damage took place Sunday, when a large tank supplying compressed air for garage use, exploded in the second story of the building occupied by George E. Nichols as a garage on Washington street, Newtonville. Mr. Nichols was filling the tank at the time the accident took place but was uninjured. The explosion tore a hole in the roof and shattered the windows in the building. The damage was about $50.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—The Plymouth Theatre, Boston, opened last evening with "Back Home," a dramatization of Irvin Cobb's Judge Priest stories that have been published in The Saturday Evening Post. The play form was made by Bayard Veiller, the author of "Within the Law," and the combination of his powers of dramatic construction with Mr. Cobb's gift of humor and characterization makes a most happy and effective coalition of forces. The success of these stories of the delightful old Southern justice was universal, for nowhere in modern fiction is there a more finely drawn character than that of Judge Priest, the arbiter of the difficulties of the members of his homely community. It is a vigorous forceful plot that Mr. Veiller has woven about him, and none of the delicious quaintness of the principal character has been lost in the stage version.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—All records bid fair to be broken with "Twin Beds" the wonderful comedy triumph that is nightly filling the Park Square Theatre, Boston. Never before in the memory of theatre-goers has there appeared in Boston such an absolutely riotous comedy, and the statement that the auditors laugh their heads off makes the figurative approach very near the literal. The multitudes of incidents that have been moulded in the farce to create a laugh have been a revelation to all who have attended, for the laughter is loud and continuous from the rise of the first curtain to the descending of the last. The matinees are on Wednesdays and Saturdays with an extra matinee on Columbus day for which the seats are now selling.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—"The Case of Becky," a play which has hypnosis for its subject, will be the bill next week at the Castle Square Theatre with Miss Mary Young in the principal role, supported by the Craig Players. The play scored a remarkable success in New York where it was originally produced by David Belasco. Miss Young will play Becky. Others in the cast will be William P. Carleton, Theodore Friebus, Betty Barnicoat, Justine Adams, Donald Meek, Mrs. Vida Croly Sidney, Al Roberts, and George Ernst.

RETIRE AS MAJOR GENERAL

After 29 years of honorable service in the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, Brig. Gen. James G. White, Commissary General, has retired with the rank of Major General, the highest rank in the gift of the Governor.

General White was a graduate of the 1st Corps of Cadets, enlisting in that organization in 1886, and where he served in every grade up to sergeant major. In 1899 he was appointed inspector of rifle practice of the 1st Brigade with the rank of major, two years later he was appointed Inspector General of Rifle Practice with the rank of colonel, and in which position he did excellent work, adding no little to the present efficiency of the Militia today.

In 1907 he was appointed Commissary General with the rank of Brigadier General, and during the past eight years has most acceptably filled that very important position. He leaves the service with the regrets of every officer and man in the service, who will, however, wish him long life and happiness to enjoy his retirement. He resides on Centre street, Newton Centre.

Reid, Mrs. Clarence E. Alderman; publicity, Mrs. Harold Fuller, Mrs. Harrie R. Chamberlain.

The Corner Lights will have charge of a mystery rose garden and there will be a Doll carriage parade for the children in the afternoon. A cafeteria supper will be served at six o'clock and ice cream and cake during the afternoon and evening.

THE CHRISTIAN FORUM

The first meeting of the Christian Forum of Newton will be held Sunday evening, October 17, at Eliot Church. The subject will be "Equal Suffrage as a Moral Question." THE VALUE OF GOOD PICTURES IN THE HOME

Art is ever finding more life more love, more truth, more divinity and beauty in the world. It is not necessary that it go back to repeat the story of angel and Madonna, saint and martyr, the crucifixion and the Christ-child. It is finding other holy families, where the father tills with sturdy hands the soil, and the mother's heart continually swells with praise. It recognizes that there are saints and martyrs crowding the pathway of human sorrow in voiceless effort to comfort and bless their fellows. By picture, by heartstone, and by song, the art of the present is striving to reveal the divine meaning of life. The great end of art in the home is so as to cultivate the mind that all things shall bear an outward form of beauty and in inward form of truth. Clashing colors and protruding frames have given place to sweetness and light in pictures, where dwell harmony and peace. Fred Hovey Allen in The Countryside magazine for October.

CLASSICAL HIGH

Mr. Adams sent out announcements to all the parents Thursday morning, stating that the teachers of the school would be in their rooms from 2:30 to 4:00 on special afternoons every week. This will be done in order to help pupils who, on account of necessary absence, have become deficient in their studies.

In the first meeting of the Senior Class, the following officers were elected for the year: Forrest Davidson, president, Morris West, vice-president, Miss Jeanette Lawson, secretary, and Carlisle Frost, treasurer.

The members of the Junior Class held their first meeting Friday noon. John Starkweather was elected president. The other officers are: Miss Virginia Speare, vice-president, Sibley Litzig, secretary, and Gerald Henderson, treasurer.

Mr. Adams intends to have the Sophomore Class organize and elect officers next week.

Since the football game scheduled with Medford High School Saturday was cancelled on account of rain, the Newton team has not yet encountered any real opposition. The boys have worked hard in practice, however, and have steadily improved during the past week.

Mr. Dickinson believes that he has discovered a real halfback in Sistrion, who played a sensational game against Quincy. This boy is a natural football player, and should develop into a very consistent ground-gainer this season. A hot battle is expected next Tuesday morning, when the Newton team plays the annual game with Boston Latin.

The drawings in the girls' fall tennis tournament were posted Monday, and a few of the matches have already been played.

The candidates for the high school golf team held their first meeting in the gymnasium Wednesday noon.

Candidates for membership to the Boys' Debating Club were requested to sign slips Monday morning. The usual debates, both open and prepared, are planned for the winter, the chief event being the annual Triangular Debate between Newton, Brookline and Somerville.

The three upper classes held Assembly in the hall Wednesday morning. After the usual devotional exercises, Mr. Adams addressed the pupils upon the subject of responsibility. He explained that the school was an institution established for the purpose of making good citizens, and pointed out the fact that the co-operation of the students was absolutely necessary if the Newton High School was expected to accomplish its aim.

BUTTS-BOWKER

The wedding of Mr. Chester Chamberlain Butts of Sumner street, Newton Centre, and Miss Elizabeth Bowker, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Bowker of Toxteth street, Brookline, took place last evening in the parish house of the Second Unitarian Church of that town. The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Thomas Van Ness, D. D., pastor of the church. The bride wore white satin with lace and pearl trimmings and was accompanied by Mrs. Richardson, as matron of honor. Mrs. Richardson was in changeable pink tulle and silver lace. The Misses Julia Bowker of Brookline and Anite Butts of Newton Centre were the bridesmaids and were in pink tulle and silver lace. The best man was Mr. P. Marsena Butts of Newton Centre, brother of the groom.

A reception followed in the parish house until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Butts being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Bowker, parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Butts, parents of the groom. The ushers were Messrs. Paul P. Ayer of Belmont, Ralph E. Whitcomb of Somerville, Phillips Byfield of Newton, Edward Wilkins of Newton Centre, Richard P. Paul of Arlington, and Edward T. Richardson of Portland, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Butts will reside at 26 Brook street, Brookline.

DEFEATS QUINCY

Newton High won an easy victory over Quincy High on Monday afternoon at Cladfield Field, the score being 67 to 0. The game was played in a drizzling rain and there was but a small number of spectators present. Newton High played 25 men and Quincy had 19 in the game.

Newton High scored 10 touchdowns and six of these go to the credit of Sistrion. His ability in hitting the line on skirting the ends was a feature of the playing.

Quincy High was outwitted to the man, but played a plucky game. Quincy High was unable to keep on its feet, as well as Newton on the muddy turf and the latter's backs were enabled to tear off long runs.

Because of the rain only a handful of spectators turned out to see the game.

Vachon, Noble and Sistrion played a strong game for Newton High. The former averaged several runs, two of which averaged about 35 yards. Noble plugged the line hard and made a 25-yard run.

Burkhardt, Mitchell, Macomber, McCarthy and Nutting also did good work for Newton.

Mr. G. Norman Bankart was referee and Mr. Reginald Bankart was head linesman.

CRAWFORD-POLLARD

The marriage of Miss Joyce Elma Pollard, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Pollard, 19 Wesley street, Newton and Rev. Roy P. Crawford of Burton, Ohio, took place last Friday afternoon at the Methodist Church of Newton Centre in the presence of the immediate relatives of both parties, the father of the bride performing the ceremony. Little Miss Jean Parkinson, daughter of Rev. Dr. Parkinson, the pastor of the Methodist Church of Newton Centre, was the flower girl. The bride is a Mt. Ida graduate and a student of the New England Conservatory of Music. The groom is a pastor of a suburban church at Akron, Ohio. A wedding dinner at the Methodist parsonage followed the ceremony. Rev. and Mrs. Crawford left on a wedding trip to New York City and Washington, D. C., enroute to Akron, where they will make their home.

EATON-COOKE

Among the notable social events of the early autumn, was the wedding on Saturday of Miss Esther Denholm Cooke, a popular young lady of Newton Centre, and Mr. Sargent Flint Eaton, Dartmouth '11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin H. Eaton of Auburndale.

The bride, who is a graduate of the Ingleside School at New Milford, Conn., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allen Cooke of Newton Centre, and a granddaughter of the late William A. Denholm of Worcester, Massachusetts.

The wedding took place at the First Church of Newton, which was very artistically decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and evergreens. During the half hour preceding the ceremony, selections on the 'cello, were rendered by Mrs. Oscar Huntington, and as the bridal party assembled at the chancel, Mr. McLean, the organist, played Wagner's Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin.

The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock, by Rev. A. J. Conrad, a personal friend of the family, and pastor of the Park Street Church, Boston. He was assisted by Rev. Edward MacArthur Noyes, pastor of the First Church, Newton Centre.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore an exquisite wedding gown of white liberty satin, with Spanish lace trimmings and court train; her tulle veil was fastened with a spray of orange blossoms, and her bridal bouquet, was a shower of lilies of the valley, and bride roses. She was attended by Miss Edna L. Smith of Worcester, as maid of honor, who was attractively gowned in lavender chiffon, with trimmings of silver lace. The bridesmaids were the Misses Madeleine Everett and Harriet Sweeney of Newton Centre, Elizabeth Ash of Philadelphia, Grace Butler of Worcester, and Eleanor J. Eaton of Auburndale. As it was a rainbow wedding the bridesmaids were gowned in rainbow colors, pink, yellow, blue and green, and wore black velvet picture hats, and the effect was altogether charming. The flower girl was Miss Elizabeth Sweeney of Newton Centre. The bridegroom was assisted by Mr. Frederick C. Eaton, Dartmouth '11, of Auburndale, as groomsmen, and the ushers included Messrs. William Henderson, Dartmouth '11, of West Roxbury, Everett W. Gammons, Dartmouth '12, of Cohasset, Allen T. Wheeler, Dartmouth '11 of Boston, Edwin C. Eaton, Connecticut Agricultural College '12, and William C. Eaton, Dartmouth '17 of Auburndale. A brilliant reception was held after the ceremony at the bride's residence on Parker street. The reception rooms were decorated in a scheme of yellow and green with yellow chrysanthemums in effective combination with palms and ferns. In the receiving line with the bride and bridegroom, were Mr. and Mrs. Cooke, the bride's parents, and Mr. and Mrs. Eaton, parents of the bridegroom. Mrs. Cooke was handsomely gowned in apricot grosgrain tulle, and Mrs. Eaton wore a beautiful gown of black messaline over green satin. During the reception music was furnished by John Spalding's Orchestra.

More than 200 guests were in attendance from Worcester, Springfield, Bridgeport, Philadelphia, Boston, Brookline and the Newtons. On their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Eaton will reside at 43 Parker street, Newton Centre, and will be at home after December 1st.

MR. CROOKER DEAD

Mr. Seth R. Crooker, a retired business man, died suddenly Saturday at the home of his nephew, Mr. Harry W. Crooker, 240 Highland street, West Newton, at the age of eighty-six years. He was in his usual health the night before, but at a late hour was overcome by heart failure and did not rally. Mr. Crooker was born in Bridgewater and was the last survivor of many children of Zenas Crooker. The family lived for a long time in Brooklyn, N. Y. Seth Crooker was connected with the fire alarm manufacturing of equipment in New Haven for many years, retiring from active business life fifteen years ago, and since then he had made his home with his nephew in West Newton. He was a bachelor.

Funeral services were held from his late home on Sunday, Rev. R. T. Loring, rector of St. John's Church officiating, and the interment was at Bridgewater, Mass.

HOW NEWTON IS GOVERNED

Thirteenth of a Series of Articles Explaining the Management of the City

The Forestry department was established in 1908 on account of the devastation wrought by the gypsy moth in this city, and which had become so serious as to require immediate and drastic action. Since its establishment, the department has given its principal attention to moth work and has expended about $315,000 on this alone up to January 1st, 1915. In addition to moth work, however, the department has the charge and maintenance of the public parks and squares, school grounds, shade trees, burial grounds and the extermination of mosquitoes.

The escape of a gypsy moth from the experimental laboratory of a professor in Melrose a few years ago was the beginning of a plague in Eastern Massachusetts which equalled, if it did not exceed, some of the noted plagues of Egypt. Newton has devoted thousands of dollars to repair the damages caused by this apparently trivial incident, and has just about got the moths under control.

Work on these lines begins about the last of October, with about fifty men divided into crews of seven or eight men each, who thoroughly canvass the entire city, painting with creosote the egg clusters of the gypsy moth which are found on the trunks and branches of trees, on stone walls, underneath piazzas, steps, and plank walks, and in all kinds of debris. The tree work is the most interesting, as each pair of climbers are accompanied by one ground man whose duty it is to spot the egg clusters which are usually underneath the limbs where the climbers cannot see them and the painting is done as the ground man directs. This work continues until about May 1st when the moth begins to emerge from the egg. A few weeks later, the department begins to spray for the moth, using a solution of arsenate of lead to poison the leaves upon which the caterpillar is feeding. In this connection notices are usually posted warning the public that poison has been used in that vicinity.

The brown tail moth is handled in a somewhat similar manner, the work of cutting off the nests which are usually located on the end of branches of trees being done after the leaves fall, by the same crew which is working on the gypsy moths. The spring spraying, however, is only for the gypsy moth as the brown tail which has hibernated during the winter in caterpillar form, comes out of its nest about April 20th and makes a specialty of feeding on buds. Spraying, therefore, would have to be done at least once a week, if it was found necessary. The spectacular flight of the brown tail moths in July, when the electric light poles and adjoining trees are found plastered with white moths, is the mating season of these insects, and usually lasts for three days. After mating the flight continues for another three days, when the female moth lays her eggs and dies. A few weeks later the infant caterpillar once a week, if it was deemed that a spraying at that time usually has good results. The wind is a decided factor in the flight of the brown tail moth, especially when the surrounding communities have not been active in their extermination. The flights for the past two seasons have been comparatively small and there is ground for the hope that the pests are now under control.

The law gives the city the right to enter upon private property to exterminate the gypsy and brown tail moths and to assess the cost of the work upon the property affected to an amount not to exceed one half of one per cent of the valuation. In some cases where there are a large number of trees on unimproved land, the cost of the work will exceed this limitation and in such cases the excess is borne by the city.

Opportunity is always given the owner, to do this work himself or by a private contractor, if he wishes, although the greater part of the work in this city is handled by the Forestry department. When a private contractor is employed the work must be done to the satisfaction of the department, which furnishes an inspector free of charge. Owners will save themselves considerable trouble if they will notify the department when the work is to be done in this manner, and a prompt notice of the completion of the work will be of advantage to the owner as well as to the city. When the city men are engaged in the work they inspect every estate and if a few egg clusters are found on property presumably under the care of a private contractor, it would be assumed that the work had not been touched and the assessment would naturally follow. If the inspectors find the contract work properly done, the premises are placarded to that effect and the time of the regular crew is saved thereby. If the private work is not properly done, a notice is given the owner to remedy the matter within 30 days and if at that time the work is not satisfactory, the department does the work and makes the regular assessment therefor.

The cost of moth work is partially borne by the state, which may reimburse any municipality to one half its expenditures, above $5000. Newton receives the largest amount under this arrangement of any municipality in the state except Boston, the average reimbursement being about $5000 in supplies and $2000 in cash.

In connection with the moth work, the department also endeavors to exterminate the elm tree beetle, the leopard moth, the tent caterpillar and the various forms of scale. The law allows the work on the beetle, leopard moth and tent caterpillar to become a charge on the estate, in a similar manner to that for moth work, although the cost of this work is made secondary to that for the gypsy and brown tail.

The elm tree beetle has destroyed a large number of these beautiful trees in this vicinity, particularly in Cambridge, where the trees on entire streets have been killed. Newton has had some experience on this line, and the Upper Falls section, at the present time is about the worst in the city. The department sprays for this beetle at the same time it is fighting the gypsy moth.

The leopard moth is the hardest problem the department handles, as the damage is done by boring and the presence of the moth requires the most careful examination of the tree. The caterpillar remains in the tree for two years, growing to about two inches in length and usually honeycombing the tree so that it becomes weakened and an easy prey to other diseases. The only remedy, so far known, is to remove the dead branches and inspect the tree for the holes which the caterpillar has to make for air. When the holes are found the caterpillar is removed by a wire. The department has found the leopard moth in large numbers along Commonwealth avenue and other main avenues of traffic and is of the opinion that it is brought into the city by passing vehicles.

The department expends about $33,000 each year on Moth work, of which about $17,000 is charged to private estates. Something over $2500 is also spent on the Leopard Moth and elm tree beetle.

The charge for work on private estates is 40 cents an hour, and the department has an elaborate system showing the minutest detail of its work on every piece of property in the city.

In 1914 the department made a census of all the trees in the city standing in the streets or within six feet of the sidewalk. 15,771 trees were noted in the public streets and 16,861 as shading the streets. Of the number in the streets, 7462 were noted as in good condition, 5115 as in fair condition and 2320 as in poor condition. West Newton led in numbers having 2604, with Newton Centre second with 2374. The census also showed that 5206 trees were between 1 and 6 inches in diameter, 4276 between 7 and 12 inches, 4633 between 13 and 20 inches, 1488 between 21 and 30 inches and 168 over 30 inches.

In placing new trees on the public streets, the department believes that the best results will come from the use of the Oriental plane, the Norway maple or the European linden. These varieties are noted for their resistance to disease and insect pests, will stand pruning better than others and grow to about the right size. Of course other varieties are used when the conditions require.

The Forestry department also has charge of all the parks in the city and the small squares at intersections of streets. About $10,000 is annually expended in keeping these parks and squares in condition, cutting the grass, pruning the shrubs, and setting new plants and shrubs. The same work is done on the grounds surrounding the various school houses in the city.

The attempt to exterminate mosquitoes in this city is also a function of the Forestry department, and its efforts in this line will undoubtedly be appreciated by thousands of our citizens. With a small appropriation but little permanent work can be accomplished, as the greater part of the money must be expended for temporary measures. During the past summer one crew of men has systematically sprayed with oil the stagnant pools of water all over the city at least once a week. The oil prevents the larvae of the mosquitoes from coming to the surface to breathe. The department, however, is making some headway in the permanent work of draining the pools and swamps in the city, and thereby lessen the opportunity for the mosquito to breed. Every resident can help a little in this good work by taking care that breeding places for the mosquito do not exist on his own property.

The annual report of the Forestry department is a most interesting document, and is beautifully illustrated with half tones of scenes about the city.

POLICE NOTES

Stanley Bogochitski, aged 24, of 2312 Washington street, Lower Falls, was fined $5 and James Bozck, aged 24, of the same address, was fined $3 by Judge Kennedy Monday morning on the charge of violating a city ordinance, by throwing banana skins into the street. When the attention of Bozck was called to the fact that he was violating a city ordinance by patrollingman C. B. Carrigan on Nonantum square, Bogochitski, who was with him, declared that he, too, would throw a skin into the street, and when he did so the officer placed him under arrest. A warrant charging the neglect of wife against Bogochitski has been in the hands of the police since last August, and he was also tried on that charge. Judge Kennedy gave him a suspended sentence of three months, authorizing the payment of $5 weekly to his wife and three children.

SHUBERT THEATRE—The seventh week of "Experience" at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, starts next Monday, October 11th, and with the announcement comes the tidings that so far all efforts to extend the engagement of this remarkable drama have been fruitless. The original booking of "Experience" was for eight weeks only, the time expiring on October 23d, when other attractions booked for the Shubert are scheduled for presentation. The management of "Experience" has endeavored to purchase these contracts so that Mr. Hobart's remarkable drama can remain in Boston, but the negotiations have been fruitless. Therefore the management announces the last two weeks of "Experience" at the Shubert. The business has been so enormous, and the rush for seats has been so unprecedented, that intending patrons would do well to purchase their tickets immediately for all remaining performances. Matinees are given Wednesdays, and Saturdays and in addition a special holiday matinee is announced for Columbus Day, Tuesday, October 12th.

VOCATIONAL HIGH SCHOOL

Miss Mary A. Laselle has returned after a year's leave of absence and it is with the greatest pleasure that the faculty and pupils welcome her back to the school.

The first Senior Assembly was held in the hall on Thursday, September 23. The following class officers were elected:

Alger M. MacCready President
Joseph Waters Vice-President
Helen Rathburn Secretary
Julia Saunders Treasurer

Music was furnished by Miss Laselle and Miss Agnes Curtis.

The first meeting of the staff of the Clafin Enterprise, the school paper, was held on Friday, October 1. Plans for the second year of the paper were discussed. The members of the staff are as follows:

Alger M. MacCready, Editor-in-Chief; Louise MacCallum, Editor; Herbert E. Wheeler, Editor; Lovevella Dodge, Assistant Editor; Alphonse LaCroix, Assistant Editor; Joseph Waters, Business Manager; Marjorie Kenyon, George Major, Assistant Business Managers.

Mr. Earle L. Orvington of Newton Center gave a very interesting and instructive talk in the hall on Monday, September 27. His subject was "The Aeroplane and Its Use in the European War."

The first meeting of the Girls' Glee Club is to be held in the library on Wednesday, October 6. The leaders are Miss Laselle, Miss Agnes Curtis, Miss Elsie Kellaway and Miss Blake of the West Newton School of Music.

Miss Doris Lucas, President of the Girls' Canning Club, has called a meeting of the club members, to discuss the work for the coming year.

Mrs. Grace B. Curtis and Miss Maude M. Shippee took the Junior class in textiles on a practical shopping trip to some of the large department stores in Boston. Similar trips are to be made throughout the year.

On Monday, October 1, Reverend J. Edgar Park gave an interesting talk on "The Causes of the European War." This talk was an inspiration to all of the students.

WILBUR THEATRE—"A Pair of Silk Stockings" which Mr. Winthrop Ames presents at Ye Wilbur Theatre for the second week, beginning next Monday evening, October 11th, is one of those charmingly done and refreshingly light comedies which Mr. Ames knows so well how to do. One expects Mr. Ames to produce the comedy of manners rather than the tragedy of reality. And Mr. Ames never disappoints. Mr. Hector Trumbull, dramatic critic of the New York Tribune, in reviewing the plan on the opening night of its all season's run at the Little Theatre, in that city last year gave an excellent idea of the impression created by the play in the following: "Not only has the playwright drawn a faithful and engaging picture of that much maligned type, English gentilefolk, but he has handled a delicate situation with such a brave show of disarming British wholesomeness that our familiar Frenchy, bedridden farces appear sad stuff in comparison. Articles of woman's attire, generally completely concealed in comedy and vulgarly flaunted in farce, are disclosed to a delighted audience, fulfilling a purpose both utilitarian and artistic." There will be an extra matinee Columbus Day, October 12th.

LODGES

Fraternity Lodge, F. & A. M., will receive an official visitation next Friday night from Dr. William O. Hunt, the district deputy Grand Master with W. M. Fred M. Blanchard as district deputy Grand Marshal.

Telephone By-Ways

Hundreds of small villages, away from main-travelled roads, are readily accessible to salesmen who know how inexpensive and how easy it is to telephone these places from convenient junction points.

A telephone call is the best known substitute for a personal visit. It keeps one's personality alive. It gratifies the customer. And frequently it pays for itself a hundred-fold by the casual re-orders it induces.

There will be no toll charge on a Particular Party Call if you are not connected with the person whose name you have given to the Toll Operator.

VICTORY CAMPAIGNERS

The Eastern Division and Western Division of the "Votes for Women Victory Campaigners" will work in Middlesex County this week. Their tours have been wonderfully successful. Not only have they canvassed the votes in hundreds of towns, but they have held from one to three rallies every day in each town where they have visited.

Scores of prominent men have appeared in their automobiles, presiding at their open-air rallies or speaking. They have left behind them fine impressions and brought with them from town to town the best wishes of the best people. In all the history of Massachusetts there has never been a more honest, straightforward presentation of an important question than Equal Suffrage has been given by the Votes for Women Victory Campaigners in their two successful trips in the eastern and western sections of the State. The publicity given them by the newspapers has been greatly responsible for their success, and the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association is very desirous of thanking the editors of the suburban press for the kindly and enthusiastic way in which they have treated the hard-working advocates of Woman Suffrage.

"There is," says the New York Times, editorially, in speaking of legislation in New York State, "a continual, strong, selfish movement to give exemptions and privileges to favored classes, rich in votes."

This is very confusing. We have always understood from the Times that there was only one favored class in the community, and that was voteless.

Furthermore, that its voteless condition was what made it favored.

THE DECLINE OF CHIVALRY IN ILLINOIS

The State Board of Administration in Illinois has decreed that in future women in State institutions shall receive the same pay as men for the same work.

Thus does the ballot drag women downward.

SUFFRAGE RALLIES HELD

The campaigning is not being left to the victory campaigners sent out by the State association as was demonstrated by big suffrage rallies, conducted by the local organizations in many cities and towns, the liveliest of which was in Lynn where 200 or more gathered around the bandstand in Lynn Common and listened and applauded the several speakers for an hour.

Even the chilly blasts couldn't drive them away and though the attendance was something smaller than most of the Lynn outdoor suffrage rallies have been the suffragists declared it was one of the best.

The rally was marked by lively replies to the arguments against suffrage put forth Monday in the anti-State tour by Colonel John P. Irish of California and ex-Representative John J. Douglass of Boston.

Miss Eleanor Manning referred to Colonel Irish in this fashion:

"Just think of it! Colonel Irish has come all the way from California to fight suffrage. The first thing the colonel says is that in California I fought suffrage single-handed and alone. I hope that sinks in, 'single-handed and alone.' The colonel is but one person in 1,500,000 in California, and still he comes to Massachusetts and confesses that single-handed and alone he fought suffrage in that State.

"It looks to me as if something is the matter with the colonel if that is true. He needs to get another point of view. If he's the only one out of 1,500,000 people in California who was against suffrage he ought to be engaged by us to take the stump. He's talking for suffrage and not against it when he says that.

"And in California at any time when 32,000 voters, men and women, want to get rid of suffrage all they've got to do is to sign their names to a petition to have it resubmitted to the people, and they haven't done that yet, and they won't. They have the initiative and referendum there.

"I know why the colonel is here. You know, too. He's here because he's paid by the Anti-Suffrage Association of Massachusetts."

Then Miss Manning proceeded to go after ex-Representative Douglass and his argument that the women of Massachusetts don't want the vote because they fought the Drury bill for a straw vote by the women to determine their attitude. "If we had had a straw vote," she said, "nothing would have come of it. It is not legal to change the State Constitution by women's straw vote. It's got to be done by men. If the straw vote had been accepted by us there was nothing to assure us of getting the ballot. Besides it meant two campaigns—one to carry the straw vote our way and another to get the men to give us the vote. We wanted to make our efforts where they would count. I guess that answers our friend, Mr. Douglass."

"And say," continued Miss Manning, "the anti-s say that women don't want the vote, for they have got 33,000 women to sign petitions against it. What does that prove when we've got 125,000 women who say they do, and when cards signed by women who want the ballot are coming into our headquarters so fast every day that we can't even count them?"—Boston Post.

GOES TO SUPREME COURT

In the Superior Criminal Court at East Cambridge Saturday Judge Raymond directed a verdict of guilty to be made against the Waltham Auto Bus Company, charged with doing a jumpy bus business in Newton without a license. The company has been running an express line of jitneys between Waltham and Newton. The case will go before the Supreme Court.

NO

"The Congregationalist" in a recent issue states that "The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, supported by all its constituent bodies and by local and State federations of churches, took measures long before the Exposition opened to induce the authorities of the Exposition and the city of San Francisco to maintain a high moral tone within and without the ground."

"Both the Exposition authorities and the mayor of San Francisco insisted that it would be so, and issued public statements to that effect."

"In June the Council sent out a report from Dr. Thomas D. Elliot of the American Social Hygiene Association, showing that these promises had amounted to little or nothing."

"The Council now issues a report from Bascom Johnson, counsel of the Social Hygiene Association, who was sent to San Francisco for further investigation, which appears in full in the September issue of 'Social Hygiene.' It is far more serious than the previous one by Dr. Elliot. It says:

"Within the Exposition are several concessions, maintained despite protests specifically against them, which are deplorably vicious, portraying sexual indecencies."

"In the city itself open prostitution is allowed, and in one district Mr. Johnson says it is estimated that there are from 600 to 1000 women on duty, the policemen being there apparently to prevent anything that would interfere with the orderly and profitable traffic in vice."

"Summing up his report, Mr. Johnson says: 'In spite of announcements of officials to the contrary, San Francisco remains one of the few large cities of this country where prostitution is frankly and openly tolerated. Here also little or no effective supervision and regulation of dance halls, rooming houses, cafes and other public places where prostitutes ply their trade is provided. The natural and inevitable result has been that San Francisco has become the Mecca for the underworld, and that for every such addition to her population the problem is rendered that much more difficult.'"

These are the conditions in a city where women vote! Mr. Johnson says that the Y. W. C. A., the W. C. T. U., and other organizations of the kind have tried to improve these conditions, but have failed, as they have received little or no support from the city officials."

This is directly in opposition to the suffrage theory that women must have the vote in order that city and state officials shall pay heed to their wishes. But the thousands of disolute women in San Francisco also have the vote, and will vote as the party in power dictates! The vote of the good women is divided between the Democrats, Republicans, Progressives and Socialists, and is therefore of much less importance than the big vote which can be controlled. Dr. Helen Sumner, sent by the suffragists to study conditions in Denver several years ago, states that "The vote of these women to whom the police protection is essential is regarded as one of the perquisites of the party in power."

Why do suffragists close their eyes to these facts? Why do they spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to bring about a system which will enormously increase the power of evil in our great cities? The fact that they are doing this proves them lacking either in patriotism and in any sincere desire for social and moral betterment, or wholly unable to grasp the real results of their movement. They have made pathetic attempts to convince us that the respectable women in California really do vote in large numbers. The "Woman Citizen," a suffrage publication of California, admits that large numbers of them do not vote. In its July issue, it says:

"There are today many women in California and other states of the Union, who being enfranchised are too indifferent to vote."

"These women are loath to believe that these women—thousands of them in the United States—are aware of the wrong they are doing. We do not think they know they are shirking a fundamental duty of citizenship."

"Too many ballots are cast in the cause of dishonesty and corruption. Honest and law-abiding citizens must exert their united strength at the polls to uphold honesty and good government."

"There are too many women today who are privileged to vote, yet refrain from doing so either because they do not believe a woman should go to the polls, or because for some inexcusable reason they have neglected to register. They regard their franchise as an invitation to a bridge party, something they can accept or reject as their fancy dictates."

"The 'Woman Citizen' was an organ of the suffragists before they got the vote in California. It now sees California eating the fruit of its error in forcing the vote on its women when only a very small minority of them wanted it."

In her admirable anti-suffrage address made before the Maine legislature at the recent hearing on suffrage, Mrs. J. F. A. Merrill said:

"Gentlemen, in every community there are a handful of women who can be relied upon to carry on church and philanthropic and reform work; but we all know that the vast majority are indifferent, and that they neither help nor hinder. And then there is a third class of women—the wrongminded. They do not hinder reform work now, because they cannot."

"But, gentlemen, when you give the ballot to all women your handful of earnest women in each community, who are willing to give their time and thought to reform work, will have only their handful of ballots to cast for reform measures; your great mass of indifferent women will be indifferent still, and will omit to cast their ballots, and your very considerable number of wrongminded women will have had a weapon put into their hands which they will not omit to use against your reform measures because it is of im-dreary Jersey bogs, and their bitterness a suggestion of the sorrow and weariness of the little children who picked them. The Mothers of America have something to do there."

These three great evils seem the most glaring and horrible. The liquor traffic, white slavery and prostitution and child labor, and I believe they all could be controlled if not eliminated by the votes of the women of America."

Women may be expected to do in Massachusetts with their votes, what they have done elsewhere. Reduce infant mortality. Get more adequate appropriation for education, for play grounds and kindergartens. Open to women, positions now closed to them, solely on account of sex. Secure limited hours of work, an eight hour law for women. The only states now having such a law are California, Colorado and Washington where women vote. Protection from unguarded machinery and industrial diseases. Old age insurance. Pay of convicts to go to the support of their families instead of into the pocket of contractors."

These reforms and many others have been accomplished in states where women have the ballot, and in no other states. You can draw your own conclusions."

The women share with men the responsibility of making the world better and cleaner just as fast as we can, and voting will help us. We will be better comrades and companions for our husbands and sons if we can understand and discuss with them the great intellectual, economic, and political questions of the day. We women are too narrow, too much occupied with trivialities and petty details of social life. We need an opportunity for a larger outlook, and this would be supplied by public responsibilities, and no matter how much we shrink from these things, and hold back in our conservative New England way, Suffrage for women is making steadily, inevitably, forward, and it is for us to prepare ourselves, by study and intelligent investigation, for the wider horizons and the new view points of life which it will bring to us."

Women take but little interest in State government because suffrage, the incentive, is lacking. Give her responsibility and she will be glad to use her privilege."

Man's business does not suffer because of his voting, so the home will be but little affected by woman's suffrage. There will be those qualified to enter into public service, women with empty arms, the unmarried women, and the women who have sent their children out into the world to find homes of their own, but the masses of women, like the masses of men, will remain in their natural environment."

Julia Ward Howe asked all the ministers of the leading denominations in the four oldest suffrage States what the results were. She received over 600 answers, of which only 60 were unfavorable. The ministers were all agreed as to the good effect of the ballot on the women themselves."

We much have a voice in making the laws which protect the home. We have time for clubs and card parties, church suppers and matinees, time for the latest novel in the book Club. When we realize the importance of the greater things we will drop the lesser. I believe that home is first and foremost the place for us, but we must remember that it is the home, and not the house, that is our sphere. Our home no longer stops at our own door, but is affected in countless ways by government, pure food laws, garbage collection, cleaning, schools and playgrounds, and if we want our homes healthful we must have a voice in making the laws which protect the home."

President Lincoln says, "Yes, we have government of men, by men, for men, but we must not have government of women by men. I go for all sharing the privilege of the government who assist in bearing its burden, by no means excluding women."

Maud Ballington Booth says, "all the evils that affect the home are largely dependent upon politics. Women should have the power to deal with them."

Thomas Edison says, "Women should certainly have the vote. It is only right, and is expedient, too."

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Although nearly half a million people have already witnessed 'The Birth of a Nation' since coming to Boston six months ago, the great Griffith spectacle enters this week upon its second half year with interest unabated and with audiences undiminished. All records for continuous engagement in this city were long ago smashed by this production. Yes, far from waning, popular interest seems to grow with each added performance. The tremendous momentum generated by the six months of uninterrupted performance seems to act like a magnet, drawing large audiences to the Majestic twice a day, six days in the week. From being an issue between races, 'The Birth of a Nation' seems to have settled down to being a tremendously effective preaching against the horrors of war, either civil or international. Through the smoke of European battlefields, pictured in the daily press, can be seen in vivid retrospect, our own war zone of fifty years ago, stained by the blood of brothers.

portance to them to see to it that their way of life is not interfered with.

"So for the sake of the reform work which women have done in the past, and ought to be able to do in the future, we beg of you not to tie their hands and hamper them by giving suffrage to women."

It should never be lost sight of that those who are working for woman suffrage are working directly for bad government. Woman suffrage greatly increases the indifference, stay-at-home voter, making it easier for the vicious voters to gain control since their votes are making no difference and the enforcement of the laws. Non-enforcement breeds contempt for law and means a corrupt and weak government, which in time of strain goes to pieces. The government of Colorado has been broken down since women voted—something which has happened in no male suffrage state.

explorer in the best sense of these words. Technical branches therefore are more and more appearing; and with the steam, drive and enthusiasm of medical workers of our time more and more instrumentalism is likely to appear. Transfusion for instance has already brought several devices; in some respects simplifying the process, though the idea itself is not so new a procedure as many another. It has always been looked upon as a restorative and life giving measure, and as a resourceful last resort. It is said that young donors were found offering blood to prolong the life of Pope Innocent the VIII. He had been in failing health for some time and the doctors had resorted to all known resources, and at length conceived that young blood of healthy human stock might rejuvenate and refresh his blood, and that, too, at a period before any circulation of the blood was thought of, for he died in July, 1492.

The novelty of the year in diagnosis was a case of Pellagra. This was found in a man of 57 years old, by trade a painter. Many of his symptoms suggested Specific disease, but the prominence of bronzing over certain areas of the hands, wrists and fore arm running high up on the radial side, then shiny and scaly about the edges, weakness and staggering when he tried to stand or walk, his falling memory suggesting mental deterioration, a negative Wassermann brought doubt on the diagnosis. At a Staff council one of the physicians who had seen this peculiar bronzing at an autopsy, at once pronounced it Pellagra. This was afterwards confirmed by the Board of Health and dermatologists from Boston. There were 18 deaths in Massachusetts from this disease last year.

Perhaps the most brilliant exhibition of the treatment of disease during the year occurred in two cases of Diabetes. This disease which has commonly required some time to adjust and bring within safe limits, has been treated by dietetic balancing of the proteins with the fats; eliminating carbohydrates or reducing them to a minimum. In many instances a low per cent. of sugar remained for years.

The Allen Starvation System is now being tried out in many hospitals and remarkable results follow.

It is too early to generalize on this treatment. It is being extensively tried out in Boston and elsewhere, so that its standing as a therapeutic measure will soon be established probably.

The closing weeks of the year brought the resignation of Dr. F. G. Curtis after a long and active surgical service. This leaves but one of the original staff on active service, so that it would seem that a generation is about the full measure one hospital set of men work.

There may be more than coincidence in this. When we recall that Medicine in an impersonal sense changes many of its formulae, many new methods, new hypotheses, new truths are thrown upon the medical screen for observation and trying out, and the term of man's activities hardly permit adjusting and readjusting at least many times, before younger minds are found traveling the endless trail and filling and making new opportunities and new positions in the ranks. Our surgical and assistant surgical staff now number four. We must very soon be prepared to take on new talent and exercise and exhibit our best judgment in this matter. The situation calls up what was said many years ago at a memorial and dedication meeting in this room, viz: "I have no doubt that others equally strong and well equipped, having passed through the years of academic, technical and hospital life, with standards and ideals of public service drawn from contact with the masters of medicine and surgery in this and other lands will come forward, to sustain and maintain the fair and growing reputation of this beneficent and benevolent institution."

With these views in mind, these standards and ideals adjusted to present circumstances controlling the situation, acting without haste, I think we can take up this problem, confident of a good and true solution.

And finally, the same spirit of energy, and fine cooperation which has been manifested many years throughout the medical and surgical ranks is still on, as we face and front the coming year.

MISS SPEAR DEAD

Miss Caroline Spear, who died last Friday night at the family homestead on Walnut park, Newton, at the age of 76 years, was well known in religious and philanthropic circles in this city. She was born in Boston, October 15, 1838, and was the daughter of Edward and Abigail Fennell Spear. Miss Spear was a teacher of Latin in the Newton High School for thirty years, retiring in 1888, and was also interested with her sisters in a private school which was located for many years on Washington street, opposite the bank building. She was one of the oldest members of Eliot church, and greatly interested in charity work. She is survived by two sisters the Misses Abigail and Elizabeth Spear, with whom she made her home.

Funeral services were held at the Spear homestead on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. H. Grant Person, pastor of Eliot Church officiating. A male quartet sang "Eternal Goodness," "Just Beyond the Hills" and "Rock of Ages." The burial was in the Newton Cemetery.

CARD

The Misses Spear return sincere thanks to all the friends who, by word and deed, have given comfort and cheer to them in their time of sorrow, especially for the many beautiful floral offerings sent this week as tokens of love for their dear departed sister.

INSTALLATION, K. OF C.

Grand Knight of the Council James P. Gallagher was installed for a third term in that office at special ceremonies held Tuesday evening in Denison Hall, Newtonville attended by 200 Knights of Newton Council, and many visitors from neighboring towns.

The other officers inducted into office were: John M. Fitzgerald, deputy grand knight; Daniel A. Toomey, chancellor; James F. Hogan, financial secretary; Thomas F. Hession, recorder; John F. Gallagher, treasurer; John J. Hickey, warden; Edward L. Powers, lecturer; James R. Condren, advocate; Thomas L. Matthews, inside guard; Thomas L. Waters, outside guard; William H. Mague, William M. Cahill and William J. Connors, trustees.

District Deputy James M. Mead of Arlington was the installing officer and carried out the exercises in a most impressive manner. He was assisted by W. T. Canniff, warden; Daniel Murphy, banner bearer; Frank Lowder and Edward Sweeney, guards; John McCarthy, Frank Meagher, Edward McCarthy, John J. Flynn and L. F. McKenna, acolytes.

Following the installation exercises there were short addresses by District Deputy Mead, Rev. Daniel C. Riordan of Newton Centre, Rev. Francis Cronin of West Newton, Grand Knight William F. Madden of Waltham Council, Grand Knight W. D. Herlihy of Watertown Council, Thomas J. Kelly of Brighton and Alderman George M. Cox.

ELECTRIC HEATING PADS ARE DIFFERENT

The electric heating pad is different from anything else you ever tried for giving comfortable warmth in times of illness or distress of any kind.

It is not a heavy, soggy, smelly thing like a hot water bottle, which is not in use except in times of greatest emergency. It is soft, pliable, light, and is really a source of pleasure to the one who wants a little heat, or a continued amount of rather high heat at any time. Another nice thing is that you don't have to wait until water has been heated way down in the kitchen in another part of the house in order to get the healing effects of the warmth. Simply connect the end of the nice long cord into a lamp socket, turn on the switch, and there you have everything you want.

It is this kind of an electric heating pad that The Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston is advertising in a special sale for October at $2.95.

THANKS HIS FRIENDS

Editor Graphic:—

I wish to express to the Republican voters of Newton my appreciation of the splendid support accorded me in the recent primary election.

It was most gratifying to receive such a magnificent endorsement from every section of Middlesex County.

I wish at this time to assure my friends and those who gave me their support that if elected I shall continue to serve them as faithfully as I have in the past.

Yours very truly,
John R. Fairbairn,
Sheriff of Middlesex County.

THE NEWSPAPER COURAGE

Once in a while somebody gets the idea that the reason the local paper does not report every scandal that comes to public knowledge is because the publisher is afraid. That's not the reason. The reputable newspaper, especially in a small town where everyone is a neighbor to everyone else, takes no delight in giving publicity to those things that have brought disgrace to some family or heartache to some wife or mother. It is much more pleasant to report the good things that happen, to tell about the incidents that tend to make life more endurable, and that uplift rather than tear down, that bring joy instead of sorrow, pride instead of heartache. So if you don't always find in The Press the delectable bit of gossip that would doubtless make "good reading" and if you are inclined to blame the editor because he "doesn't print all the news," consider that some home has had enough to worry over unfortunate happenings, and that the gossip and scandal mongers of the community can and will gladly and ghoulishly give sufficient publicity to the details to satisfy the lowest tastes. Incidentally, it might be remarked here that the most complaint of censored news comes from people who have now or have had in their lives some things they are very glad were not given newspaper publicity. There come times, of course, when it is the definite business of the local newspaper to speak right out in meeting, to tell what happened to give open publicity to conditions that are a reproach to a community and for which the light of publicity seems the only cure. Tolerance is not lack of courage.—Nebraska City Press.

PUBLIC MARKETS OPEN

A New Experiment in Municipal Government at Newton Centre and Newtonville

The Bureau of Public Markets recently authorized by the city government and of which Mayor Childs has appointed Mr. Horace W. Hall as acting head, began its work Monday morning by holding markets at the junction of Beacon and Centre streets, Newton Centre and on Washington street, near Washington terrace, Newtonville. The opening of these markets had been extensively advertised by circulars to every household and by large placards posted all over the city.

The Newton Centre Market was fairly well patronized, as there were four teams and one automobile truck backed up to the curb loaded with farm produce and one team with a load of poultry. The farm teams came from Boxboro, Sherborn, South Duxbury and West Acton, the truck from Waban and the poultry from West Somerville. The ladies of the Newton Centre Woman's Club who were instrumental in urging the establishment of the market were on hand and Mr. Hall stated that about 350 people visited the market during the morning.

The prices were low for parsnips (2), carrots (2c), beets (2c), and cabbage (5c). Lettuce at 5c, squash at 3c, tomatoes at 65c a basket for 8 lbs. were average. Apples found a ready sale at 75c up to $1.50 a bushel box for A1, the cheaper price attracting the most customers. The fowl sold at 19 and 20c which is about the same price charged for Western bred poultry by any of the local markets. Comparisons of prices for poultry and apples unless quality is compared as well, has but little value.

There was but one team at the Newtonville stand, and the greater part of the 40 or 50 present were merely spectators. The prices charged were higher than the local markets in many cases, eggs selling at 55c, apples at 40c a peck, cabbages at 8c, chicken at 30c, small cauliflowers at 18-20c and squash at 3 1-2c. Mr. Clark Hayden and Mr. Gould Capon acted as supervisors at this market.

At both markets arrangements had been made to sell market baskets to the public at 20 cents each, and for delivery at the homes of the customers at the rate of 5 cents a basket and 10c for bushel box.

Between 100 and 200 deliveries were made at Newton Centre.

Mr. Hall reported but two complaints, both of which he states will be rectified at the next market day.

The markets will be open hereafter on Saturday and Tuesday mornings.

UNITARIAN CLUB

The Unitarian Club of Newton will hold its first meeting of the season next Thursday evening at Channing Church parlors. The address at 8:15 o'clock to which the public is invited will be made by Rev. Dr. C. W. Wendt on "A Summer on the Pacific Coast."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE MEETING

Miss Marjorie Dorman and Hon. Robert Luce will speak at the anti-suffrage meeting to be held Monday, Oct. 25 at 8 P. M. in Players Hall. Hon. Charles E. Hatfield will preside.

Miss Herrick is a Boston artist and illustrator. She studied for some years at the Art Students' League in New York city and later at the School of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

FOR CITY GARAGE

Wide Range of Bids Opened Wednesday at City Hall

Bids were received by the Public Buildings Commissioner on Wednesday for the proposed city garage which is planned to build on land adjoining Police headquarters on Washington street, West Newton.

Estimates were received on two sets of plans, one for a square garage, with one main entrance the cars being stored around the sides of the building, and one for an L shaped garage, with a separate door for each machine. Both buildings are planned to store 14 ordinary cars and the police patrol.

The bidders were also allowed to make supplementary bids on different types of construction.

These bids were received.

L. Gar'ge Sq. Gar'ge
T. P. Kimmitt	$13,233 $7,896
Marston, Learned	9,586 8,346
H. L. Hemenway Co.	8,739 7,983
Sanitary Eng. Co.	8,377 8,965
Beaver Con. & Eng. Co.	9,139 8,990
F. O. White Co.	8,837 8,555

These bids were on the basis of a stucco front and usual roof construction. In addition the Sanitary Engineering Co. put in bids for the L garage on the basis of a brick front and lighter roof construction of $6,280. The F. O. White Co. also put in bids of $8,674 for the L garage and $8,350 for the square garage, based on difference in construction.

The matter will have to wait action by the aldermen, and it is probable an appropriation will be made next Monday evening for the work.

The Business Men's Candidate For Mayor

Fifteen business men have served at City Hall with all three candidates for Mayor. Of these, two Democrats, Aldermen Murphy and Cox, naturally will support the Democratic candidate, Mr. Childs. Of the remaining thirteen men, who have that intimate knowledge which arises from close association of the capacities of all three candidates to serve the city, a poll shows the following results:—

TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL

It is contemplated in connection with the history work this year to specialize in current events. If the project is carried out, a large bulletin board will be placed in room 111. Upon this board will be posted newspapers, not only from Boston but from Springfield and New York, magazines, both weekly and monthly, clippings, cartoons, and other information concerning current events. There will also be outline maps, showing the regions in which interesting events have taken place.

It is also contemplated to hold a candy sale in this school within the next two weeks.

It is not yet known whether or not the Junior Class will elect officers this year. Sometimes the officers of the previous year are carried over. Because the pupils entering from the various grammar schools know so little of each other, Mr. Palmer does not wish the Freshman Class to organize until next April or May.

21ST ANNIVERSARY

The Claffin Guard Veteran Association became of age last night and celebrated its 21st birthday with a banquet at the Copley Square hotel in Boston with a good attendance. At the business meeting which preceded the dinner, these officers were elected, President, Francis G. L. Henderson, vice-president, Fred Bogardus, junior vice-president, Harry S. Storms, secretary, Major Fred P. Barnes, treasurer, Capt. A. C. Walworth.

President Henry J. McCammon was toastmaster and after an excellent dinner, interspersed with fine music rendered by Messrs. A. H. Handley, William F. Dodge, and Ernest W. Harrison introduced the speakers of the evening.

Representative Henry E. Bothfield gave a stirring talk on the Massachusetts legislature and the problems it had to face, Mayor Edwin O. Childs deprecated the tendency of the youth of the day towards "cheap fun" and suggested military drill in the High School as a step toward encouraging manliness and the habits of obedience. Capt. H. D. Cormerais of Co. C, told of his efforts to improve the Company and stated that Newton was going to have a good company of militia, whether the community supported his efforts or not. Remarks were also made by Judge J. C. Kennedy, Alderman Reuben Forknall, Capt. Walworth and J. C. Brimblecom.

EDITORIAL

The editorial page this week is under the direction of the Anti-Suffrage Association of this city. Next week, the Newton Equal Suffrage Association will have the same privilege. J. C. Brimblecom.

Less than three weeks from today the voters of Massachusetts will be called upon to decide the question of woman suffrage—the question whether all women shall be drafted into politics at the demand of a small minority, or whether they shall continue to serve the state and the race in the nobler sphere allotted them by nature, and preferred by the great majority, outside the realm of political contention. No question so important has been submitted to the people since our constitution was adopted. It is more important than the election of a Governor, a President or a Senator of the United States. These are matters of frequent recurrence, and a mistake made this year can be corrected next year, or four or six years hence, as the case may be. But the proposed amendment is revolutionary. It strikes at the vitals of our organic law, and profoundly concerns the future welfare of the state and of all within the state.

Surely it is not a question to be lightly considered by the voters. It is a fact, nevertheless, that the failure of the people to awake to its significance is responsible for the existence of woman suffrage in nearly every state where it exists. It never has been adopted in any state where more than 44 per cent. of the voters took interest enough in the issue to vote upon it. A larger vote than that has always resulted in a defeat for suffrage.

In Massachusetts every voter who goes to the polls on election day should vote on the woman suffrage amendment, and no man who has a vote should stay away from the polls. The question is too important to be decided by a minority.

Let no man be deluded by the suffrage slogan, "It's bound to come." It is bound to come only if those opposed fail to vote against it. Every evil makes progress up to a certain point, and without opposition it would be bound to prevail. Socialism would be bound to come if those opposed were too indifferent to fight it. Mormonism is spreading through the West at an alarming rate, and the Mormons think it is bound to come everywhere. It was once thought that slavery was bound to come all over the Union, and it would have come if the people had not been aroused against it by valiant leaders.

The popular defeats of suffrage in recent years in populous states, the defeats it suffered this year in the Legislatures of 23 states, and the revolt that is apparent on the part of men and women everywhere against the brazen doctrine of Feminism, of which woman suffrage is but the political phase, lead inevitably to the conclusion that the movement has reached its climax. It will be defeated this year in Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and these defeats will prove its death blow. The next step will be to repeal it in California and other states where it has been tried and found wanting.

WOMEN SUFFRAGE WILL BE BADLY DEFEATED

BY MRS. JOHN BALCH, PRESIDENT MASS. ANTI-SUFFRAGE ASSOCIATION

Woman Suffrage will be badly defeated in Massachusetts. This is admitted by suffrage newspapers, and also, privately, by suffrage leaders who are publicly predicting overwhelming victory for the political woman.

It is too early yet to give figures, because our speaking campaign has really just begun, but if the people can be sufficiently interested between now and the second day of November so that 80 or 90 per cent. of those who vote for Governor will also vote on the suffrage amendment, the proposition will be rejected by more than 100,000.

The suffragists have had an active, aggressive organization in Massachusetts since 1869. Their official organ is published here. They are well financed, and are making a desperate fight, but are meeting discouragement at every turn. A few politicians have the hardihood to declare for suffrage early in the summer, when it seemed the political thing to do, but some of these have been chastened by defeat and the others are keeping their suffrage sentiments very much in the background at present.

It was a great disappointment to the suffragists when Samuel W. McCall, Republican candidate for Governor, and a suffragist for years, refused to speak for them. They claimed State Treasurer Burrill as an ardent advocate of their cause, but in a letter to the newspapers Mr. Burrill indignantly denied having committed himself on the subject.

In the primary election every candidate for important office in either of the leading parties who made woman suffrage a prominent issue in his campaign was badly defeated. Ex-Gov. Foss and Ex-Congressman Deltrick, gubernatorial candidates, talked woman suffrage incessantly and received so few votes that they hardly figured in the returns. Mr. Guy Andrews

Why Woman Suffrage Will Be Defeated in Massachusetts

The only result of this phase of their campaign is to leave the suffragists in a very embarrassing position. Suffrage speakers have been reassuring the brewery interests, while other suffrage speakers have been promising the temperance people that votes for women would destroy the saloon. The Suffrage Association's attempt to prove an alliance between the Anti-Suffrage Association and the liquor interests led many to believe the suffragists had embraced prohibition. This was met with an official statement from the Suffrage Association, in which it declared that the suffragists were not for prohibition and not against the saloon. Thus it gave the lie to both branches of its campaign force—the branch that faces east, where the saloon interests are told they have nothing to fear, and the branch that faces west, where the temperance interests are asked to believe the saloon will go when woman suffrage comes.

Massachusetts does not need the political woman, but she does need the non-partisan, home-loving, patriotic woman who has helped in countless ways, through the very fact that she is non-partisan and outside the realm of politics, to make this state a leader in the march of progress. Less than ten per cent. of the women of Massachusetts, according to suffrage figures, are asking for the vote. The other 90 per cent. are willing to trust their husbands, fathers, brothers and sons to represent them in government as they represent their husbands, fathers, brothers and sons in the domestic sphere.

Trusting the men as we do, we look forward with confidence to the result on election day. Whether the total vote be large or small we shall win; but we hope for a large vote so that we shall not only defeat suffrage, but defeat it so overwhelmingly as to encourage the women in suffrage states, upon whom the vote was forced at the demand of a small minority, to work for its repeal.

In an interview published in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle of Oct. 4, Mrs. Frederick H. Colburn, press chairman of the San Francisco District of the Federation of Women's Clubs, wife of the secretary of the California Bankers' Association, corroborates everything Col. Irish has said with regard to the failure of woman suffrage in that state.

"I am convinced," she says, "that 80 per cent. of the women of the State do not want suffrage. The suffragists prove that themselves by keeping up the agitation here. The latest, the Woman Voters Convention, which was really the Congressional Union, was a farce and broke up in a row. The figures at the exposition gates show that the attendance was not 500 above the normal week-day totals. If it had not been for a certain curiosity to see Mrs. Belmont it would not have been as large as that. I don't believe there are fifty members of the Congressional Union here. If we had a referendum now I would vote against it the eleventh hour."

These were all hard blows for the suffragists, but the hardest of all was the refusal of the conventions of the two big political parties to have anything whatever to say on the suffrage question. These conventions are made up of elected delegates, and all candidates to be voted for at the state election, Congressmen, United States Senators, county commissioners and members of the party organization.

It would be difficult to get a more representative body than these party conventions as made up under the new primary system, and when the delegates turned a deaf ear to the arguments, threats and blandishments of the suffrage women and refused even to consider the suffrage question it was accepted by every experienced and shrewd political observer as a certain indication that the politicians of the state do not consider woman suffrage a popular issue.

During the summer months the anti-suffragist confined their efforts largely to organization work and the distribution of literature. We have now in every town and city of any importance in the state a committee of leading men who are working hard against suffrage, in cooperation with the Massachusetts Anti-Suffrage Committee, an organization of men which has been in existence for twenty years.

This organization is conducting a five-weeks' automobile tour of the state, with from ten to fifteen open-air meetings a day, addressed by Col. John P. Irish of California and other prominent male speakers, and one or two meetings every night in the large towns and cities, where addresses are made by Mrs. A. J. George, Mrs. Henry Preston White, Miss Marjorie Dornen and other leading women speakers.

These meetings are all largely attended and the anti-suffrage arguments are arousing interest everywhere. Professional suffrage hecklers are following Col. Irish and adding greatly to our success. When this campaign began the Women's Anti-Suffrage Association of Massachusetts had an organization of 33,000 women, all of voting age. During the past few months this membership has increased tremendously. Our Association now has branches in 135 towns and cities and representatives in every city, town and village in the state, and new names are coming in so rapidly that it is difficult to keep count of them.

The suffragists have attempted here, as in other states, to tie the anti-suffragists up with the liquor interests. The character of the men and women composing our organizations was so complete an answer to the liquor charge, however, that so staunch a suffrage paper as the Boston Evening Record told the suffragists they were trying to prove too much and could only injure their cause by persisting in that course.

Every Socialist and every Feminist is an ardent worker in the cause of votes for women.

The President of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association is an interview in the Boston Post, Dec. 26, 1911: "I became converted to socialism through reading Socialist newspapers."

"Woman Suffrage," says Daniel De Leon, one of the most prominent American Socialists, "must take its place as an integral splinter in the torch that lights the path of the social revolution."

Radical Socialists and Feminists, like Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Inez Milholland-Boisvain, Winifred Harper Cooley and Max Eastman, are formed as speakers on Suffrage platforms and as officers of Suffrage associations, and their most radical and unchristian Feministic and Socialistic suffrage, based upon actual experience.

"You have only to consider the position of women before and since equal suffrage. Take their legal status: before a widow could file a homestead on her husband's estate and exempt $5,000 from any debt whatever. Today a wife may be sued for alimony; she must assume responsibility and pay rent and house bills if her husband fails to do so. It is possible for a husband to run her into debt. He may even buy a ring for another woman and make his wife pay for it. A wife cannot exempt a single cent, and if her husband dies she is liable for his debts. If she acquires property later, it can be taken from her to pay the husband's creditors. If the husband goes bankrupt the wife is liable."

"This has come since women have had the franchise. Women do not begin to have the same status in law. If they are citizens they must expect that. They cannot go to court as they used to and weep a little and play upon the sympathies of a judge and jury and get a verdict."

"A large majority of business women are opposed to voting, for they feel that women do not know enough about public affairs to vote intelligently. As to what suffrage has done for women, as women, I must say that they have become pastmistresses of every bit of political trickery. They have learned the art of 'plumping' of picking one name on a ticket and voting so that the candidate who gets the woman vote will run ahead of his ticket. And still I don't believe there is a suffrage leader in the State who could state clearly the difference in principles of the national parties. They are not concerned with national issues, or principles. They are out for what they can gain."

"The effect upon the individual woman has been marked. It has put lines in her face; sharpened her temper; given her a hawk-like expression, and lowered the whole tone of the public relationship of men and women. Women now stand in the cars; they are crowded away from the ticket windows; men have ceased to remove their hats in elevators, and in other ways have altered their attitude. That is a permanent result, and it is a high price for women to pay for the right to vote. Modesty, reserve, idealism, are now represented by men."

"The thing that hurts me most is the silent, stunned, attitude of men toward women today. They look at woman as though wondering what she would do next. You see it in the attitude of employers of women, who no longer show them deference, since they now insist upon taking care of themselves. Men rush ahead of women to board cars, and it is the old-school man who opens a door or lifts his hat. These are some of the results of equal suffrage and the agitation for the equality of men and women that have come under my observation."

THE THREE TAILORS OF TOOLEY STREET

Let us not forget that it was the bitter opposition of the Suffragists that in 1913 defeated the Drury bill, which would have given the women of Massachusetts a chance to vote "YES," or "NO" on Woman Suffrage.

Similar bills were opposed by them in New York and other States.

Why?

Does any one doubt that it was because the Suffragists knew such a test would reveal how pitifully small a fraction of women really want to vote?

Suffragist demand the ballot in the name of "The Women of Massachusetts." But they have no more right to pretend to represent the Women of Massachusetts than the "Three Tailors of Tooley Street" had to petition Parliament as "We the people of the United Kingdom."

No general statement can be more emphatically true than that: Massachusetts women do not want to vote.

SUFFRAGE MAP A FRAUD

Here are some things to remember when they show you the Suffrage map and boast that 49 per cent. of the territory of the United States is Woman Suffrage territory.

Massachusetts has a population in excess of the combined populations of the double suffrage states of Wyoming, Arizona, Idaho, Utah, Montana, Oregon and Colorado!

Only 9 per cent. of Uncle Sam's inhabitants live in Woman Suffrage states.

It is one thing for territory to adopt Woman Suffrage, but quite another thing for people to adopt it.

Massachusetts has people—518.8 of them to the square mile.

The Woman Suffrage West has territory, with a man here and there and little more than half a woman to every man.

It is not territory that counts on Election Day but population.

The suffrage map is a fraud!

WOMAN SUFFRAGE, FEMINISM AND SOCIALISM

All the facts bear out the statement that Woman Suffrage, Feminism and Socialism are marching hand in hand toward "a complete social revolution."

The alliance between the leaders of the three groups is so close that it is no longer possible for the Suffragist to deny to the Feminist the public regarding it.

"One million Socialists work and vote for Woman Suffrage!" was the slogan inscribed on the red banner carried by the socialist contingent in the big Suffrage parade in Washington, D. C., in March, 1913.

Every Socialist and every Feminist is an ardent worker in the cause of votes for women.

utterances are published, advertised and sent broadcast by the National Woman Suffrage Association as arguments for Votes for Women.

And no prominent Suffragist anywhere has ever risen to repudiate the immoral and destructive doctrines of Feminism and Socialism, or to rebuke the National Woman Suffrage Association for using them in its campaign for the vote.

So close is the partnership between Woman Suffrage, Feminism and Socialism that in order to dissolve it, this is what the Suffrage associations would have to do:

Drop all their Socialist and Feminist officers, speakers and writers, withdraw from circulation all the Feminist and Socialist literature published and sent broadcast by the National Woman Suffrage Association in the effort to gain Suffrage converts, and pass resolutions repudiating the doctrines of Socialism and Feminism.

Imagine the violent upheaval in the upper circles of suffragism that would inevitably follow a serious movement on the part of Suffragists to adopt such drastic measures of reform!

Yet they must be adopted before the Woman Suffrage movement can come before the people free from the stains of Socialism and Feminism.

In view of which facts, we contend that it is impossible to vote for Woman Suffrage without, directly or indirectly, aiding the propaganda of Feminism and Socialism.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND FEMINISM

According to Mrs. Beatrice Robertson Hale, noted Suffrage speaker and writer, Woman Suffrage is an "Essential branch of the Tree of Feminism."

"Feminism," she says in her book on the subject, "is gradually supplying to women the things they most need." And among these things she mentions "Easy Divorce" and "Economic Independence."

Feminism is variously defined, but in whatever guise of words we find it we see the same ear-marks of revolt against nature and christian morals.

The Feminist is an avowed enemy of the home.

Writing in McClure's Magazine for March, 1913, Inez Milholland-Boisvain, a prominent Suffragist, foresees with delight "The beginnings of a breakdown of the artificial barriers in the way of a more natural observance of the mating instinct."

In the "Forum" for April, 1915, Lotie M. Montgomery says, among other things too indecent to quote:

"In the future, woman will make the sex laws which govern herself and they will not be uniform or written into statutes as they are now. Every woman will be a law unto herself. . . . To substantiate my statements I refer to the leading spokeswomen of the Feminist movement, i. e., Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, Ellen Key, Emma Goldman, Mrs. C. G. Hartley, and to Bernard Shaw and Ibsen."

Every name that this writer mentions to substantiate her statements as to the immoral doctrines of Feminism is the name of a Suffragist who either speaks for the Suffrage Cause, or whose writings are recommended or published and circulated by the National Woman Suffrage Association.

"The Case for Woman Suffrage," a bibliography of Suffrage literature published by the College Equal Suffrage League and sold by the National Woman Suffrage Association, sneers at the "old-fashioned" Suffrage arguments and gives the highest meed of praise to the radical writings of the most radical Feminists and Socialists.

"Too many advocates of Woman Suffrage," says "The Case" (Page 64), "insist that when woman is enfranchised she will be no less 'womanly' than before, whereas in point of fact perhaps the chief thing to be said for the Suffrage is precisely that it will make woman less womanly." In the commonly accepted sense of the term.

One cannot argue logically on Woman Suffrage without facing this fact.

The devotees of Feminism talk glibly and coarsely about "sex equality" and "sex freedom" and "sex independence"—all to be achieved with the vote.

When we remember that women are today free to do anything men are permitted to do under the law of God or man, we can understand what they mean by this coveted "equality" or "freedom" or "independence" that is to "spiritualize" and "broaden" the good women of our land.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE AND SOCIALISM

That Woman Suffrage is essential to the success of Socialism is the claim of the most enlightened Socialists. One of the cardinal principles of Socialism is that the individual and not the family should be the unit of society, and the enfranchisement of women, as Mrs. A. J. George has so clearly pointed out, is necessary to put this principle into operation.

"There are just two ways," says Mrs. George, "in which a married woman can vote—either with her husband or against him. If she votes with him she merely doubles the vote without changing the result. If she votes against him, then the family ceases to come in contact with the State as a unit—which is exactly what the Socialists want."

SUFFRAGISTS IN MASSACHUSETTS

How many women in Massachusetts desire the ballot enough to join in the demand for it?

There were in this state in 1910, according to the U. S. Census, 1,074,485 females 21 years of age and over, of whom approximately 622,000 were citizens and would be entitled to register and vote if women were given the ballot.

The Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association has been active since 1869. It has been well financed. It has had generous aid from the press. Its canvassers have gone into the highways and byways of the State in the effort to gain recruits.

Yet on June 15, the suffrage organization claimed a membership of only 58,118 females!

How many of these would be entitled to vote probably nobody knows, but that the list contains the names

UNDEMOCRATIC AND UNJUST

While fewer than 60,000 women out of 622,000 who would be eligible to vote in Massachusetts express a desire for the vote, the most undemocratic act of which the men of Massachusetts could be guilty would be to approve the Woman Suffrage amendment.

The fundamental principle of democracy is the consent of the governed.

This implies majority rule.

And as at least 90 per cent. of our women citizens, so far as we have any evidence, consent to our form of government, and express no desire for a change, it is clear that the interests of democracy demand that their wishes be considered, rather than the wishes

Socialism is rampant in all Woman Suffrage countries, and in this country it prevails out of all proportion in states where women vote.

In the Presidential election of 1912, the six New England States, with 7.1 per cent. of the population of the United States, furnished only 3.3 per cent. of the total vote for Debs, Socialist; while the six Suffrage States, with only 5.6 per cent. of the population of the country, furnished 17.7 per cent. of the vote for Debs!

Vote "No" on Woman Suffrage and curb Feminism and Socialism.

"ECONOMIC INDEPENDENCE"

"Economic independence for women" is a phase of the Suffrage question that ought to interest the working man, for it is the theory that all women, married and single, should engage in gainful occupations.

What is to become of the home and the children under "economic independence" the Feminists do not seem to know definitely. Some suggest "communal homes." Others suggest state institutions.

But all Feminists agree that the wife must be independent of her husband, because to be dependent upon him for maintenance is to be a "Parasite."

And she must be independent of the care of her children, if she elects to have any, because otherwise she can't earn her own living.

Dora Marsden in "Bondwomen," a pamphlet attacking marriage and characterizing wifehood as a species of slavery, says:

"The free woman's concern is to see to it that she shall be in a position to bear children if she wants them without soliciting maintenance from any man, whoever he may be."

"Bondwomen" was printed and circulated as a campaign document by the National Woman Suffrage Association!

Charlotte Perkins Gilman, leading Suffrage speaker and writer, in an article in "The Woman's Journal," the Suffrage organ edited by the President of the Massachusetts Suffrage Association, says:

"The woman should have as much to do in the home as the man—no more. . . . Who, then, will take care of the sick baby? The nurse, of course. . . . If the child is not seriously ill, the nurse is as good as the mother. If the child is seriously ill, the nurse is better."

It is clear from this that if the Feminist-Suffragists have their way, wives, sisters and daughters must go out into the world to compete in industry and business with husbands, brothers and sons in order to be respectable!

If they don't earn money for themselves they will be known as "Parasites" and "Bondwomen."

"It is unwholesome," says Mary Ware Dennett, "for any woman to be supported by any man."

Mrs. Dennett was formerly an officer of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association, later an officer of the National Woman Suffrage Association, and is now a member of the Board of Directors of the "Birth Control League," a race suicide organization recently formed in New York, with the Socialist paper, "The Masses" as its organ.

Under the theory of "economic independence for women," as these authorities explain it, the husband must cease to be the provider and the wife must cease to be the homemaker! Otherwise, their relations are unwholesome!

It is for the workmen of Massachusetts to consider how the operation of this abominable theory, apart from its destructive effect upon the home, would be likely to affect the labor market.

They know how hard it is now to get steady work at a living wage.

What do they think would happen if the 1,100,000 women in Massachusetts over 20 years of age were compelled, in accordance with the suffrage-Feminist theory of "independence" to go out and look for jobs?

of aliens and minors there can be little doubt, because it is manifestly impossible for the Suffragists to discriminate, even if they desired to do so, in the hurry of getting names.

We will be generous, however, and admit that they are all citizens and of voting age.

Thus we find that less than 10 per cent. of the female citizens of voting age in Massachusetts desire the vote enough to sign cards saying they are not opposed!

In other words: After forty-six years of organized, aggressive suffrage effort, at least 90 per cent. of the female citizens of voting age in Massachusetts are either actively opposed to Woman Suffrage, or so indifferent to or contemptuous of the proposition that to enfranchise them would be a grave menace to the state.

Very well. But for which women? For the 10 per cent. who demand? Or for the 90 per cent. who protest or who say nothing?

Let us by all means be just to women.

But let us be just by respecting the rights of the majority who consent to our government, for in this way we shall be just to the State and to all women, even though they may not know it—to the minority who are in rebellion.

A HOLLOW VICTORY

The Newton U. Falls Base Ball Club claims that they have won the championship of Newton by defeating the Newton Catholic Club 3 out of 5 games. What are the facts regarding the series? The first game was played in West Newton, and was won by the Falls Club, they using one of their regular twirlers. The next game was played at U. Falls and was won by the Catholic Club, a Mr. O'Brien pitching for the Falls Club. He essayed to pitch for the same club in the next game at W. Newton, and was batted out of the box, 10 runs being scored in one inning against him. This made the series two to one in favor of the Catholic Club. Altho the Falls Club had pitcher Higgins they did not choose to risk him, but went outside and secured professional twirlers for the two remaining games which they won. Eschelbach twirled all the five games, he having been the Club's twirler thru the season.

If the management of the Falls Club can derive any satisfaction from winning a series that way they are welcome to it, but don't call it winning a championship. They had no more right to use outside professional pitchers in a championship series than the Red Sox or Phillies would have had to use Walter Johnson in a World's Series. This series is a repetition of the memorable Nonantum series played a few years ago, when the Nonantum Club was represented by a nine consisting of nearly all N. E. League players in the deciding game. The only fair way to conduct a championship series is for all clubs who are to participate to sign an agreement not to use any player who had not played with them during the regular season. Until such an agreement is made, the series will be a farce.

WILBUR THEATRE — After one whole year in London and all last season in New York, Cyril Harcourt's comedy success, "A Pair of Silk Stockings," has been presented by Mr. Winthrop Ames at Ye Wilbur Theatre, Boston, where it met with instant favor. It is unfortunate that so pronounced a comedy success can remain in Boston but three weeks, but the booking arrangement made a long time ago was for that length of time, and no change can be made. Consequently, next week, beginning Monday, October 18th, will positively be the last one of its stay in Boston. Sam Sothern is a wholly delightful comedian in the role of Sam Thornhill. His methods are original, although many of his laughs depend upon stepping over obstructing furniture and the use of quaint epithets.

French Politeness.

As a polite nation the French undoubtedly lead the world, thinks a contributor to a British weekly. The other day a Paris dentist's servant opened the door to a woebegone patient. "And who, monsieur," he queried in a tender tone, "shall I have the misery of announcing?"

JANE AND THE NET

By MOLLY M'MASTER.

It was not until John Guthrie entered her life that Jane's heart was seriously affected. All unconsciously, while luring the big Scotchman into her net, Jane tripped and fell headlong into it herself. The sensation was at first startling and finally most alarming, for the Scotchman seemed perfectly oblivious to the fact that Jane was his for the asking.

Old-fashioned Polly sitting back completely enveloped in the love of Willard Wright watched the proceedings with infinite enjoyment. She and Jane had never broken the silence that spanned an interval of three months, yet Polly was perfectly aware of all that transpired in the life of her erstwhile intimate friend.

The two girls were often in the same ballroom attending the same dances, yet neither seemed so much as to know that the other was there and never by word or look conveyed the secret knowledge that each bore a gnawing pain—the pain of severed friendship.

Jane tried desperately to conceal her interest in John Guthrie, but her eyes followed his every movement. He flirted lazily and mildly with most of the girls, but most of all he hovered over the old-fashioned, soft-eyed Polly.

And Polly, looking swiftly across at Jane, smiled in such a way as to make Jane's blood stand still. Polly was going to break her lifelong habit of demure, maidenly modesty and flirt openly and shamelessly with the Scotchman.

Jane's lips curled in scorn in spite of the fear and pain that was gripping her. She knew that Polly with her absurdly trusting eyes of blue and her gentle, persuasive manner, together with the touch of alluring coquetry she was now employing, would break the heart of any man.

However, Jane had sufficient of pride and self-control to carry on her own flirtations with a very apparent supply of blindness to Polly's maneuver. Her smiles were plentiful, and no one in the ballroom suspected that her heart was well-nigh breaking. She not only regretted the fact that Guthrie found interest in other women, but more than that she lamented the fallen idol that Polly represented.

"It is all right for me to flirt," Jane told herself, "But Polly is different. Polly is far too precious a type nowadays to lose sight of. She simply must not be allowed to smear her beauty with such modern characteristics." Jane smiled wistfully at her own shortcomings, and sent a swift glance of something akin to love into Polly's eyes.

Polly was oblivious, however, and continued her tactics with renewed vim. Guthrie followed her lead until the entire number of dancers in the room realized that something unusual was in the air, for the most part they were of the opinion that it was Willard Wright who was suffering by the flirtation so clever was Jane at juggling with her emotions. She had at least concealed her hurt from the public.

She spent a sleepless night, however, thinking of the lost ideal in Polly.

The next morning, true to the in-born beauty of character that lay deeply hidden beneath the surface of lightness, Jane went into the garden and selected a wonderful cluster of pink roses. Having arranged them to her satisfaction she donned her most lovely frock and went forth to Polly's cottage.

Polly, peering from behind the casement curtains to see who entered her garden path, caught a swift breath and smiled a wondrous smile. She flew down the stairs and precipitated herself into Jane's arms. Neither girl spoke for a few seconds. Polly was the first to smother her emotion and find voice.

"You are my darling old Jane, after all—aren't you?"

"Not if you are going to turn flirt," Jane said quickly, with a soft glance into Polly's blue eyes. "I can't stand it to see you making Willard miserable."

Polly laughed softly. "What about yourself?" she queried, "and what about a certain big Scotchman with a heart of gold—doesn't he count?"

Jane looked questioning at Polly. "He does not love me," Jane said sadly. "He loves you."

"Never—silly," Polly laughed, "he and Willard and I planned the campaign against your heart. It was the only way, little flirt, to give you a good dose of your own medicine."

"The dose was too big," Jane said unsteadily. "I nearly died from it because I thought I was losing you for all time as well as my power to flirt." As an afterthought she added, "A girl can't flirt when she is really in love, you know, Polly." The blush that flew without shame into Jane's cheeks brought a swift hug from Polly's arms.

She looked happily over Jane's head and out along the path where two stalwart men were swinging toward the cottage.

"It means an early double wedding," she told Jane. "Isn't it wonderful—to be friends again?"

"We were never anything else, really," Jane made answer, and they went to the cottage door to meet Willard and the Scotchman.

BOARD OF TRADE

A well attended meeting of the Newton Board of Trade was held Monday evening at Newtonville.

The speaker of the evening was unable to be present because of illness but for all that the meeting was a most lively affair.

The subject of the new municipal markets was discussed at length and two of the Aldermen who were present, namely Messrs. Hollis and Murphy admitted that they had voted for the project. They are now of the opinion, however, that they were "buffaloed." Both said that they were led to believe the markets would be strictly wholesale and that if they continued to cater to the retail trade they would soon die a natural death. A member of the board, who resides in Newton Centre, cited instances where citizens had purchased vegetables and fowl at much higher prices than would be necessary to pay at the local stores.

Another merchant said that on pleasant days when the markets were open the farmers would get the cash, but when rainy days came it meant sixty days credit for the local merchants.

Many other members, some merchants and others laymen, spoke on the subject and a great deal of criticism was meted out. One of them was that the wares for sale were exposed to the dust and dirt of the street and another was that there seemed no way to regulate prices.

It is hoped that the Superintendent of the Markets will be present and speak at the next meeting of the board.

Plans were outlined briefly for a membership campaign to start soon with hopes of attaining a membership of 500 before the year ends.

CHRISTIAN FORUM

Sunday evening the opening meeting of the Christian Forum will be held in Eliot Church at 7.30 o'clock. This meeting marks the beginning of the fourth season in which the churches in this section have co-operated to obtain the best speakers of the country to present subjects of vital interest not only to the community itself but to the State and Nation.

The meeting for Sunday will be on the great subject of suffrage and two foremost speakers are to present their views, namely Mrs. Theresa Crowley of the Mass. Woman Suffrage Association, and Miss Marjorie Morgan of the Mass. Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

There will be a musical program rendered by the combined choirs of the co-operating churches.

The usual opportunity afforded of questioning the speakers will be given. On Nov. 14, the subject will be "The Task Imposed on American Education by the War in Europe," and the speaker will be President Alexander McKeljohn of Amherst College.

On December 12 "Shall the United States Arm for Peace?" will be discussed by Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the New York Evening Post.

All meetings will be held in Eliot Church and the general public is invited.

PURITY ICE COMPANY

The Purity Ice Company has broken ground and started the erection of their fireproof ice plant on Beacon street, Newton Centre.

The builders are Chas. E. Currier Co. of Newton and the construction will be of brick and steel throughout. The company will produce its own power and electricity from the use of oil engines.

This modern ice plant will be completed in the early spring and the delivery of ice will begin immediately after the contractors have turned over the finished plant to the company.

After a thorough investigation of all systems for producing ice by scientific means, the patented "center-freeze" system was adopted after the leading engineers of the country pronounced it the most hygienic and complete of any yet devised.

In connection with this system the drinking water of Newton will be used to make the ice, which in the process of vertical freezing absolutely eliminates the presence of all foreign, harmful, deleterious or offensive matter whatsoever.

The cakes are crystalline with a brilliancy resembling cut glass.

The wonderful center-freeze process is accomplished by the immersion of rows of hollow steel needles, called a "grid," in great tanks of pure water, on which the ice freezes clear and pure. When the needles are withdrawn a small hole is left in the ice which bears the same relation to the cake as a hole in a doughnut.

As the company has several hundred stockholders throughout the Newtons, a complete delivery system will be established to insure the ice coming to the consumer without any objectionable features. In addition, the company will use a coupon book system which will permit the consumer to regulate the quantity of ice delivered and also prevent any possible shortage of weight or other disadvantages and annoyances.

CLASSICAL HIGH SCHOOL

Assembly was held Wednesday morning, Albert Palmer, editor-in-chief of the "Review," and Carlisle Frost, business manager, spoke to the pupils in behalf of the school paper. It was pointed out that the success of the "Review" depends upon the support of the students, and all were urged to help the paper.

The first meeting of the members of the Boys' Debating Club will be held Monday, October 18.

The entries for the boys' fall tennis tournament will close this week. All names are to be given to William F. Keesler, '18. There is an entrance fee of fifteen cents.

The semi-quarterly reports, generally known to the pupils as the "five weeks" will be given out next Tuesday.

The football team will be up against some stiff work for the rest of the week. A number of the players have not been showing their best efforts in recent practice sessions, and Coach Dickinson feels that a change must take place immediately. The Somerville game Saturday, October 16, will be one of the five big contests of the season. The Somerville team showed its strength Tuesday by playing a tie game with the powerful Cambridge Latin eleven.

While Newton's victory over Boston Latin Tuesday came as a surprise to many, the Newton boys played a peculiar game. They completely outplayed the visitors in the first half, and should have scored three touchdowns, but in the last minutes of play the Boston boys came back strong and gave the home team's supporters many anxious moments. As a result of injuries received in this game, Vachon and Burkhardt have taken a day's rest, while Capt. Dorney is troubled by a wrenched knee.

Mr. Adams intends to have the sophomore Class organize and elect officers next Thursday.

Mr. Adams has advised every pupil to identify himself with at least one of the school activities. These activities, he pointed out, are numerous, including athletics, debating, an English Club, a French Club, a German Club, the school paper, and a musical club.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR

The annual reception to Rev. H. Grant Person, pastor of Elliot Church, and Mrs. Person, and Mr. Alfred W. Stone, assistant, was held Wednesday evening, in the parlors of the church which were tastefully decorated for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Person and Mr. Stone were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. Bacon.

A fine musical program was rendered by Miss Grace Manning, and the members of the quartet choir, Miss Josephine Knight, soprano, Mrs. Adelaide Griggs Bowman, contralto, Mr. Joseph Goudreau, tenor, and Mr. Frederick W. Cutter, bass, under the direction of Mr. E. E. Truette, organist and choir master.

At the table which was especially attractive in white carnations and ferns, Mrs. H. H. Powers and Mrs. C. B. Gleason poured.

The first meeting of the Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., of Newton, for the season 1915-1916 was held at the Newton Club house on the afternoon of Oct. 11th.

The regent, Mrs. Fessenden being absent, Mrs. Meserve, the former regent presiding, and in a charming manner welcome the ladies back after their separation during the summer.

The report of the annual meeting was read by the recording secretary, Mrs. Linda S. Thayer. The registrar, Mrs. F. W. Pray being absent, there was no report. A short but interesting business meeting ensued, after which three short songs were sung very acceptably by Miss Van Wagenen accompanied by Mrs. Spaulding.

Mrs. Meserve in presenting the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. A. P. Friend, a former regent, said she felt sure no introduction was necessary. Mrs. Friend read an extremely interesting paper on "The Martha Berry School" giving the ladies of the chapter a general idea of the requirements of both boys and girls for admittance. How the idea of establishing such a school first occurred to Miss Berry and on through the life of the school. After singing America a very social hour was enjoyed when refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. H. H. Haskell, Mrs. E. F. Hamlin, Mrs. F. B. Hill and Mrs. E. P. Hatch.

Making a Rug "Antique."
How "genuine antique rugs" are manufactured and prepared for European and American markets is told by a writer who visited Bagdad.

The shopping streets seem like tunnels, he writes. They are arched overhead with brick to keep out the heat; thus they run, like subways, up and down the bazaar quarter. Through those long, stifling, faintly lighted tunnels throngs the eternal crowd of men, mules and camels. Often you will see a fine rug lying flat in the filth of a narrow street, ground beneath the tramp of men and beasts; but there is method in this. Foreigners make Oriental rugs, bright and new, in Persia, and sell them through Bagdad. Since an "old rug" is worth more, wily brokers have hit on this shameful way to make a new rug look old.—National Geographic Magazine.

Poor Grandpa.
"Pa, did you ever run away when you were a boy?" "No, never." "Did you always go to Sunday school?" "I never missed a Sunday." "Did you ever do what your parents told you not to do?" "I am glad to say that I never did." "Didn't you ever make a fuss when you had to take a bath?" "I should say not. I always took my bath without complaining. I liked it." "Didn't it ever make you mad to be called in to do something for your mother when you would rather stay out and play with the other boys?" "It always gave me the keenest pleasure to do things for my mother, no matter whether I had to stop playing or not." "And did you always speak respectfully of your parents?" "Always. That was one of the first things I ever learned to do." "Gee, what a liar grandpa is."

Ashamed of Own Toes.
Man is a five-toed animal who seems ashamed of the fact. He covers his sensitive feet with leather, which turns him into an imitation ungulate, or hoofed creature, and then wonders why he has corns and bunions. He takes the spring out of the earth with his pavements and the elasticity out of his stride with hard-soled shoes, and marvels why walking has become a pain instead of a pleasure. There may be some climatic excuse for this folly in winter, and as for grown-ups at any season "the world has set its heavy yoke upon the grave and bearded folk." But give the kids, even the poor little rich kids, a chance to get their feet on the good breast of the earth.

Laughter.
Some scientists tell us that the expression of laughter is not always indicative of a physical appreciation of enjoyment, for it is well known that idiots are prone to laughter which is often without any such significance. They often show a laughing countenance, the smile being more or less stamped on their features; or they may grin, giggle or chuckle at the slightest thing. It is probable that in such cases laughter purely expresses physical contentment, rarely associated with higher or more complex ideas.

Making Nails.
At present the most improved machinery turn out nails at the rate of about 100 to 1,000 per minute, varying with their size. Wire or French nails are made from round wire, which is unwound, straightened, cut into lengths and headed by a machine either by intermittent blows or by pressure, but the pointing is accomplished by the pressure of dies. Cast nails, which are cast in sand moulds by the ordinary process, are used principally for horticultural purposes, and the hobnails of shoemakers are also cast.

Leather in Spain.
In the Barcelona district of Spain alone there are from 10,000 to 12,000 tanned and finished sheepskins produced daily, and probably as many goatskins. The sheepskins in particular find their way into the shoe trade as well as the goatskins. Both kinds, converted into morocco leather, the goatskins being the genuine article and the sheepskins the imitation, are used extensively in the bookbinding trade.

What She Was Trained For.
Mr. Slinpurs (feeling his way)—"Your charming daughter tells me that she is an excellent cook and housekeeper." Old Lady (calmly)—"Yes, I have had her carefully taught, for I have always held that no lady who does not understand housekeeping can properly direct a retinue of servants."

Logical Deduction.
"I wonder why a man loses his temper when he gets hot?" queried the typewriter boarder. "I suppose it's due to the fact that iron enters largely into the composition of the human system," replied the young medical student.

Shocked Him.
"What did the boss do when you threatened to resign if he didn't raise your pay?" "He surprised me." "How?" "He failed to show the slightest sign of alarm at the prospect of my leaving."

Handicapped.
Editor—"I wonder why Rhymer hasn't sent us any poetry lately?" Assistant—"I understand the gas company removed his meter."

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The critic of the women's clubs sometimes asks, What does all this work amount to anyway? Merely as a slight indication of what the various departments of the State Federation are working at and to show that they are in earnest and that they all have in mind one central thought, namely, the betterment of the local communities, the Club Editor is led to quote briefly from the messages of the various chairmen to the individual clubs as they appear in the October Bulletin of the State Federation.

From the Art department, "Appoint a committee to make a study of the worthy architecture, sculpture, mural decoration, paintings, etc., that may exist in your immediate vicinity and report to the State committee, that we may some day have a valuable handbook of things artistic throughout the state and country. Will you not see that your club does something to quicken art interest among its members, and in your community?"

From Civics, "At no time in the world's history has there been so vivid an object lesson in the criminal indifference of the average citizen to his public duties, as lies before us today; at no other time has the world realized so keenly that the greatest of its undeveloped resources is its women. In these two facts lie at once our opportunity and our duty."

From Conservation, "Having as our object the conserving of all natural resources upon which the comfort, convenience and happiness of the present and future generations depend, we cannot fail to be inspired to earnest effort, by the broad opportunity which lies before us."

"Every club in the state is asked to devote some part of its time during the present year to the study of intelligent shopping and marketing, and thus assist in decreasing the enormous economic waste in this country."

From the Legislative, "When the clubs allow their interest and activity to cease with the passage of a bill they defeat the purpose of the Federation. A law that is not enforced is worse than no law. What have the clubs done to enforce the Police Woman Bill?"

Space forbids further quotations at this time, but every club woman may have this monthly Bulletin of the State Federation for herself by sending the small sum of 25 cents to Mrs. Fred Richards Lufkin, 43 Summer St., Watertown. It contains all the Federation appointments for the month as well as some message from the different departments from time to time and in no better way can the club women come into close contact with the Federation than by reading this Bulletin from month to month. One copy is sent free to each club president and clubs would do well to subscribe for additional copies for the use of their respective committee chairmen. This little eight-page Bulletin should in no way be confused with the General Federation Magazine, which is, as its name implies, a large magazine devoted to the interests of club women all over the country and is indispensable for unifying club work and keeping them informed of conditions throughout the country.

Hyde Park may be reached by train from South Station at 1:25 P. M., by Tunnel train to Dudley street thence via Mattapan, changing again at Mattapan Square for Hyde Park, or by Tunnel train to Forest Hills and thence by surface car to Hyde Park. Local Happenings

The first meeting of the Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club was held on October 9 with Mrs. W. M. Mick. The club began the study of Shakespeare's magnificent tragedy, "Othello" under the direction of Miss Mary Sweeney, who introduced the members to the play in a very pleasing manner. Desdemona, a beautiful and high born Venetian maiden, is wooed and won by Othello, Iago, the villain of the play, who was Othello's ancient or ensign, has sworn enmity against his master because Cassio instead of himself is raised to the chief lieutenant. In the play Othello must not be considered as a negro, but a high and chivalrous Moorish chief. Shakespeare learned the spirit of his character from the Spanish poetry which was prevalent in England in his time. Miss Sweeney pointed out how admirable and truly Shakespearean was the introduction of Rodrigo as the dupe on whom Iago shall first exercise his art, and in so doing displays his own character.

On Monday afternoon of this week the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. met with Mrs. S. B. Whittenore, when the study of Belgium was resumed under the supervision of Miss Hyde, who very logically presented the history from the foundation of monarchy in 1830 up to the outbreak of the present war.

"Current Events" were the order of the day at the meeting of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands on Oct. 11. Mrs. Charles T. Bartlett was in charge and was assisted by Mrs. George W. Barker and Mrs. E. P. Bosson.

The Abundant Woman's Club held its first meeting of the season on Monday afternoon in the Congregational chapel. The program consisted of "Songs and Stories of Old Brittany" told and sung in costume by Mlle. Gwenn Aved. These were followed by a reception to the new members. In order to promote sociability each member wore her own name. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Mrs. W. H. Allen of Kirkstall road opened her spacious home for the annual reception of the Newtonville Woman's Guild yesterday afternoon and a large number of the members were present to renew old associations. In the receiving line with Mrs. Allen were Mrs. W. S. Higgins, the new president, Mrs. E. E. Wakefield, Jr., the new recording secretary, Mrs. J. W. Byers and Mrs. Janette Cook, who has served the club as treasurer for twenty-five years was the guest of honor. The summer atmosphere made it possible to serve the refreshments upon the porches and all the details were most carefully arranged by the Social committee and its efficient chairman Mrs. A. E. Vose. Members of this committee presided over the tables and also acted as ushers.

TRAVEL CLASS

The first meeting of the travel class of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held on Monday afternoon, October 11, at the residence of Mrs. George D. Byfield on Eldridge street, the class leader for the year; the topic studied being "The United States of America of Today." Quotations relating to our flag or our country were given in connection with the roll call. Mrs. Joseph A. McDonald gave a brief but complete history of the flag which was followed by Mrs. John R. McLean's salute to the flag in which she was joined by all present.

At each meeting two papers are given. The initial one was presented by Mrs. George Phipps whose subject on a "Trip through New England" convinced her hearers that she is one who sees things, and in a thoroughly up-to-date manner took her companions in the latest travelling conveyance—an aeroplane. Ascents and descents were made in remarkable good time enabling the tourists to review the past and look into the future as far as human eye could see.

The second period of the afternoon was filled by Mrs. James G. Patterson who treated her subject, "Manufacturers" most interestingly, following the developments of improved machinery along many lines which have made possible a supply equal to the demand. A few of Edison's most useful inventions and the improved manufacture of therapeutical instruments which are a boon to humanity were brought to the notice of the class.

HOW NEWTON IS GOVERNED

Fourteenth of a Series of Articles Explaining the Management of the City

A department of the city with which the public is little familiar, but one which is of the first importance in every well organized municipality, is that of Accounting. Radical changes have been made in this department in the past five years and it is now on a modern basis, largely due to the passage of an amendment to the city charter, some three years ago, when the office of Comptroller of Accounts was established. This official has complete supervision of all the accounting of the various departments of the city, and has very wide powers and responsibilities in the payment of bills.

The Comptroller is, in effect, the eyes and ears of the board of aldermen (the tax levying power of the city) in seeing that the executive departments expend the appropriations as the board has determined. He can withhold approval of any account which he deems unlawful, fraudulent or exorbitant, and there is no appeal from his decision except to the courts.

The Municipal Finance law of the state and the charter of the city prescribe certain methods by which department heads may incur liability in behalf of the city. In addition to the limit imposed by the appropriation itself, department heads are further limited in their expenditures by the right of the board of aldermen to "grant" certain sums from the total appropriation. This is usually done by monthly installments, although in one year, the entire budget was granted at the beginning of the year, with results which were not at all satisfactory and, it has never been repeated. The grant power of the aldermen is a relic of the method of making the yearly budget as fixed by the city charter and which has been superseded by the Municipal Finance law of the state. With the budget determined in the fall of the preceding year by the outgoing city government, the charter gave the incoming board the right to control expenditures from the budget, when it assumed office by the power to "grant." This had been found advisable because in previous years, department heads had expended the entire annual appropriation on matters of minor importance long before the expiration of the year, and thereby compelled the city government to make additional appropriations for work which it was absolutely necessary to do. When the Municipal Finance law took effect two years ago, the time for making the budget was changed from the fall to the spring, but the "grant" provision of the charter was not affected. Expenditures by city officials therefore, are limited not only to the size of the total appropriation for the year, but to the monthly action of the aldermen in "granting" its expenditure.

Department heads when incurring any liability for the city, issue an order, a copy of which must be transmitted immediately to the Comptroller, who examines it to determine if chargeable to the proper appropriations. The bills for same, when received, is then compared with the order, and after approval by the department head, is placed on a warrant, signed by the Comptroller, countersigned by the mayor and forwarded to the city treasurer for payment. An important duty of the Comptroller is to see that all payments under contracts comply with the contract conditions. It is also interesting to know that the Comptroller is under a penalty of $100 for each offence if he allows the purchase of goods made in the prisons of the state, from any other dealer than the Prison Commissioners, without a certificate stating that the Prison Commissioners cannot furnish them.

It is one of the curious turns of the law that neither the city nor the department head is responsible for the liabilities incurred in behalf of the city, if no appropriation is available for its payment. The burden of proof is always upon the person or firm which accepts the order or requisition to find out whether or not the city can, or will pay the bill. Instead of the phrase "caveat emptor" (let the buyer beware) the city business is run on the opposite principle of "caveat venditor" (let the seller beware).

The Comptroller assumed office at a time when the city was endeavoring to change over its system under direction of the state authorities. Former methods had been in force for many years and department heads and their assistants rather resented the new ways of transacting business and keeping of accounts. It was a most trying period for everyone concerned as the state system was complicated and more or less experimental at the best. The present plan based on the State's system has been worked out by the Comptroller and his assistants and is the result of considerable thought and study.

Something like 1500 accounts are kept in this office with individuals who work for the city in various capacities. It is possible from the Comptroller's books at the present time to know just how much each laborer in the employ of the city has been paid in wages for any one week, month or year.

While the Comptroller cannot interfere with executive work, it is possible for him to call attention of the mayor and other city officials to certain facts which appear from the figures on his books. The cost of crushing stone is kept in such a way that when the cost at a certain ledge appeared to be higher than that at other ledges, other arrangements for obtaining stone were made. He has also pointed out that the cost of maintaining the city stables required that a larger charge should be made for the use of city teams, than had formerly been customary.

The recent sick pay and vacation ordinance was also due in part to his examination and comparison of payrolls. One department formerly gave its employees full pay all the time they were off on account of sickness, another department gave half pay, while others gave full pay for one week and half pay for a certain period. There was no system and there was just complaint at the discrimination showed by one department over another. At the present time this matter is fixed for every department on an equitable basis.

Two illustrations of the problems confronting the Comptroller have been more or less public and the facts may be of interest in this connection. The Neagle case is probably the best known. Mayor Childs, it will be recalled, reinstated officer David Neagle in the spring of 1914, but the Comptroller refused to honor his name on the police payroll on the ground that the appropriations for that purpose had been made on the basis of a certain number of men, and that to add another officer to the roll would exceed the appropriation. An attempt to put the name on the police roll at the rate of $1200 a year after one of the officers had been retired on a pension, was also refused by the Comptroller, and when, by resignation of another officer a way was found to have Neagle's name placed on the roll, a petition of ten citizens was made to the Courts, under the statute, and the whole matter taken out of the Comptroller's hands. The most recent ruling of the Comptroller which has caused considerable excitement in City Hall circles was his refusal to allow the payment of overtime for engineering services on a sewer contract. This ruling was due to the fact that the annual budget had fixed the yearly compensation of the inspector who had put in the overtime, and the Comptroller refused to exceed the limit fixed by the city government. In this case, a city official had incurred a liability in excess of the authority as stated in the budget but wholly within his duties as established by ordinance. The Comptroller's ruling was finally recognized and the aldermen made a supplementary provision for payment of overtime of this character.

The problems which constantly confront the Comptroller are often annoying and intricate. He must determine, for instance, what supplies are for maintenance or for plant, and the line of demarcation especially in automobile supplies is often hazy and undefined and one bill of a few dollars is still unpaid in consequence.

The present system of accounting requires the establishment of a Purchasing department in order to work at its utmost efficiency. With purchases of all kinds of material and supplies by so many different city officials it is a tremendous task to keep absolute accurate track of the liabilities which are constantly accruing to each of the hundreds of different accounts of the city. Centralization of the purchasing power of the city together with the present centralization of the accounting of the city would solve many present difficulties in this department.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—At the end of its thirty-third consecutive weeks, after having played no less than three hundred and sixty times to as many separate and distinct audiences, "The Birth of a Nation" will terminate its Boston engagement on Saturday night, October 30. During this marvellous run, which long ago broke all previous records for continuous engagement, no less than 600,000 people have been numbered among the Boston audiences, which means, in other words, that the number of people who have seen the mighty Griffith spectacle equals four-fifths of the entire population of the city! Entering upon its final two weeks with interest unabated, it is probable that many thousands more will be added to the total patronage before the doors are closed upon this incomparable production. "The Birth of a Nation" has been called "the eighth wonder of the world," and certainly, in point of the atypical longevity, the term is well deserved, here in Boston.

DANCE RECITAL

Players' Hall at West Newton was filled with an enthusiastic crowd of interested spectators on Friday evening, when Miss Lillian F. Harrington, the popular dancing teacher of Newton Centre, gave a Dance Recital, illustrative of her work, her pupils' work, and the work of her associates. In aesthetic, classic, national, character, court and ball-room dancing. A well arranged program in two parts was given which contained fourteen numbers and the audience watched and applauded each number with great interest, while Miss Harrington and her pupils ably demonstrated the fact that dancing is a fine art, and not merely a pastime.

The opening number, "Amaryllis," air Louis XIII, was cleverly executed by four young ladies, the Misses Mason, Rugg, Speare, and Lovejoy; dressed in Colonial costumes with powdered wigs, they were the embodiment of grace and elegance. It was followed by a Spanish dance by Miss Harrington, Polish dance by Miss Pauline Jones, and an Arabian dance by Miss Fisher. In Native costume, which were remarkably well done.

"An Indian Theme," by Miss Harrington, was an exceptionally pretty dance, which contained many complicated steps, but was done with the greatest ease and smoothness of movement, quickness of execution, and change of position.

"Moment Musicales" was a charming dance by a trio of young ladies, the Misses Elsie Harrington, Zella Hall, and Beatrice Gingras, daintily gowned in filmy costumes of pale green with spangles, and it was most artistic, abounding in grace and beauty of motion.

In "A Shadow Dance," "To a Wild Rose," and "Humoresque," Miss Harrington was the representation of the poetry of motion and her costumes were very beautiful and effective.

Miss Hazel Sands, attractively arrayed in white and blue, with large white hat and white ribbon streams, was wonderfully graceful and pretty in "The Sun-Beam" dance, and received much merited applause. A novel feature of the entertaining program was the Chorus Dance by Miss Harrington, Miss Hall and Miss Gingras, assisted by fourteen young society girls of Newton and Boston. It was called "In a Rose Garden," and the fourteen young ladies, beautifully costumed in red and green, and pink and green, represented a bed of roses. Miss Gingras in gauzy costume, enters as a fairy, and lightly dancing around the group of stately roses, weaves a spell of enchantment about them. Slowly they come to life, and are compelled to follow the bidding of her magic wand, as she flits from flower to flower. Tiring of the sport, she beguiles them back again to their places.

"The Rose Garden" was a most gorgeous and spectacular scene, and the beauty and gracefulness of the young ladies in their fantastic poses, aroused the admiration of the spectators who signified their appreciation by rapturous and repeated applause. Miss Harrington and Miss Hall were the "Twin Tulips," and the young ladies who represented the "Roses," were the Misses Constance and Claire McGlinch, Mildred Lovejoy, Helen Rugg, Priscilla Ordway, Dorothy Eaves, Leila Remnitz, Hope Crooker, Beth B. Crooker, Bertha Whitney, Marjorie Warren, Mabel Mason, Gertrude Whittier and Beatrice Cook.

"The Waltzing Doll," minuet in G, danced with an imaginary partner, and "Gavotte Fro Mignon," were all very interesting and instructive numbers, danced by Miss Harrington, and the looker on could not but feel the beauty of emphasis and cadence in muscular motion, just as much as in the musical notes, and the graceful curves and circles of the dancer, were admirable and highly pleasing to the spectators.

A demonstration of modern dancing by Miss Pauline Chamberlain and Mr. William Chamberlain, was done with such elegance and grace that it gave the stamp of ultra-artistry and their clever performance of the modern steps was vastly interesting to the many dancing enthusiasts present, who encored them repeatedly. It was interesting to note the various phases of the modern dances, which are not really new dances, but are simply a new rhythmical adaptation of the old steps. The waltz is the basis of all the rhythms and the waltz movement is perceptible in many of the so-called new dances, when they are gracefully done. The Tango is really a most artistic dance, and its chief charm is its simplicity.

Pas de Trois by Miss Harrington, Miss Elsie Harrington, and Mr. Mayall Bruner, was among the excellent numbers, and they danced with rare skill and refinement, combining natural grace with dexterity of performance. The closing number "Ensemble Des Premiers," included Chopin's "Minute Waltz," danced by the Misses Pauline Jones, Zella Hall, Pauline Chamberlain, Beatrice Gingras, Elsie Farwell and Hazel Sands. "Puppen Valse," by Miss Gingras, Nevins' "Gavotte," by the Misses Jones and Elsie Harrington, "Polka Fantastique," by Miss Chamberlain, Miss Gingras, and Miss Elsie Harrington, "The Butterfly Dance," by Miss Harrington, and "Pas Des Quatre," and Ensemble, by the Misses L. Harrington, Elsie Harrington, Zella Hall, Beatrice Gingras, Pauline Jones, Pauline Chamberlain, Hazel Sands, and Elsie Farwell, completed a program of one of the finest exhibitions of modern and display dancing ever seen on any stage in the city, and the Misses Harrington are winning for themselves applause and esteem, because of their charming exhibition and interpretative dances, and because of their ability to instruct others. Eleven of the dances on the program were composed by Miss Harrington, seven by Miss Faulhaber, and one by Miss Alice H. Clark.

The stage setting and scenery were especially artistic making an effective background for the dances, and that greatest of aids to good dancing, namely, good music, was furnished by Russell's Orchestra, which had an elaborate and varied program of choice musical selections, prepared as accompaniment to the many phases of dancing.

Several violin solos were excellently rendered by Mr. Leo Reisman, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Russell.

During the intermission, and at the close of the exhibition dancing, the Orchestra repaired to the lower hall where general dancing was enjoyed.

CANFIELD—LIBAL

The marriage of Miss Hattie Emma Libal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Libal, of 647 Melrose St., Chicago, Ill., and Mr. Elmer Elwyn Canfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Canfield, formerly of Newton, Mass., but now of Springfield, took place Wednesday evening, October 6th, at 8:00 o'clock at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, corner of Broadway and Belmont avenue, Chicago, Ill., Rev. W. H. Heighman officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ella Maria, as maid-of-honor and the Misses Bessie Libal and Vera Von Puttkammer of Chicago as bridesmaids.

Mr. George D. Ryder of New York was best man and Messrs. Charles Larson and William Libal of Chicago and John Martin of New York ushers. Miss Gertrude Libal, the little seven-year-old sister of the bride, was flower girl.

St. Peter's Church was filled to overflowing, more than one thousand guests being present.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Canfield left on the Lake Shore special for an extended eastern trip, and upon their return, they will be for the winter, guests of the Hotel Bradley, corner Rush and Grand avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Nobody has the faintest idea when it ever, the war of competition is to cease. It may be that sometime men will live only in thoughts, not deeds—in a beatific contemplation of their own ideas. Sometime the valleys may be exalted and the mountains brought low, and we shall live on a high plateau of co-operative equality, when, to supply his wants, a man will have only to touch a button and the machinery of government will do the rest.—"Truth—Business and Political." SUFFRAGE SIGNS

There never has been any such thing as a "suffrage drift," though some very good suffragists, among others, have used the term. Suffrage progress has been a steady movement, always strong in the helm and rarely either helped or hindered by the tide of other events. Thus the news that the President and four-fifths of his Cabinet are in favor of woman suffrage isn't a story of drift; the suffrage workers had steered in that direction. They have a right to feel elated, for a President and Cabinet in favor of suffrage is the mightiest nation-wide boost since the first of the greater States declared for the measure a dozen years ago.

The war in Europe is going to get some of the credit for the advance of suffrage in this country. There is a feeling, purely sentimental as yet, that women may be fairly capable of governmental work after all. And in addition to that there are concrete examples of women's work in times of stress; England, particularly, has seen a rising of women. In London the men have hung back and the recruiting has half depended in many districts upon the urging of women soap-box speakers to say nothing of the British women whose influence has been exerted less conspicuously. England will feel more kindly toward suffrage after the war, despite the inevitable reaction caused by the reduced number of men, who will be jealous of their positions in the world of trade and business.

This country's growing pro-suffragism, however, doesn't depend on the war to a very great extent. It is suffragism for suffrage's sake. America's own fine women and America's own political problems are the largest incentive. A suffrage "drive" was on before the war began. The war only stimulates it.

There are no new arguments against equal suffrage. Such as existed a decade ago have been torn to pieces and discarded and there remains only prejudice—a last-ditch prejudice, to be sure, but prejudice of the few can't swamp the reason of the many for long. The suffrage workers have been hopeful, and from hopefulness they have moved on to confidence.—Boston Journal.

Mr. McAdoo before leaving Washington for New York to register for the election to be held Nov. 2 issued the following statement:

"I shall vote for the woman suffrage amendment to the New York State constitution. Women are an economic factor of constantly increasing importance in organized society. In business and industrial life they have been forced to play a larger and more conspicuous part than ever before in the world's history. They have met these new demands and responsibilities without impairment of their higher and paramount duties to society. I am sure that all the theoretical objections against their exercise of right of suffrage will prove as groundless as were the earlier objections of the same sort to their larger participation in the business and industrial life of the nation. The right to vote may, and I hope will, strengthen the power of women to assist in bringing about many social and moral reforms in which they are equally, if not more vitally, interested than men. Suffrage may give them the opportunity of contributing notably to the progress of civilization and the advancement of general welfare.

"Certainly, as the weaker sex, women are entitled to at least an equal opportunity with the stronger sex, and especially in all that intimately concerns the welfare of both.

"The American women have made a game fight and a fair fight for suffrage, and are entitled to win. They have appealed to the reason and intelligence of the country and have not adopted militant methods. They have also taken the right course in resorting to each State for action upon a question which is peculiarly within the province of the States themselves."

Secretary Redfield declared informally that he had made up his mind to vote for the amendment, and Secretary Wilson when asked his views said:

"I am for woman suffrage because I believe that every mature person of sound mind who is required to obey the laws of the country should have a voice in determining what the law should be."

DEMOCRATS GO BACK ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Under the above heading the Boston Herald of October 4, 1915, says: "A conference silence pervades the state platform just adopted by the Democracy on the question of woman suffrage to go before the electors in November. One year ago the Democracy declared for the submission of the amendment to the people. Still earlier, when out of power, its enthusiasm rose even higher. Only a few years ago Miss Pooley and Miss Carpenter customarily heckled Republican candidates, to the ill-concealed advantage of the Democracy. To what avail? As the day of fate draws near, the Democrats as a party pull out from under the suffragists. And in spite of the labor union avowal of sympathy for the cause, there can be no question that the Democracy will cast an overwhelming majority against the amendment on election day. If you doubt it, watch the returns from Democratic wards in this and other cities."

The Boston Herald of Oct. 7, predicts editorially that suffrage will probably be defeated in all four of the campaign states.

Governor Walsh, speaking before the Worcester Woman's Club, lauded the women for their important part in making Massachusetts one of the finest commonwealths in the United States to live in. They have done this, it must be remembered, without the vote.

Pres. Wilson has come out for women suffrage. He says: "I think that New Jersey will be greatly benefited by the change." The New Jersey Democrats and Republicans evidently do not think so, as they have both refused to put a suffrage plank in their platforms. Perhaps they remember—and has the President forgotten?—that New Jersey tried woman suffrage once, found itself far from "benefited by the change" and discarded it. It seems rather reactionary to unearth it from the scrap heap.

Conditions in Colorado are so lawless and the courts so unreliable that Judge Lindsey is reported as having declared that he would take a shot gun and kill the first man who again assailed his reputation, if the law would not give him protection. The suffragists in Massachusetts to "catch up" with Colorado by giving women the vote. Do you want to "catch up" with a state where such conditions prevail?

The Spokane (Washington) Chronicle of Sept. 25, 1915, in an article headed "Why not a special effort to get out women voters?" said: "There is no law to compel registration, there is no law to compel a man to vote, nor is there a law to compel any woman to show that the men of the state did not make a mistake in giving her the franchise. The present deficiency in registration of women is a reproach to the new class of voters. Will some woman's organization or several, take up a campaign to get the stay at home woman on the books and out to the polls? They would help to offset any possible effort to swing the election in favor of non-enforcement of law if candidates with that sort of platform should appear."

Secretary Garrison who has just declared himself for suffrage, seems sadly lacking in zeal for a convert. He says: "No harm will have come from it, and a great subject which is now diverting the attention of the people from other vital public questions, will have been removed from the 'arena of discussion.' In other words, his attitude is that of the woman who marries a man to get rid of him! Secretary Garrison should have had enough experience of the world to know that that is never a success.

Mrs. Arthur H. Dodge, President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, has made an affidavit that no liquor interest has ever contributed to or paid for any of its work against suffrage. The National Suffrage Association has been asked to make an affidavit to the same effect, but it would not do so. Queer, isn't it?

The 44th Congress soon to convene will be under greater responsibilities than have rested upon any preceding Congress in this generation. The Congressional Union, a name adopted by the militant branch of the suffrage movement in this country, regards the opening of the coming session therefore as a particularly opportune time to inaugurate a heckling campaign, analogous to that waged in the British Parliament during several years. The weightier the matter in hand, the better chance exists to worry the heads of the government, in the way these militants reason. Patriotism, of course, ought to restrain the militants from interfering with the discussion of such vital national problems, but it seems that in their minds the suffrage movement is the only thing of consequence in these times, and they disdain all but militant methods.

Woman suffrage is unfriendly to the farmer. Three suffrage speakers, all within the last few weeks have said substantially: "The same Congress which 'defeated' woman suffrage appropriated over $50,000 for the investigation of child labor and $300,000 for the investigation of pigs." One speaker enlarged upon the subject by saying that huge sums were being appropriated for cattle and sheep by this same unwise national government. When asked if the money was for the direct happiness of the live stock, she replied: "Pigs and voters are very closely related."

Again suffrage is unfriendly to the farmer because it increases the proportion of the vote which is indifferent to the interests of the rural communities. It is a comparatively easy matter to get out the city vote where the polling place is just around the corner.

ANDERS—BURNHAM

Among the notable social events of the early autumn was the wedding, on Tuesday evening, of Miss Florence Edna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Burnham of Pearl street, Newton, and Mr. D. Webster Anders, son of Mr. J. K. Anders of Worcester, Penn.

The wedding took place at the Immanuel Baptist Church, which was very artistically decorated for the occasion with palms, autumn leaves, southern smilax and chrysanthemums. The wedding procession and recessional with other selections were rendered by Mr. Harris S. Shaw, organist of Boston. Just prior to the ceremony Mr. George E. Merrill sang "O Promise Me."

Rev. Harrie R. Chamberlin, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony at 8 o'clock before several hundred relatives and friends. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore an exquisite wedding gown of ivory satin and chantilly lace trimmed with pearls and valley lilies, having full court train. Her veil was of tulle with a cap effect having wreaths of valley lilies and her bridal bouquet was a shower of valley lilies. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Thomas A. West, as matron of honor, who was attractively gowned in shell pink, pussy willow tulle over dress of red trimmed with silver lace and pink velvet and carried brides roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marion E. Brown, cousin of the bride, Miss Edna A. Anders of Norristown, Pa., sister of the groom, and Miss Frances Prescott of Newton. The bridesmaids were gowned in lace trimmed net dresses with over dresses of shell pink silk chiffon trimmed with charmeuse and carried brides roses. The flower girl was Miss Barbara M. West, 3-year-old niece of the bride.

The bridegroom was assisted by William H. Cady as groomsmen and the ushers included Messrs. Samuel A. Gardner of Newton Highlands, Edward D. Tuttle of Hingham, Earle Cadbury and Finley Hutton, Jr. of Newton.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the bride's residence. The reception rooms were decorated in a scheme of old rose and green with hydrangeas in combination with asparagus fern. The decorations at the house were arranged by the D. M. C. Club, of which the bride is a member. In the receiving line with the bride and bridegroom were Mrs. Thomas A. West, Mrs. Benjamin E. Jervis of Norristown, Pa., sister of the groom, and Mr. William H. Cady.

Mrs. Lester R. Hiltz of Newton and Miss Ann Harper of Saco, Maine, a cousin of the bride, poured. Miss Kathryn B. Kelly and Miss Dorothy M. Kelly of Allston, Miss Nettie M. Dolber and Miss Florence M. Chamberlin of Newton served.

The bride's gift to her matron of honor was a shell comb and barrette, to her bridesmaids gold pins set with pearls and to the flower girl a ring. The groom's gift to the bride was a piano; to the ushers and organist, gold tie pins set with pearls.

The members of the D. M. C. Club and their escorts attended the wedding in a body.

A feast of the wedding was a bride's cake which was cut by the bride and distributed to the bridal party. It contained the usual thimble, ring, button, etc. The young couple received many beautiful and useful gifts.

On their return from their wedding trip which will include Buffalo, East Aurora, Niagara and the Adirondacks, Mr. and Mrs. Anders will be at home after Nov. 15 at 44 Pearl street, Newton.

DANCED TUESDAY

"WHY THE BAR ROOM MUST GO"

Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A., Mr. J. W. Bengough will give a talk on "Why the Bar Room Must Go." Mr. Bengough is one of the best cartoonists and the evening will be one of enjoyment as well as profit. Admission free. Silver offering.

The meeting is under the auspices of the West Newton and Newton W. C. T. U. and wide-awake music is also being planned for.

ner, but it will be a different matter on a stormy November day in the country with the polling place several miles away. With woman suffrage in power a man and his wife must vote together in order to make the voting power of the family as strong as it was with man suffrage alone. Add to this the increased expense of elections, which must mean an addition to the taxes, and it is easy to see that woman suffrage is going to mean an unfriendly and unjust change so far as the farmer is concerned.

The only unanswerable argument of the suffragists is that some women want the vote. It is as impossible to deny it as it is to deny that there are some men who want a million dollars.

A suffragist asks "Why are the Antis so willing to make use of politics even in a slight degree temporarily if they disbelieve in woman's entrance into politics permanently?" For the same reason that most sensible people are willing to be vaccinated in order to avoid smallpox. The two cases are strictly analogous.

SUFFRAGE AND PROHIBITION

BY MISS MARJORIE DORMAN

Suffragists so frequently assert that the liquor interests are their only real enemies, that it is interesting to estimate how much the suffragists have actually suffered from this source. Last November 7 states voted on woman suffrage, and 5 of them rejected the measure. One of these was North Dakota, which has had constitutional prohibition for 25 years. It was, therefore, the common sense of a farming community which gave votes for women this set back.

Ohio voted on the questions of woman suffrage and prohibition at the same election. Both measures were rejected. But while prohibition was rejected by 33,000, woman suffrage was rejected by 182,905 votes. Which demonstrates that thousands of "drys" were opposed to votes for women. Missouri, South Dakota and Nebraska which have much dry territory, likewise refused to vote in favor of woman suffrage. But two states—states controlled by the liquor interests—did adopt woman suffrage. These were Montana and Nevada. So that if the liquor men were fighting the measure, they showed a very peculiar way of doing it. Miss Foley is an authority on the drunkenness of Nevada, and we refer anyone interested to her in regard to conditions in Nevada.

In Montana they held a suffrage parade not long before election. The W. C. T. U. had prepared to participate, but the suffragists rejected these ladies and refused to let them march. This fact, however, made no difference to the Rev. Anna Shaw, who marched in a parade which excluded temperance. The suffragists have always made a catspaw of the W. C. T. U. While this organization endorses the suffragists, there is not a single woman suffrage organization in the United States which will endorse the W. C. T. U.

Here in Massachusetts, as in other campaign states, the suffragists are trying to convince the temperance people that the liquor organizations are working tooth and nail against woman suffrage, while at the same time they boldly announce that they are not against the saloon, not for prohibition, and would welcome every saloon vote that might come their way. They want you to condemn the anti if the saloon man is with them, but to bless the saloon man if he should stand, as many of them do, for votes for women.

REMEMBER

If the vote is given to women they will be in duty bound to use it. The vote is a public trust, and those who have it and fail to use it are not good citizens.

Suffragists who say, as most Suffragists do, that "women who do not want to vote can stay at home" are counselling a very grave dereliction of duty, and are giving the most convincing proof of their own unfitness for the responsibilities they would force upon their unwilling sisters.

The enfranchisement of women means political organization for women. It means women candidates for any and every office. It means women "workers" at the polls. It means women spell-binders. It means pretty young girls buttonholing strange men on the streets on Election Day in behalf of the "Handsome" candidate.

It means politicians who can strike men in the most unfair way in politics.

THE TRUTH ABOUT CHICAGO

The election in Chicago in April last has been cited by suffragists as proof of their contention that women will vote as generally as men if given the opportunity.

But the facts of the Chicago election lead most convincingly to the opposite conclusion.

According to the Chicago Tribune, there were in Chicago last April 512,657 men and 501,384 women eligible to register and vote. The vote on April 6 was:

Men 434,277
Women 250,404
Of the men eligible to vote there voted 34.7 per cent.
Of the women eligible to vote there voted 49.9 per cent.

Here we have 50.1 per cent. of the women voters neglecting their political duty, while only 15.3 per cent. of the men are guilty of like neglect!

Is there any doubt that Woman Suffrage means an alarming increase in the percentage of voters who stay at home on election day?

THE HIGH COST OF GOVERNMENT

One of the largest items in the high cost of living is the high cost of government. In 1894 the cost of town, state and federal government for the average family of five in Massachusetts was $95. In 1910 this cost was $185 and in 1913 it was $270, according to the United States Census Bureau.

Thus we have one-quarter of the average family's income going to meet the expenses of government.

The New York Times says the New York state election last year cost $4,079,171.42, or $2.83 per voter, $2 of which came from the public purse.

The Secretary of the Commonwealth estimates that doubling our electorate would add at least 50 per cent. to the cost of elections in Massachusetts.

If this is so, and if the cost of getting out the vote is approximately what it is in New York, Woman Suffrage would cost Massachusetts directly at least half a million dollars a year.

Glycerin for the Feet.

Doctor Benians, a well-known French physician, recommends the use of glycerin in cases of too profuse perspiration of the feet, producing a disagreeable odor. He says this odor is due to a production of poisonous substances by bacteria. One has only to apply glycerin to the soles of the feet every morning and the distressing trouble will disappear.

GOOD MILK

A great many residents of Newton put implicit faith in milk and cream bought from some individual private dairy farm in their immediate vicinity because they believe—

(1)—that the private nature of the farm lends some exclusive element of quality to the milk produced there; (2)—that, this production being limited and for distinctly local consumption, greater care is given it; (3)—that the nearness of the farm adds to the freshness and purity of its product as delivered.

Now, these are all mistaken ideas. The production of clean, pure, safe milk is an exact science. To gain these three essential qualities combined in the milk you use, it must be subjected to the most rigid scientific rules and precautions. And the output of the individual private farm is not great enough to make strictly modern scientific methods possible.

True, its proprietor may tell you that his milk is produced in "the good, old-fashioned way"—that, being "old-fashioned" these ways are more wholesome—that you are getting a richer, purer article of food when it comes "fresh from the cow" without any "scientific red-tape." But you are being misguided. You have only to inspect his place to discover how.

No matter how sanitary the conditions at your private dairy farm may appear, they seldom are absolutely so. Dirt will get into the milk—ailments will occur in both animals and milkers—employees will grow careless—and in all these cases the milk you buy inevitably becomes affected unless scientific methods are pursued to eliminate the uncertain human element. And the private farm can't do this!

The handling and distribution of milk has become a highly specialized industry and the methods of our fathers and grandfathers have had to give way to more scientific measures. It is essential that the milk supply be perfectly pasteurized to insure its safety, and that the whole process be under the constant supervision of well equipped laboratories, either individual or municipal, to protect the consumers of so important a food as milk.

The difference between the modern, infallible system of milk handling and the "go-as-you-please" methods of the smaller, less modern equipped, private dairy, is a subject of utmost importance to the health and happiness of every family. It calls aloud for prompt consideration. Everyone should, at least, learn more about the sanitary and unsanitary conditions and the care and means used to safeguard the health of their families. It pays to know.

THE CLAFLIN CLUB

The Claflin Club, the popular and entertaining social organization of the Newtonville Methodist Church, will open the season next week on Wednesday evening.

The officers and committees of the Club, appointed for the season 1915-1916 include George W. Taylor, president; Robert E. Bruce, vice-president; Albert G. Seavey, secretary and Louis A. Belcher, treasurer. The Executive Committee, the above officers, with Chairman, William T. Rich, Calvert Cray, William J. Cozens, William Smith and Rev. James W. Campbell. Committee on Membership: Chairman, Albert G. Seavey, Louis A. Belcher, John Berquist, William J. Cozens, Jr., Albert E. Kust, and Walter H. Stevens.

SHUBERT THEATRE—The final week of "Experience" at the Shubert Theatre, beginning Monday, October 18, is announced by a regretful management of the theatre realized the play will have to leave Boston at the height of its extraordinary success on Saturday night, October 23. Every effort has been put forth to extend the engagement, but in vain, as contracts for another attraction at the Shubert Theatre were signed before the management of the theatre realized the immense hit "Experience" was destined to score in Boston. The play has been presented before a series of capacity audiences the past six weeks, and it seems almost a crime to the community to take this wonderful play away from Boston. The rush for seats for all remaining performances has been so great that it seems certain the play could have played to big audiences until the New Year. But contracts cannot be broken and so "Experience" must depart.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—"The Blindness of Virtue" will begin its third week of its run on Oct. 18 at the Castle Square Theatre. Not since "Common Clay" was put on last year has a play given by the Craig Players made such an instantaneous hit with the public as has "The Blindness of Virtue." It would seem as if every mother and daughter in Boston were taking the advice of Mary Young and seeing this play which teaches such a powerful lesson to parents. "Don't let your daughters struggle blindly through the awakening years of their womanhood. If you do, you are not fit to be a mother," is a line of Cosmo Hamilton's drama. Miss Young, William P. Carleton, Betty Barnicoat, Donald Meek, Theodore Friebus, Mrs. Vida Croly Sydney and Justine Adams are in the cast.

NEW BANK BUILDING

West Newton Savings Bank To Occupy Handsome New Quarters

The new bank building of the West Newton Savings Bank which was opened for public inspection on Wednesday is not only a notable addition to the group of semi-public buildings of that village, but is a credit to the entire city.

The building is located at the corner of Washington and Highland streets, opposite the Unitarian Church and adjoining Players' Hall, and the surrounding grounds have been attractively laid out with grass and shrubs. It is one story in height and absolutely fireproof in construction. The exterior is of buff colored brick with limestone trimmings and cornice and a parapet wall of the same material. The interior finish is of mahogany, giving a richness and beauty which is noticeable. The front doors are of solid mahogany and open into a vestibule. The public space for the banking rooms is floored with Tennessee marble with base boards of black and gold marble. The counter which is on three sides is surmounted with grille of polished steel. A retiring room for the free use of lady customers is on the left of the main entrance.

CUTTING NOMINATED

Weston Man Selected for Republican County Commissioner

At the convention of the various ward and town committees of Middlesex County held Saturday afternoon at Cyprus Hall, Cambridge, to fill a vacancy caused by the withdrawal of Hon. Chester B. Williams from the Republican nomination for county commissioner, Mr. Alfred L. Cutting of Weston was nominated on the fifth ballot. There were 12 candidates before the convention, Newton having one in the person of Major Fred F. Barnes of West Newton. Major Barnes was placed in nomination by Mr. Pitt F. Drew of Newtonville and polled 27 votes on the first ballot and 5 on the second. There were 517 delegates present out of a total of 913 entitled to seats.

Mr. Cutting is well and favorably known throughout the county having served in the state legislature and having been a candidate to succeed Congressman John W. Weeks after Mr. Weeks had been chosen to the United States senate.

Mr. John L. Dyer of Cambridge whose name will appear on the ballot as an independent candidate for county commissioner is out in a statement urging his friends to support Mr. Cutting.

MILK CONSUMER

Do you want to pay 12 cents a quart for milk? Senator Ellis charges 12 cents a quart for milk and declares that price is fair because of the conditions under which he produces it. He wants to legislate the same conditions on your milk producer, then you will have to pay 12 cents a quart for milk.

Vote for Edward Carr for Senator.

FATAL ACCIDENT

Women Killed by Automobile at Commonwealth Avenue and Washington Street

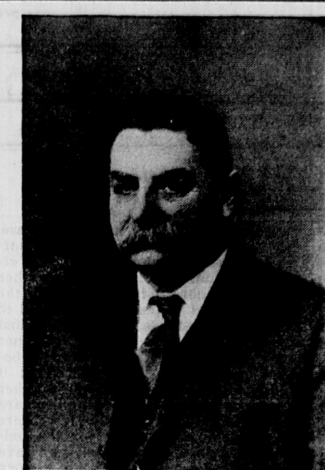

Miss Emma M. Deering of 96 North avenue, Natick, was almost instantly killed Sunday afternoon at the corner of Washington and Commonwealth avenue, West Newton, when alighting from an electric car she was struck by a motorcycle and thrown into the path of an automobile, the wheels of which passed over her head.

Miss Deering in company with another woman, was getting off an electric car which was going toward Newton, when the motorcycle, owned and operated by George Murray, aged 18, of 151 Waltham street, Watertown, turned the corner of Commonwealth avenue and struck her, throwing her into the path of an automobile owned by W. S. Fracker of 40 Winthrop street, Chelsea, and driven by George B. Clark of 562 Washington avenue, Chelsea.

The Fracker machine had also turned the corner of Commonwealth avenue coming from the opposite direction, and when the woman was struck it was abreast of the motorcycle. Patrolman William Fuller rushed the woman to the Newton Hospital in the police ambulance, but on arrival there it was found she was dead.

Murray was arrested by patrolman Fuller on a charge of manslaughter and later bailed in the sum of $500.

In court Wednesday he was granted a continuance of one week by Judge Kennedy.

EDITORIAL

The question before the voters on November 2 is, Will you do justice to the women of Massachusetts? Do you believe that those who have to abide by the laws, should have a voice in making the laws? Do you believe in a democracy? Do you believe this is a government of the people, by the people and for the people?

If you believe these things how can you escape the logical conclusion that women are entitled to the ballot? Women are people. This is a government now not of the people, but, of half of the people, and, since men are only half of the people, why should they have all the votes?

The claim of the opposing party that woman suffrage has not worked well in the equal suffrage states is contrary to the facts. What testimony have the Anti-Suffragists to compare in importance with that of the suffragists? On the one side are the governors, mayors, members of Congress, and leading citizens in the equal suffrage states testifying to the good effects of woman suffrage. On the other side a few men and women from the equal suffrage states who are hired to come to Massachusetts to talk against equal suffrage for so much pay per hour. Woman Suffrage is coming because it is absolutely right that it should come and because the number of women who demand the ballot are increasing steadily and rapidly. There are more women asking for the ballot today, than there are men who have ever asked for anything in the history of the country in the opinion of Thomas Edison and other equally prominent men in New Jersey. Do not be deceived by false issues advanced by the opposing party to blind the unwary.

The vital question is, Are women under the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Massachusetts, Entitled to the Franchise.

MASSACHUSETTS LAWS

It is the proud boast of the state of Massachusetts that her laws are very just and fair to women. It is further pointed out by those opposed to equal suffrage that men have made these laws, and, therefore men can always be depended upon to make good laws without the aid of women.

It is quite true that the laws in Massachusetts relating to women's rights in property and the guardianship of children are at the present time very good, because for over half a century the suffragists have been before the legislature again and again trying to secure the repeal of one bad law after another.

One of the prominent helpers in securing good legislation was the late Samuel E. Sewall who drew the bills and helped the women argue for them before the legislative committees. In the Woman's Journal of October 27, 1877, Judge Sewall wrote as follows:
"How has this work been accomplished? By the steady growth of public

IS IT EXPEDIENT?

The believers in Equal Suffrage base their claims upon the simple justice of the cause, but, since there is a demand on the part of the public to know if it is expedient, we quote from the opinions expressed by prominent men in the Equal Suffrage states who know just how it works.
Gov. Haines of Idaho declared in 1890,
"The influence of women has been always in favor of clean politics. Many of our most prominent women have taken a leading part in advocating reforms which have been of the utmost value to the people of our state."

Gov. Carlson of Colorado in 1893 said, "Woman's Suffrage has been an unqualified victory over weak and unfair government." Hiram Johnson, Governor of California in 1911, voiced the sentiment of the people of that state when he said "Since its adoption, Woman's Suffrage has been put to the most severe test. The women have met the test and Equal Suffrage has fully justified itself. Were it again to be submitted to the voters the vote in its favor would be overwhelming."
Gov. Leister of Washington in 1910 declared, "I know of no one who favored giving women the ballot who today opposes it, and large numbers of those who opposed it, now favor it."
Gov. Capper of Kansas in 1912 said,
"Woman's suffrage had an immediate effect for good; it has impelled political parties to include in their platform humanitarian projects, and it has made more careful selections of nominees."

In Oregon in 1912, Gov. Withycomb expressed his opinion in these words,
"To my mind Equal Suffrage is proving a real benefit to the state; and, will ultimately be universal throughout the United States." Ex-Mayor William Seymour of Tacoma, Washington, has said, "I believe if the question of Woman's Suffrage was again submitted to the people in the state of Washington it would carry by the vote of the men, by a much greater majority than in 1910. Mayor Fawcett of Tacoma, in answering an attack made by Judge Snell on Woman's Suffrage said,
"Judge Snell holds no brief to speak in opposition to Woman's Suffrage for the people of this state. Although he may have changed his mind about it he is the only man in the state I have heard say so, and, he had to go 3,000 miles away before he expressed himself. I believe the people of this state are more firmly committed to the principle of Woman's Suffrage now than when they adopted it." The late Bishop Spaulding of Utah, said, "Every argument that can be used against women's voting, can also be used against men's voting. Equal Suffrage works well in Utah." The senators of three states, Colorado, Kansas, and California, have passed resolutions endorsing Woman's Suffrage, and, every representative in Washington from an Equal Suffrage state has spoken decidedly in favor of "Votes for Women."

WOMEN'S WORK

A few of the reforms brought about by women in Equal Suffrage States are as follows. In California one of the finest achievements has been the passage of the red light injunction and abatement law, considered by social experts to be the best legislation devised for dealing with the problem.
Instead of arresting and fining immoral women, it puts the penalty on the owner of the building used for improper purposes, making it unprofitable to rent property for such uses. The passage of this law, is attributed by both friends and enemies to the women.

"In Colorado," quoting from Mr.
Lewis' article in "The Outlook," a very noteworthy change wrought by Woman's Suffrage has been the raising of the requirements as to moral character judged solely by the private lives of men elected to office. Political parties have learned the inadvisability of nominating drunkards, libe-rines, gamblers, retail liquor dealers and men who engage in similar discredited occupations, because the women almost always vote them down.
Another effective piece of work done by women voters, was in cleaning up the notorious stockade of Salt Lake City. This centre of commercialized vice was allowed to run undisturbed until a committee of women served notice on the Mayor that the stockade must close. It shut down its doors that very night, and, was afterwards torn down. For this the women of Salt Lake City have full credit.

In Chicago after women were given the ballot, the segregated district was closed, and a large number of police-women appointed to look after the safety of young girls at public dances, a measure which women had been seeking in vain until they were given the ballot. Washington established a State School for delinquent girls after women had the ballot. Kansas passed a strong white slave law, after women were given full suffrage in 1912. Similar laws have been passed in Utah, Wyoming and Colorado. Montana has passed an equal guardianship law which makes the mother co-equal with the father in the control of their children, they have also passed a teachers' pension law, a library extension law, and, an anti race track betting law, since the woman suffrage success of last fall.

The enfranchised states have all passed a noteworthy amount of legislation designed to promote social welfare by playgrounds, improved working conditions and the like.
Every one of the states having full suffrage now has mother's pensions.
The legislature of Arizona, Montana, Wyoming and Kansas passed such laws this year and the other states had previously adopted the system which provides for the care of the children of widowed or destitute mothers, keeping the family in the home, together, instead of separating the children from the mother by placing them in public institutions. Women do vote when they are given the chance, and they vote for wise measures.

TESTIMONY OF VALUE

The Anti-Suffrage Party have ignored the chief plank in the Equal Suffrage platform which is the justice of the cause. The justice of it is so apparent that they do not attempt to deny it, being compelled to side-track the main issue they turned to the question of Expediency. This argument on this phase of Woman Suffrage appeared to be very easy to answer. The testimony of the Governors, Mayors and Representatives in Congress from the equal suffrage states was found to be overwhelming in favor of Woman Suffrage. These witnesses seemed to be sufficient in number and importance to convince the most skeptical; but, the Anti-Suffrage Party entirely discounts this mass of testimony. "These men are all politicians, and trying to keep in office." Their testimony has no weight." In general a case is in a bad way when all the witnesses are discredited at the bar, as it happens in this case, however, the word "politicians" explains the whole situation.

Politicians have their ears to the ground. They know which way the wind is blowing. What better proof can we have of the popularity of Woman Suffrage? These office holders must keep in touch with the people in order to hold office, hence they praise equal suffrage.

Since the Antis assure us that only a small per cent of women use the ballot we conclude it must be the men in the double suffrage states who keep all these politicians in such abject fear that they do not dare say a word against votes for women. This unwitting testimony to the favor in which double suffrage is held by the men in the double suffrage states ought to have its weight with the men in Massachusetts on November 2.

EMINENT PEOPLE DECLARE FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Abraham Lincoln said:
"I go for all sharing in government who bear its burdens, by no means excluding women."

Charles Sumner said:
"In the progress of civilization woman suffrage is sure to come."

William H. Seward said:
"Justice is on the side of woman suffrage."

Theodore Roosevelt said:
"It is the right of woman to have the ballot. It is the duty of man to give it, and we all need woman's help as we try to solve the many and terrible problems set before us."

Chief Justice Chase of the U. S. Supreme Court said:
"I think there will be no end of the good that will come by woman suffrage."

Justice David J. Brewer of the U. S.
Supreme Court said:
"Female suffrage will come, not fully and at once, but by varying steps; woman's broader education for increasing familiarity with business and public affairs will lead to it."

Ex-Governor John D. Long said:
"I never heard a reason urged against woman suffrage that was worth considering, or was not an insult to the understanding of a very small boy. Right. Of course it is right and everybody knows it. And when in the history of the world has it been found that what is right is inexpedient."

George William Curtis said:
"If a responsible human being may vote upon specific industrial projects, why may she not vote upon the industrial regulation of the state?"

William Jennings Bryan said:
"I ask no political rights for myself that I am not willing to grant to my wife. The objection raised to woman suffrage appears to me to be invalid, while the arguments advanced to the support of the proposition are in my judgment convincing."

Ralph Waldo Emerson said:
"If the wants, the passions and the voices are allowed a full vote through the hands of a half brutal, temperate population, I think it but fair that the virtues, the aspirations should be allowed a full vote as an offset through the purest of its people."

Henry Ward Beecher said:
"We need the participation of women in the ballot."

Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson
said:
"Admit in the slightest degree her right to property and education, woman must have the ballot to protect the one and use the other."

Wendell Phillips said:
"I take it America never gave any better principle to the world than the safety of letting every human being have the power of protection in its own hands. I claim it for women."

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow said:
"Woman's suffrage is undoubtedly coming, and I for one expect a great deal of good from it."

John Greenleaf Whittier said:
"I have not been able to see any good reason for denying the ballot for women."

Chauncey M. Depew said:
"When Emma Willard appeared before the New York legislature in 1815 and petitioned for a charter for a female college, the solons were thrown into a panic. They saw more evils to the church, the home and society in higher education for women than the antis do now in female suffrage."

Dr. Francis E. Clark, President United Society of Christian Endeavor

said:
"I have seen the operation of woman suffrage in New Zealand and other parts of the world, and my belief is it has been strengthened."

Thomas Edison said:
"Woman should certainly have the vote. It is only right, and it is expedient, too."

Samuel W. McCall, Republican candidate for Governor says:
"That he has favored woman suffrage for the past twenty-five years."

Governor Walsh, Democratic candidate for re-election said:
"I respect for the ability and patriotism of the women of Massachusetts makes it impossible for me personally to argue that if they desire the ballot they are not as much entitled to it as we men are."

Phillips Brooks said:
"I am in favor of woman suffrage."

Joseph Cook said:
"Woman's vote would be to the vices in our great cities what the lightning is to the oak."

George W. Cable said:
"If mothers are not fit to vote they should stop bearing sons."

William Dean Howells said:
"Everything in the movement to give women the suffrage appeals to my reverence and sense of justice."

Harvey W. Wiley said:
"If women suffrage were not desirable for any other reason it would be worth while merely because it would ensure better pure food legislation."

Clara Barton said to the soldiers:
"Because of my work for you I ask you and I ask the ballot for myself and my sex."

Florence Nightingale said:
"It seems to me an axiom that every household and taxpayer ought to have a voice in the expenditure of the money we pay."

Francis E. Willard said:
"If prayer and womanly influence are doing so much for God by indirect means, how small it be when that electric force is brought to bear through the battery of the ballot box."

Washington Booth said:
"All the evils that affect the home are largely dependent upon politics.
Women should have the power to deal with these."

Mary E. Woolley said:
"The time will come when some of us will look back upon the arguments against the granting of the suffrage to women with as much incredulity as that with which we read those against their education."

Julia Ward Howe said:
"The claim of woman to an equal opportunity with man was seen to be just when Plato so stated it in terms which the subtlety of his hearers could not gainsay."

Julia Leathrop said:
"Woman Suffrage instead of being incompatible with child welfare leads towards it, and is indeed the next great service to be rendered for the welfare of the home."

Jane Addams said:
"War shows that women should have a voice (the ballot) in every affair of worlds nations."

Among others who in their life time strongly urged woman suffrage were:
Henry Le Daves, George F. Hoar,
Thomas B. Reed, John Stuart Mill,
James Freeman Clarke and Alice Freeman Palmer. It is also endorsed by Vice President Marshall, David Starr Jordan, President Stanford University; Mr. Carey Thomas, President Bryn Mawr College; Kate Zement

Davis, Sarah Bernhardt and Maude Adams.

48 Years Ago

Many men were heard to remark that if we educated women the doom of the Family and of Civilization was at hand.

A FEW MONTHS AGO

The New York state legislature said woman's place is the home, all except 74 hours a week, when she is to take the children and work in the canneries.

WHY WOMEN WANT TO VOTE

1. Because under a democratic form of government, a government of people, by the people and for the people.
Women being people are entitled to share in the government. This is why women want to vote.

2. Women are obliged to keep the laws. They are punished if they break the laws, therefore they should have a voice in making the laws.

3. Women are tax payers, and are not represented.

4. Women's chief business in former years, that of "rulers of the household" has been taken away from them by the government. The government now takes charge of the home. It regulates the construction of the house through its building laws. It regulates the sanitary condition of the house, and, also the treatment of contagious diseases through its Board of Health.

5. Women object to being any longer classified with Idiots and Criminals.

6. No reason has ever been given why a man wants to vote that will not apply equally to a woman. No objection has ever been made against a woman's voting, that will not apply equally to a man.

7. This is why women ask you to vote for the Suffrage amendment on November 2.

WOMEN WANT TO VOTE

Men who are both intelligent and fair minded question the advisability of giving women the ballot, because as they are in the habit of saying,
"The majority of women do not want to vote." In order to ascertain the truth or falsity of this statement, the New York World recently made an unbiased count among all classes of women in the city of New York and seven up state cities with the following result. In favor of Woman's Suffrage 77.37 per cent. Opposed to Woman's Suffrage, 22.63 per cent.

So far as we know, Boston and Greater Boston have not been canvassed in this manner, but, it is fair to assume that what is true of New York state is in the main true of Massachusetts. The majority of women interested, wish to vote. The indifferent women are in a class by themselves, and, it is manifestly impossible to determine their exact number. We do know however that the suffrage leagues are gaining more largely from this class, than the Antis. The query naturally arises. Why should this "don't care" class receive special consideration? Was any reform movement in the world ever started by a majority?

No, it is the minority who take the lead, always, and, then the majority swing into line. Again is it quite fair to make a new kind of majority rule for women which does not apply to men, demanding that those favoring Equal Suffrage should outnumber both those opposed and the indifferent.

We think it will be generally ac-nowledged, that a father would be considered as singularly lacking in fair mindedness, and good sense, who would deprive one daughter of an inheritance due her, because her sister appeared to receive a like inheritance.

The women who want to vote are in the majority. The women who do not want to vote are in the minority.
To indifference be indifferent.

Voters of 1915, in the spirit of democracy, give women the ballot.

The "home strike" suggested by the suffragists (by which women should stay at home for the day) showed to what lengths the suffragists were prepared to go to carry out their ends.

Women can not use force.

Militant suffragettes use force.

FATE'S HANDY MAN

By JUNE GALEAU.

Marjorie found her mother sewing placidly in her own sitting room and laid the case before her.

"My dear child," soothed Mrs. Bissel, "it is one of those things you must leave to fate. Your father is a very obstinate man. If he dislikes the Everetts, why he won't consider that perhaps Paul is different from his objectionable relatives. Somehow, some day, Jacob will change his mind, but we cannot force him. I learned that twenty years ago."

"It is so ridiculous for father to object," complained Marjorie, "for Paul is—is well, you know that no sane person could object to Paul as a son-in-law!"

Mrs. Bissel pulled the flushed face down on her shoulder and kissed the quivering lips.

"Take my advice, honey," she murmured. "Leave the matter to fate—and Paul Everett. He's got grit enough to win you in spite of Jacob Bissel, and that is a compliment, Marjorie."

Paul Everett received his dismissal at the Bissel front door and went back to his apartment and telephoned to Marjorie.

"I'll find a way out, sweetheart!" he promised. "He'll beg me to come around and see him—believe me!"

Two days later Jacob Bissel lounged in the retiring room of his favorite club and talked to his old crony, Peter Laidlaw.

Peter was talking about the splendid country mansion he was building down on Long Island and he invited Jacob Bissel to drive down there.

"Not another one just like it in the world," boasted Laidlaw as they motored down to Bluffton the next day. "Everett, my architect, is a corker—won't touch a job that doesn't appeal to him—a regular genius."

"Everett, did you say?" demanded Bissel sharply.

"Yes old Tad Everett's boy—smart little rascal, too. Wanted to pick his own college and worked his way through, by Jove! Born architect and has made such a success of it that he can pick his own customers, too. Wouldn't make a set of plans for you, Jacob, if he took a notion not to!"

"Pooh!" sneered Jacob Bissel. "Bet you!" retorted Peter Laidlaw, and so a wager was made and recorded.

"I was going to build on my property down here, anyway," remarked Bissel.

"Good—I want you for a neighbor." One morning Jacob Bissel picked up his telephone receiver and called a number.

Paul Everett's pleasant voice responded.

"This is Jacob Bissel," said the magnate rather pompously. "I wish to consult you concerning the plans for my new country house at Bluffton."

Whereupon Mr. Bissel was referred to Everett's secretary, who advised the irate gentleman to call at the offices of Everett & Co. at 4:30 that afternoon.

Exactly at 4:35 Mr. Bissel panted into the handsome offices of the young architect and was informed by a polite secretary that Mr. Everett had just left for the day.

"I had an appointment with him at 4:30," protested Mr. Bissel. "It is 4:35, sir; Mr. Everett never waits for anyone."

"The—young puppy!" chortled Mr. Bissel as he fumed away.

But the next day he made another appointment and kept it, and found Paul Everett a most exasperating young man to deal with.

And in the end, for no essential reason, Paul refused to consider accepting Bissel's patronage.

"A most unbusinesslike proceeding!" roared Jacob Bissel, as he stamped up and down his office. "I'll never build that house until he makes those plans!"

So he wrote a curt note and asked Paul to call at his office the next morning, and when Paul came, cool and imperturbable, he still declined to accept Mr. Bissel's business.

"I am not accustomed to being turned down, Mr. Everett," raged Jacob Bissel. "Is it a matter of money?"

Paul shook his handsome head. "It's rather a personal feeling," he said with engaging frankness. "You see, my uncle used to know you, Mr. Bissel, and he never liked you—had some old business grudge, in fact. Don't you think that's excuse enough for declining your business?"

"I do not!" flared Mr. Bissel, growling red around his ears.

"Then—" suggested Everett delicately.

"Then—" repeated Jacob Bissel. "Well, young man, it's no use—I may as well give in and tell you that I am around and see me tonight at my house."

"About Marjorie?" asked Paul.

"About Marjorie," conceded Marjorie's father.

"Then, Mr. Bissel," said Paul practically, "suppose we go over the plans for your new house, eh? I think we can make Peter Laidlaw's mansion look like a chicken coop."

"Now you're talking," said his future father-in-law.

Marjorie and her mother credited the whole affair to a kindly fate, but Paul only laughed.

"Fate's all right—only you've got to get out and hustle her along," he said. "And in this instance fate's righthand man was Peter Laidlaw!"

Introduced Wire Nails.

Wire nails were first made in the United States by William Hersel of New York, about 1851. In 1875 Father Goebel, a Catholic priest, located at Covington, Ky., coming from Germany, where the art of making wire nails was practiced, Goebel began the manufacture of wire nails at Covington, and in 1876, the American Wire & Screw Nail company was established under his leadership. At first the nails were made by hand, but soon a French machine was imported. For a time the wire nails were made with barks, that they might hold more securely, and the new industry grew but slowly. In 1876 at the Centennial Exhibition in Philadelphia, the company received a silver medal over French and German competitors. This called the attention of trade to the article, and other firms at once took up its manufacture.

Two Crops of Lemons.

By an interesting yet simple method two crops of lemons are obtained in Sicily during the year, though the second is in every way inferior. The abnormal fruit is known as the Verdelli lemon, and is marketed during the summer months. The Verdelli lemon, green in color, grows contemporaneously on the same trees with the ordinary or yellow lemon of commerce, and is obtained by the following method: The lemon tree, which flowers in April, is kept without water from that period until July, when the roots are heavily flooded for a time. This results in a second set of blossoms, from which will come the Verdelli lemon. The ordinary lemon crop is picked in the months beginning with October, but the Verdelli lemons do not mature until the next May.

Bill's Peculiarity.

Dinah had not seen her old mistress for two or three years. "For de lan' sake, missy, I sure is glad to see you again! How's all de folks?"

"All just about de same, Dinah; and how is it with you?"

"Oh, we's all 'bout de same, 'cept Bill. You 'members my brudder Bill? The young one you used to give cookies to? Well, he sure has grown. Lor', missy, you jest ought to see him! So big and tall, folks all think for sure he am older dan what he is."

"Yas'm, dat's de divin' trufe. He sure does look older dan what he is; but he ain't."—Woman's Home Companion.

Would Consider.

A sporting member of parliament, who knew more about the race course than the house, was once asked, out of pure mischief, by one of his constituents if he would vote for the abolition of the decalogue. In vain the questioned one tried to solve in his mind what the object referred to was, as to him the decalogue might be anything from a regium donum grant to a settlement in the Straits of Malacca; but failing in this, and in order to sustain his own consistency, he replied: "I won't pledge myself, but I'll give it my consideration."

Nails First Made by Hand.

In northern Europe, Britain and America nails were made, at first, by ftying on an anvil. The iron used for hand nail-making was first formed into nail-roads, which were sold in bundles. The nail-roads were prepared either by rolling the malleable thickness or by the much more common practice of cutting plate iron into strips by means of rolling shears. In Colonial days the making of nails from these rods was a household industry among the New England farmers.

Just What She Wanted.

The much-traveled young man had just returned from foreign climes, and of course he must entertain his rich old aunt (with whom he was in favor) with stories of the wonderful sights he had seen. "Yes," he said, in the course of his remarks, "there are some spectacles that can never be forgotten. 'Dear me,' exclaimed the absent-minded old lady; 'I do wish you would get me a pair of them, John.'"

Use for Old Carpet.

A good way to use an old carpet when it has become faded is to turn it on the wrong side, tack it to the floor as firmly as possible (the tacks may be removed later) and give it a coat of dark green floor paint. It may require a second coat. You will have a carpet resembling crex and one that will last a lifetime.

Then and Now.

"The kind of books people read nowadays is rather startling." "Yes," replied Mrs. McGudel, "but I have my doubts whether folks stop dancin' long enough to read 'em. When I was young we used to read books and pretend we didn't. Now people pretend they read 'em and don't."

Which Are They?

"Have you ever read Shakespeare's works?" asked the young man in the parlor scene. "No," replied the fair maid. "I've read his plays, but was not aware that he had written any works."

And the Band Played.

Tomdix—"I say, old chap, your silk hat looks deucedly shabby this morning." Holjax—"No wonder. I was out all night and it lost its nap."

THE GREEN SEAL

By JEAN DICKERSON.

Bob Noyes was as brave as one could desire when he had to face actual danger, but when it came to proposing to one little blue-eyed girl with whom he was madly in love, why Bob simply backed away from her father's front door and rushed to the nearest telephone pay station to make his confession over the wire.

Alma's voice at the other end was soft, and hesitating and entrancingly sweet; but the hesitation was maddening to Bob Noyes.

"Tell me now!" he urged impatiently.

"I—I couldn't!" she pleaded. "I'll write you a little note before I go to bed—honest I will, Bob."

"I wish you could tell me now and put me out of my misery," he urged.

"I'll tell you what I'll do, Bob. I'll let you know before you ever open the note. If it's good news there will be a blue seal on the flap of the envelope—and if it's not good news, why there will be a green seal. So you will know as soon as you receive the letter."

With that arrangement Bob had to be contented.

Would he be confronted by a blue seal or a fatal green one? All the evening the query haunted him.

Morning brought new hope. He sat down at breakfast and looked nervously at the letters neatly piled beside his plate. Ah, here was the letter. He turned it over.

Green!

"Turned down, by Jove!" he muttered, thrusting the unopened letter in his breast pocket and pushing aside his plate. "A cup of strong coffee, Dunn, and nothing else," he ordered.

"Not a chop—or a bit of fruit, sir?" protested the servant.

"Nothing."

At nine o'clock that evening Alma Ray heard with a shock of dismay that Bob Noyes had sailed for Bermuda that afternoon.

"He wasn't in earnest after all," she said with a pale smile as she danced the evening away.

In Bermuda Bob Noyes hated golf and bridge and spent his spare time glowering at the unopened letter with the fatal green seal on the flap.

"Faithless, after all," he groaned one day as he strolled along a snowy beach. "If a pair of blue eyes ever said—" he shook his head fiercely.

At that moment he came face to face with Alma Ray's brother Jack, who was staring at him with maliciously amused eyes.

"You're looking seedy, Bob," said Jack, after they had shaken hands.

"No reason why I should," defended the other. "I'm fit as a fiddle—having no end of a good time. Surprised to see you here at this season."

"Governor had a poor spell—I was detailed to escort him down here; he's over on the links now, grinning like a Cheshire cat and having no end of a good time. Foxy is my dad's middle name!" laughed Jack.

"Er—family all well?" asked Bob. "I told you dad was ailing," returned Jack with a surprised look.

"Yes. Mrs. Ray and your sister?"

"Oh, yes." Jack dropped the subject in an exasperating way that nettled Bob Noyes. What was the matter with the boy? Did he know of Bob's disappointment—did he, perhaps, know that Alma was engaged to some other man?

"I'm going over to see how dad's getting along," said Jack. "Come?"

"Not now—I'll be over later," was Bob's reply, and he was thankful when he was alone. "Who could imagine I'd ever be so weak-kneed just because a little girl refused to marry me? By Jove, I won't! I'll go back tomorrow!"

He whirled around to retrace his steps and almost ran into Alma Ray, small and dainty, her lovely face as white as her frock.

"Bob!" she cried sharply. "Why did you go away?"

"Alma!" he was weak with surprise. "Why—why, I got your letter that morning—the green seal, you know!" he stammered.

"Well, what of it?" she asked impatiently.

"What of it? Why, I saw the green seal and I knew!"

She regarded him closely. Then: "Did you read the letter?" she asked calmly.

"No—it wasn't necessary. I have it here." He held it toward her, the green seal unbroken.

"Read it," she commanded, and reluctantly he obeyed.

He lifted a bewildered face, blissfully happy with the message read in the letter, still perplexed over the green seal.

"But, darling, how was I to know?" he asked, holding her in his arms. "You said a blue seal would mean yes—a green seal would mean no—and I saw the green seal and I thought—"

"Stupid!" interrupted Alma, lifting stony eyes to his. "You see, I found I was all out of blue sealing wax, so I had to use green. And you ought to have known, anyway, what my answer would be."

And from that instant Bob Noyes relinquished all hope of ever understanding womankind.

Telephone By-Ways

Hundreds of small villages, away from main-travelled roads, are readily accessible to salesmen who know how inexpensive and how easy it is to telephone these places from convenient junction points.

A telephone call is the best known substitute for a personal visit. It keeps one's personality alive. It gratifies the customer. And frequently it pays for itself a hundred-fold by the casual re-orders it induces.

There will be no toll charge on a Particular Party Call if you are not connected with the person whose name you have given to the Toll Operator.

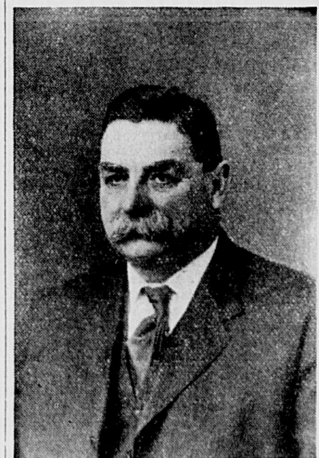

RE-ELECT SENATOR ELLIS

Many Reasons For His Return To Beacon Hill

One of the leading arguments being advanced in the present state campaign is the necessity for the restriction of the number of new laws created by each passing legislature. In keeping with the record of previous bodies the last legislature created hundreds of pages of new laws. As a result not even the legal fraternity is able to keep pace with the new statutes, to say nothing of the average citizen. Haste and carelessness have characterized the framing of many of the new laws with the result that increased litigation and expense is incurred.

In this respect the First Middlesex Senatorial District is especially fortunate in having had as its representative in the last Senate a sound and able man who, while looking carefully after the welfare of his district, was indefatigable in the investigation of all measures presented and succeeded in putting the brakes on to such an extent that he at once won the attention and admiration of every man in the legislature.

SENATOR GEO. H. ELLIS

Senator George H. Ellis of Newton, who is this year a candidate for re-election to the senate on the Republican ticket, it is only fair to say, was one of the most stalwart and influential members of the last legislature. Honest, sound in judgment, hard working and independent, Senator Ellis never voted for a bill until he had sifted its intent and purpose to the very bottom and satisfied himself the legislation was worthy and necessary. His unmistakable protest against the "rail-roading" of measures through the Senate, while not accepted kindly at first, eventually brought to his side all that was best in that body and made him one of the most important factors to be reckoned with in the disposition of all business before the Senate.

The worth of Senator Ellis as a man hardly needs to be presented to the voters of the First Middlesex District as an argument for his re-election. A native of Medfield, where he worked on a farm as a boy while obtaining an education, he rose by his own honest efforts and hard work until he has become one of the most successful and highly respected citizens of the state. He was a member of the Board of Aldermen in Newton for four years and then was sent to the House of Representatives in 1910, where he served for five years, during which time he acted as chairman of the Committee on Labor one year, chairman of the Committee on Railroads three years, chairman of the Special Committee which settled the Lawrence strike, and on the Street Railways and Social Welfare Committees. He is a Trustee of the Massachusetts Agricultural College and of Simmons College; acting chairman of the Committee on Agriculture of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, director of Stone Institute and the Newton Home for Aged People; Trustee of the Home Savings Bank and the Permanent Fund of the Boston Young Men's Christian Union. In the business world he has been remarkably successful, being treasurer of the George H. Ellis Co., one of the largest printing establishments in Boston and proprietor of Wauwink Farm producing more milk than any other one farm in New England.

Senator Ellis has been a power in the legislature ever since he first entered the House in 1910. The investigation of the Massachusetts tax system now being held was strongly supported by Senator Ellis as a member of the Committee on Taxation, in a desire to reach a solution of that very perplexing problem, and his fight to secure the passage of the bill to require licensed innholders to keep a true registry of their guests was one of the notable combats of the year, the measure having since been taken up and adopted in the same form favored by Mr. Ellis by several western states. The present Boston and Maine bill, giving great power to the Public Service Commission, which has proven so satisfactory to the general public, was another measure which received the very valuable support of Senator Ellis.

The First Middlesex Senatorial District is nominally Republican and Senator Ellis will doubtless be re-elected, but the voters of the district should make this an absolute certainty in this year so fraught with importance to the party in the whole nation. In this regard it is fitting to consider the opponent of Mr. Ellis, the Democratic candidate from Hopkinton who served in the House in 1914. In striking contrast to Senator Ellis, Representative Carr created something of a sensation by the wholesale manner in which he heaped new measures upon an overburdened legislature. Representative Carr filed no less than 43 petitions during the time allowed for the entering of new bills, many of which, if they had passed, would have greatly increased the fixed expenses of the state without any adequate return. One of them alone, the old age pension bill, it is estimated, would have cost the state somewhere between $15,000,000 and $50,000,000 annually, more than doubling the state tax. The value of these measures is best judged by the fact that but seven of the 43 became laws, while of these seven only three were on Representative Carr's personal initiative. One of the seven bills passed was reported on 30 different petitions, one on seven petitions and two others on two petitions each.

The voters of the First Middlesex Senatorial District can have no serious doubt as to the relative worth of the two candidates presented to them for this office and the opportunity of returning to the Senate one of the ablest men who has ever represented this district should be met with an overwhelming majority for Senator George H. Ellis of Newton.

CLASSICAL HIGH

The officers of the Sophomore Class will be elected Thursday morning. In this election the Australian ballot will be used. It is felt that this method will be a great improvement over the system in recent meetings of electing officers by standing vote.

The Newton High School Debating Club will hold a dance in the gymnasium Friday evening, October 22, at 8.00. Spaulding's Orchestra will furnish the music. Admission is 15 cents for one or 25 cents for two.

Several of the girls of the Senior Class held a meeting Monday noon for the purpose of trying to organize a girls' cheering section for the football games. The absence of organized cheering at the games this fall has been very noticeable, so it seems that the girls are taking a stride in the right direction in promoting better support of the team.

Newton's victory over Somerville in football Saturday was one of the big surprises of the early school season. The heavier and more powerful Somerville players came to Clifton Field expecting a walk-over. In the first half they tore through the Newton line repeatedly, gaining from five to ten yards at every rush, and seeming able to break through almost at will. A pass which went wrong and several penalties alone prevented their scoring. In the last half, however, the Newton boys came back in a hard and determined fashion, and showing all the old dash and fighting spirit which has characterized former Newton teams, stopped the visitors' attack and carried the ball from mid-field for a touchdown.

One of the three "N" men, Comick, who had been prevented by injuries from playing until this week, reported for practice Tuesday. His presence should greatly strengthen the line.

The Huntington School eleven will meet Newton in the next game Friday. Huntington has won overwhelming victories over Melrose and Melrose Arts. Their lineup contains several of the best players in Greater Boston schools.

The girls' hockey practice continues on Monday and Wednesday afternoons. The call has been issued for candidates for the Freshman football team. Practice will be held at Cabot Park every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

MORGAN-MILLER

One of the prettiest home weddings of the season took place Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Topham on North street, Northampton, when Miss Florence Miller of Northampton and Harry Francis Morgan of Newton, were married, the ceremony being performed beneath an arch of autumn leaves and hydrangeas by Rev. George Foster Prentiss, pastor of the Florence Congregational Church. The single ring service was used. Miss Elva Topham played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" as the processional. The bridesmaid was Miss Sue Rollins of Barrytown, N. Y., and the bridegroom was attended by Robert Miller, a brother of the bride. H. E. Elder and Le Roy Morgan, brother of the bridegroom acted as ushers.

The bride wore a gown of imported dove gray satin, the wedding gown of her mother, and wore a veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried bride roses. The bridesmaid wore yellow silk and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Morgan received many beautiful and useful gifts, including one from the members of the Nu Gamma Chi club, of which the bride is a member. The bride's gift to her attendant was a gold crescent holding a cluster of pearls, and that of the bridegroom to the best man was a gold watch set with pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan are away on a wedding trip to New York and Boston, the bride's traveling suit, being of dark green garbardinette trimmed with fur, with which she wore a hat of green velvet. Upon their return they will live on South Main street, Florence, where they will receive their friends after January 1, 1916.

CHRISTIAN FORUM MEETING

Begins Season With Interesting Discussion of the Equal Suffrage Question

Eliot Church was completely filled on Sunday evening at the first meeting of the Christian Forum for the present season. The subject for discussion was "Equal Suffrage as a Moral Question," the speakers being representatives of the leading organizations of the state, in favor and opposed to woman suffrage. Mrs. Teresa Crowley was the speaker of the Massachusetts Equal Suffrage Association and Miss Marjorie Dorman of New York spoke for the Massachusetts Association of Women Opposed to Suffrage.

Each speaker was given 45 minutes and was expected to answer the questions which usually follow discussions of the Forum. The order of speaking was determined by lot. Mrs. Crowley presenting her side of the question first. Miss Dorman was a much more finished speaker than Mrs. Crowley and had a much better stage presence, if that is the correct way to speak of a church function. Her answers to the questions were apt and bright and she made a most favorable impression on the audience, altho she failed to present any able arguments on her side.

Mrs. Crowley was the first speaker. She said that it was her belief that this question of Suffrage is one of the greatest moral questions which has come before the public for some time. The fact that it is a moral question can best be shown by counting those forces which are lined up for and against it.

The greatest opponent of Suffrage is undoubtedly the liquor interests. There has recently come to my attention two letters one signed by the Secretary of the Brewers' Association and the other signed by the Secretary of the Mass. Liquor League, whereby it is shown that they are endeavoring to raise money to place Anti-Suffrage speakers in every city and town within the next two weeks for the purpose of defeating Suffrage at the coming election. We know in the last Primary in Ward 19 in Boston, a Ward which is full of brewery workers, that a circular was issued addressed to the voters asking them to vote only for the candidate who had voted against the Suffrage resolve in the House at its last session. Therefore in considering this topic as a Moral issue I place the liquor interests first as the greatest opponent of suffrage.

The next opponent of Suffrage is the Political Boss, the man who feels that he has control of the electorate in his particular district and who feels that the introduction of Suffrage might make a complete change in his plans and might throw him out of a job.

The third opponent that I might mention is the great corporate interests. In the constitutional convention recently held in New Hampshire the lobby which worked against the proposition of equal suffrage was the lobby of the Boston and Maine Railroad.

In California at the time Equal Suffrage was being considered a lobby of the Southern Pacific was opposed to the proposition.

These three are the real enemies of Equal Suffrage.

Regarding the opposition of the liquor interests a letter written by an Oregon brewer of beer to a Mass. brewer has recently come into my hands. This letter reads somewhat as follows: "We in Oregon are selling out for anything we can get because business has gone so bad and the market is still more curtailed. We contribute this, first, to Woman Suffrage; second, to the Initiative and Referendum; and third, to whiskey. If you are in danger from any of these I hope you will organize to defeat it."

We often hear the remark that a woman's place is in the home. When you consider how many things in and adjacent to the home must be regulated by legislation such as the milk supply, food supply, water supply, clean or dirty streets, etc., it seems like common sense to give a woman control over the things which she is interested in and controls in the home.

Every laboring man in the country, from Samuel Gompers down, has said in numberless resolutions, that the ballot in the hands of woman is an economic necessity.

It has been said that women can secure anything they desire by arousing public opinion. Public opinion backed by a vote is a more effective thing than without a vote.

Miss Dorman stated that this question should be considered only from a moral standpoint, and in her opinion it is uneconomic, unbusiness-like and unscientific, as it would mean practically a duplication of our present government.

In considering a business proposition we always consider how we can get the best possible results from the lowest amount of time, energy and money spent on the job. Living is not a governmental function; it is a question of economy and efficiency in government. In our class government which we have in this country, the granting of equal suffrage will merely mean the doubling up of our present class standing at a greatly increased cost.

I do not believe in something for nothing. Our friends on the other side say the cost will not increase materially, but I know you cannot print two sets of ballots as cheaply as one. I know that a voting precinct can only contain a certain number of voters and if you double up, it will certainly mean the maintenance of two precincts instead of one, and I know the equipment for these costs something.

Miss Dorman quoted figures showing that the cost of the State Government in California had doubled since the State had granted equal suffrage.

QUESTIONS.

Do you mean to say that the majority of married couples have exactly the same social and political ideas?

Miss Dorman: I do not. 99 per cent of the married women however are bound to vote as their husbands do, thereby disenfranchising the husband and every old bachelor will have the laugh on a married man.

Why have not the Suffrage states provided better working hours for their women?

Mrs. Crowley: They have taken the matter up somewhat. Regarding the conditions in Massachusetts, the so-called 54 hour week is not exactly what it is supposed to be. It really means that women and children cannot work more than an average of 54 hours in a week for the whole year. They might not work at all in dull seasons of the year and when the rush season comes the employer can force them to work as many hours as he sees fit.

Do you not think that women property owners should have a right to vote?

Miss Dorman: The U. S. Supreme Court has decided that nobody has a right to vote. It rests with the sovereign states to determine who shall have the privilege. Paying taxes does not entitle one to vote. Minors, foreigners and corporations pay taxes but cannot vote.

Do the women of Massachusetts want the vote?

Mrs. Crowley: In this connection I can only point to the two organizations which we represent. The Mass. Woman's Suffrage Association has a membership of over 100,000 a large percentage of which has been enrolled in the past year and a half. The Association which my opponent represents has a membership of less than 18,000 gathered in 20 years. There are other bodies of women who have voted in favor of this proposition, many of whose members are not connected with our association. The Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs is one of these.

What has increased the expenditures so largely in California? Miss Dorman: Of course natural growth to some extent and also because of the duplication in government when the women received the ballot. Why send two people to do a job that one can do?

UPPER FALLS A. A. AND CATHOLIC CLUB SERIES

In answer to the article written by Mr. William H. Rand, under the head of "A Hollow Victory," I would like to give a brief history of the series.

Three years ago, which was the first of a series between the two clubs, Upper Falls was under a handicap of having their regular twirler, Mr. Estelle, away on his vacation at York Beach. The management sent three telegrams, which the manager of the York Beach baseball team, kept in his possession until Saturday evening for the reason of using Estelle himself. Mr. Slattery, on Saturday morning, engaged John Murray of Everett to twirl in the afternoon. West Newton using Bobby Gill of Boston College High. Upper Falls won—1 to 0, 13 innings. The following Saturday Upper Falls also won, Estelle pitching against Gill and Higgins, Gill being driven from the box. The last game of this series, which was the best three out of five, Upper Falls again used Estelle, while West Newton used Foley, the Holy Cross and former Boston Red Sox star for a pitcher, and Nelson of the Canadian League as a catcher, Upper Falls again winning.

The second year, which was a series of two out of three, Upper Falls won both games easily, using their regular twirler, Joe Falley, West Newton using Abbott, a former New England League pitcher.

This season Upper Falls was under a handicap, Estelle going bad from the start with a lame arm, so was compelled to use Higgins and "a Mr. O'Brien" referred to in Mr. Rand's article, who pitched six games.

When the series opened, Estelle pitched, and, by the way, it was his eighth straight victory from West Newton, Upper Falls using 8 players, residents of Newton, West Newton 3, Upper Falls winning. The second game Upper Falls lost in 11 innings, O'Brien pitching. Upper Falls using 8 players, residents of Newton, West Newton 3. The third game Upper Falls lost, again pitching O'Brien, Upper Falls using 8 players, residents of Newton, West Newton 3. The fourth game Upper Falls engaged John Murray of Everett as a pitcher, using 6 players, residents of Newton, West Newton 3. The deciding game Upper Falls was not able to engage the Professional (?) pitcher Murray, he having gone to Georgetown University, so engaged Martin, another professional pitcher, a graduate of the Bridgeport High School team this spring. Upper Falls used 6 players, residents of Newton, West Newton 3.

It seems too bad that Upper Falls should have the championship, but in all fairness, Mr. Rand, do you not think that a team using so many players from the city deserves the name?

By a careful perusal of the facts, it seems that there are a number of chestnuts in the Hollow that the squirrels have not gathered yet.

room is a handsome marble clock over the vault entrance, the gift of President George P. Bullard. The slogan of the bank, "Safety for Savings," is also inscribed over the vault door. The vault itself is 10 by 11 feet in dimensions and constructed of concrete with two rows of steel bars, vertical and horizontal placed six inches on centres, and is steel lined. It has a solid steel vestibule and door, 21 inches in thickness, the door alone weighing ten tons. It is equipped with a triplicate time lock and the day gate has a bell attachment, which rings every time it is opened. The vault is electrically protected, with wires embedded in the concrete, so that it would be impossible to cut thru the structure without giving an alarm. There is a vault beneath in the basement which will be used for storage and other purposes.

On the mezzanine floor, over the vault is a beautiful room for meetings of the trustees, finished like the entire building, in handsome mahogany.

The building is lighted from a centre panel in the ceiling of translucent glass and by two large windows one on each side. Artificial light is given by electricity from attractive fixtures hung from the ceiling. There are three toilets in the building, complete with the latest improvements in sanitary fixtures. The building is heated by steam and equipped for continuous hot water.

Additional protection is afforded by an electric system connected with each counter, which sounds an alarm in the police station across the street.

The architect was Mr. Thomas M. James, and H. L. Hemenway Co. were the builders. The cost, including land was about $37,500.

The public inspection on Wednesday afternoon and evening attracted several hundred depositors and others interested and everyone was impressed with the appearance and utility of the building. An interesting feature of the opening was the gifts of flowers from the other banking institutions of the city, and which were attractively displayed around the building.

MR. GEORGE P. BULLARD
 Pres. West Newton Savings Bank.

The West Newton Savings Bank was founded in 1887 by the late James H. Nickerson, and has had a steady and constant growth, until its deposits now amount to over $2,000,000. Its officers are George P. Bullard, president; Charles A. Potter and Frank E. Hunter, vice presidents; Roland F. Gammons, 2nd, treasurer, and J. Ellis Gammons, assistant treasurer. The trustees are George P. Bullard, Charles A. Potter, Frank E. Hunter, Edward C. Burrage, Hon. J. C. Kennedy, Hon. Chas. E. Hatfield, R. F. Gammons, 2nd, Jarvis Lamson, George P. Hatch, John S. Alley, Herbert E. Fales and Francis Newhall.

The banking hours are from 8 A. M. to 3 P. M. daily except Saturday, when they are from 8 A. M. to 12 M. The trustees are now considering the advisability of opening the bank on Saturday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock for the convenience of those who are unable to attend to banking business during the usual hours.

The work of removal from the old quarters to the new building is now in progress and will be completed by Monday of next week.

NEWTON WINS AGAIN

Newton High's football team won its fourth consecutive victory by defeating Somerville High at Clafin Field, Newtonville, last Saturday afternoon, the score being 7-0. Vachon scored the only touchdown of the game in the last period.

The contest was replete with thrills and proved a gruelling affair. Penalties were numerous and much time was taken out for injured players. The most serious injury was sustained by Arthur Bradley, Somerville tackle, who received a fractured rib that will keep him out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Throughout the first period the visitors did most of the offensive work. The Newton line failed to hold, and after a series of rush plays the ball was brought within five yards of Newton's line, to be lost when Burkhardt intercepted a forward pass. Somerville continued to gain ground through the second session and succeeded in keeping the ball constantly in Newton's territory.

Newton came back strong in the second half and did most of the offensive work. Somerville resorted to punting in an effort to keep the ball in the home territory. The third period ended with the sphere in Newton's possession on the visitors' 10-yard line, and was carried over by Vachon after three attempts.

NEWTON Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Mr. E. E. Rittenhouse, president of the Life Extension Institute, tells us that we are becoming a weak-muscled, physically unfit nation. This is owing to not having enough natural exercise. Our school children, our young men, our business and professional men—all ages and classes—are not having sufficient exercise of the right kind. Sitting in the bleachers, watching a ball game, is not the exercise that develops the bodies and muscles of the spectators. Give the Newton Y. M. C. A. the chance to build up the physique, and we have taken the first step toward national preparedness. Let the gymnasium, the swimming pool, the skating rink and the running track make Newton boys and men strong and healthy—more manly because more virile.

The Membership Campaign is bringing in a good many new members. 120 have joined the Association already this month and before November first we hope to bring this number up to 300.

The Bowling Tournament begins on November first. All those interested please enroll by Monday, Oct. 25th.

The Social Committee is planning to have the first stunt night Monday evening, Oct. 25th, at 8 o'clock. Mr. H. C. Fraser is in charge of the entertainment. All members are invited to get together in the lobby at that time and enjoy the fun.

The first meeting of the fellowship Club will be held on the same evening at 6.30.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Newton Y. M. C. A. will be held next Wednesday, October 27, at three o'clock in the Association parlors. Mrs. Irving H. Upton will deliver an address on "Fretfulness in the Home."

George of Haverhill, the Democratic by Hon. Frank H. Pope, a former state auditor, and the prohibition party by Mr. G. W. Calderwood.

UNITARIAN CLUB

The Unitarian Club held its first meeting for the season at Channing Church Thursday evening, with President George M. Nash in the chair. Rev. Dr. Charles W. Wendte was the speaker of the evening, giving a lecture on "Starr King in California." He told most impressively the story of the life of Thomas Starr King, who is little known to the present generation, but in the days before the Civil War was the greatest preacher in Boston save perhaps Theodore Parker, and was the most brilliant of the men then famous on the lecture platform.

In 1860, Mr. King delivered a call to the then new Unitarian church in San Francisco, where Dr. Wendte, who had gone there a year earlier, had the fortune to make his acquaintance. He related many incidents of Mr. King's life illustrating his great kindness of heart, his keen wit and his love of nature. In 1861 Starr King entered into the struggle to save California for the Union, being, as Dr. Wendte said, "the only man on the coast whose talent and character fitted him for so grand a work."

Two disloyal parties were in the field against the Union party. "Let the candidate of the Secession party triumph," said Starr King, "we shall have civil war, for the loyal men of California who owe allegiance to their country would bear no such treason. I know ministers who, if they were not of sufficient physique to march or carry a rifle, would load the revolvers for others to fire and who would, if need be, tear out the leaves of their Bibles for gun wadding." The Union cause triumphed at the polls and the state was saved.

For two years longer he continued his activity as preacher and lecturer, bringing the people of the state finally into a strong position in favor of the abolition of slavery. Broken down by his efforts, he died in March, 1864, after a life of only four years in California, in which time he did, Dr. Wendte said, "more than any other man, by example and speech, to lift the Pacific states to a higher level of ethical standards." The scene at his death bed and the profound sorrow of state and city on the occasion of his funeral were described in thrilling language. "It was fitting," the speaker said, "that the flag for which he had sacrificed his life as truly as if he had fallen in battle under its folds, should be his burial shroud." Starr King's only book was his famous work on the White Mountains, entitled "The White Hills," through which he did more than any other writer to make known the wonders of that region, then little known to the outside world.

Two grand mountains, Mt. Starr King in the Yosemite Valley and another of like name in New Hampshire, "life his name upward into the region of storms and stars." His statue, by Daniel C. French, stands in Golden Gate Park. "Lifting its image against the blue of the California sky, a reminder of his services to humanity."

CITY GARAGE AUTHORIZED

Aldermen Approropriate $6750 for New Building to be Erected at West Newton

The city garage which has been talked about for the past year and which has been actively before the city government since last June, was finally authorized Monday evening at the regular meeting of the board of aldermen, when $6750 was appropriated for its construction, $500 added for possible emergency work on the foundation, and $600 appropriated for two sets of plans which had been prepared. The matter was passed by unanimous vote, only two aldermen, Messrs. Harriman and Pratt being absent.

Hearings were held on petition of the Telephone and Edison Companies for joint location of poles on Dedham street, a written remonstrance being filed by the estate of E. D. Thayer, and Mr. Green for the Telephone Co., stating that the matter referred simply to ownership of existing poles. Mr. I. L. Garrison, 2nd protested against an Edison Co. pole on Newtonville avenue to which Mr. Gould stated that the pole was needed to reach a new subscriber for service. No one appeared on a pole location for the Edison Co. on Lincoln avenue. Private garage petitions of Levi Cooley and Edwin S. Webster were unopposed. J. A. Dunphy opposed petition of the Evans Friction Cone Co. to keep gasoline on Needham street and Mr. W. A. Mosman protested against a public garage wanted by H. L. Johnson on Commonwealth avenue near Manet road.

A hearing was also given on the widening of Beacon street at Waban and subsequently the widening was authorized.

Mayor Childs sent in requests of the Water Commissioner for $1480 for laying water mains in Brackett road, Cotton street, Eliot avenue and Quinobosc road, for settlement of various claims, for payment of back bills of Charity Dept., for $1950 for drain in Green and West streets, $2729 for drain in Centre and Elmwood streets, $4230 for work on the Newtonville drain, for $450 additional for Workmen's Compensation, for $400 for furniture for Wolcott and Peirce schools, for $40 for tuition of Fordyce Burnham at Northampton, for $407.47 reimbursement for Water Excess account, all of which were subsequently adopted. The trustees of the library requested that their employees be exempted from the sick pay and vacation ordinance and the City engineer recommended the widening of Howe street.

Petitions were received from E. A. Knight for bowling alleys, Austin street, Newton Lodge G. U. O. of O. F. for pool table, N. Lipschitz for junk shop license, Margaret Sullivan for sewer in Eliot street, William Dyson for sewer in Penn. Ave., Hattie F. Tracy for sewer in Centre street, Max Silverman for transfer of junk license, J. H. Martin for Common Victualer license on Bridge street, Emma Baldwin for common victualer license at 1222 Hoyt street, M. J. Hartnett claim for injuries, Thomas Riley, claims for injuries, Boston Elevated for underground conduits in Tremont, Park, Washington and Centre streets, and Wilson et al for widening of Clark street.

Petitions of the Gas Light Co. to open Commonwealth avenue for gas mains, of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Newtonville avenue, Washington street, Ballard and Thornon streets, of the Edison Co. for attachments on Walnut street, of C. F. Keating for a wagon license, of Sarah J. Jackson for intelligence office license, and Amede Gignras for license to sell second hand articles were granted.

On recommendation of committee, sewers authorized in Brackett road, Park avenue, Cotton street, Hood and Rogers streets, Jackson road and Fisher avenue, the Riverside Recreation Grounds were authorized to connect with the Newton sewer system, the Mayor and other city officials were requested to oppose the plan of the B. & A. R. R. to floor the Woodland bridge with planking, hearings were assigned on Nov. 1 for laying concrete sidewalks on Broadway and Collins road, betterment assessments were ordered levied on Nobscot road, Telephone conduits granted in Commonwealth avenue and Edison conduits in Waverley avenue and Nonantum street, a pool table was granted J. DeAngelis in Thompsonville, claims of Elmer F. Hudson for rent of rifle range settled for $100, that of A. I. English for setting glass for $1.70, that of Mrs. R. H. Pierrepont for injuries for $25, workmen's compensation paid to arbitrators for Nicholas Strofollonio, to Thomas Darcy, and to Ignazio Lettanio, and soldiers relief granted Mrs. Josephine F. Fountain for $6 per month.

The order authorizing sale of land held by tax title on Tamworth road was rejected on recommendation of the Rules Committee and a new ordinance regulating this matter adopted.

The order authorizing abatement of tax on land of Metropolitan Water Co. on Pleasant street, in exchange for its use for playground purposes was also rejected.

An order authorizing a petition to the Legislature for the extension of the boulevard on the south side of the Charles river from its present terminus near Charlesbank road to the corner of Jefferson and Maple streets was adopted after Alderman Early had explained the difficulties in the way of having this boulevard meet Charlesbank road, and Alderman Jarvis had called attention to the danger of additional traffic in Charlesbank road and the large amount necessary to widen it.

An order to consider the advisability of establishing the office of purchasing agent was referred. The Purty Ice Co. was refused permission to use the water from the underdrain of the sewer for cooling purposes.

Alderman Bartlett opposed the report of the License committee refusing the petition of M. T. Mehigan to locate a public garage on Commonwealth avenue near Fuller street. Alderman Rice said that the committee had given the matter careful consideration, that the location was on the sharpest curve of the boulevard and at its most dangerous point. Alderman Bartlett said the board ought not to exercise any power given them for one purpose, for any other reason.

The matter of garage location was for the purpose of fire prevention. This is not a dangerous locality for fire purposes and to refuse this permit for that ostensible reason was only a subterfuge. This land which is near the Newton Cemetery and adjoins a swamp will never be used for residential purposes and must be utilized for business, if at all. To refuse this permit would deny Mr. Mehigan the right to develop his own property as he deems fit. There is no public garage to serve the people of Waban at present, and it is not a square deal to refuse this permit.

Alderman Rice called attention to the accidental death of a woman on Sunday morning at a dangerous place on the boulevard and said the board would endanger life by allowing a garage to be erected at this point on the avenue. Commonwealth avenue gives many people their first impressions of this city and it ought not to be lined with garages, although there is tremendous pressure to have them authorized. Mr. Rice also claimed that the power of the board to act on these matters covered the possible nuisance caused by their erection as well as the fire hazard.

The permit was then refused. The board adjourned at 9.45 P. M.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The Club Editor would acknowledge with thanks the many copies of club year books which she has already received. They are of inestimable assistance in keeping in touch with the clubs and enable her to serve the clubs to a much greater degree of efficiency.

Loyalty to one's organization rather than to any particular person or leader is something that needs to be emphasized from time to time. It matters not whether it is one's family or one's community, one's church or one's country, it is all the same. These times of stress the world over demand a greater amount of loyalty on the part of all the people than has ever been demanded before. Let the women keep this clearly in mind and help to keep public sentiment in the right direction that our country may be a unit in whatever may arise from the entanglement across the sea. This will be patriotism indeed.

Local Happenings

The Newton Highlands Monday Club held a most enjoyable meeting this week at the home of Mrs. C. H. Keeler, when Mrs. M. M. Griswold had charge of "An Afternoon with the Poets." Selections were read from Keats, Shelley, Burns, James Whitcomb Riley, Robert Schuller, Edward Rowland Sill, and Chesterton. She was assisted by Mrs. H. B. Walker, Mrs. H. W. Kimball and Mrs. M. S. Wallace, who sang several of Eugene Field's poems which have been set to music. Mrs. W. C. B. Robbins accompanied her upon the piano. A social hour with refreshments concluded the afternoon.

The study of Belgium was continued by the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. at its meeting on Monday afternoon with Mrs. W. T. Logan in charge. She said that the people are of two distinct races, Flemish and Walloons, and that they are very united although very distinct. Their habits and customs were spoken of and many of the important cities were described.

On Tuesday morning the Review Club of Auburndale met at the home of Miss Lucy Burr on Hancock street. Miss Rider was chairman and read a paper on "The Life of Aeschylus." She also gave a synopsis of "Prometheus Bound" and the play was then read by Mrs. Bridgman, Mrs. Rider, Mrs. Brown and Miss Rider.

At the meeting of the executive board of the Newton Federation on Monday morning Mrs. B. E. Taylor, chairman of the Social Service committee, reported the opening of the Welfare Bureau in July, that already the secretary had proved how much is needed to be done during the summer when previously these social activities have ceased through the absence of so many of the workers from the city. The outlook for the usefulness of the Bureau, as well as the financial side, is very encouraging. All persons are urged to turn to it when in need of information or assistance. The work of the Dental Clinic is going on satisfactorily under the direction of a committee of the dentists. Last year, Mrs. Taylor stated, it was occasionally necessary to employ a dentist from out of town which had involved expense. This year they propose to open the clinic only as there are local dentists to do the work, but it is expected that there will be no lack of assistance and that it will be possible to keep it open regularly as was done last year. The committee looks ultimately to its being taken over by the city.

Mrs. L. H. Marshall of the Education committee announced a rummage sale at Twombly House, Newton Upper Falls, on Nov. 10 and asked contributions, particularly of clothing. She mentioned the need of more bulbs for the garden at the Technical School and a sale of the week of Oct. 19. The fact that all the high schools are overcrowded was also referred to. The committee plan to arrange for another conference meeting of parents and teachers later in the season.

The chair was authorized to appoint the delegates to the State Federation meeting at Beverly and after a lively discussion it was voted not to instruct.

Mrs. Mary Schenck Woolman of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston gave a short talk upon "The Hygiene of Clothing." In which she urged those present, among whom were a large class from the Vocational school, to keep themselves so covered that they would be dry, clean, unrestricted and warm. She enlarged upon the dangers from soiled clothing, from impure dyes, from uneven covering and cited the present tendency of young girls in particular to muffle their necks with furs and clothe their feet in low pumps and the thinnest of silk stockings, leaving for a considerable distance their ankles exposed, owing to the prevailing fashion of very short skirts.

The first meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will be held in the New Church parlors on Tuesday, November 2nd at 2.45 P. M.

An account of the President's Conference held on Wednesday afternoon will be given in our next issue.

The opening of the West Newton Women's Educational Club is marked by the president's reception, which was held at the Hunnewell Club in Newton on Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5 of the clock.

Pres. Mrs. Walter A. Beedle was assisted in receiving by Mrs. H. W. Milliken, president of the Newton Federation, who was formerly Mrs. McIntyre; Mrs. Geo. Phipps, one of the charter members of the club; Mrs. H. S. Wells and Mrs. Geo. St. Amant past president.

Mrs. C. E. Conant, Mrs. A. B. Munroe and Mrs. C. L. Anderson acted as ushers.

The invited guests were Miss Anna Whiting, Mrs. Emma Thresher, Mrs. Whittemore, Mrs. DeW. Sampson, Mrs. F. B. Hornbrooke, Mrs. Alvan Fisher and Mr. Harry Lutz.

Among the many attractive and beautiful gowns were the following. Mrs. Walter A. Beedle, black net over rose charmeuse with bodice of black velvet and shadow lace; Mrs. Harry S. Wells, old rose pussy willow taffeta with Chantilly lace; Mrs. Geo. St. Amant, black net with jet trimmings; Mrs. Olin Dickerman, yellow crepe de chine with martin trimmings and picture hat to match; Miss Anna Whiting, white silk in Japanese embroidery; Mrs. Emma Loresner, a very beautiful blue importation; Mrs. H. W. Milliken, white crepe de chine, corsage bouquet of Ward roses and Gainsboro hat.

Delightful refreshments were served by the hospital committee, comprised of Mrs. G. C. Holbrook, Mrs. W. A. Clark, Mrs. S. W. Woolston, Mrs. Edw. Dexter and Mrs. W. D. Keefe, all of whom were very pleasantly gowned in white.

A very attractive musical program was rendered by Miss Gertrude Bealey, pianist; Miss Eva C. Kellogg, violinist; Miss Lucile Quimby, cellist; all artist graduates of the Conservatory.

THE CLARENCE CLUB

A capacity house at the Newtonville Methodist Church on Wednesday evening greeted Rev. Albert R. Williams of East Boston, when he gave his illustrated lecture on "Thru the German Lines." Before 8 o'clock every seat was occupied and chairs filled all available space.

Mr. Williams, who was arrested as a spy and given a military trial by Germans in Brussels, related many thrilling experiences; he spoke graphically of the conditions in Germany, treating his subject with a keen appreciation of the horrors and dangers in the war zone, yet introducing many delightful touches of humor.

THE BROTHERHOOD

The Auburndale Brotherhood held its first supper and meeting of the season on Wednesday evening in the chapel of the Congregational church.

There was a large attendance both at the supper and the meeting which followed. Mr. Albert Hunt of the Milton Academy, was the speaker and his subject was "With the American Ambulance Hospital in Paris." Mr. Hunt, who spent last year as an orderly in the hospital at Neuilly, a suburb of Paris, was an accomplished speaker and entertained his audience with many interesting accounts of his personal experiences.

If some Rip Van Winkle had gone to sleep up in the Blue Hills in 1846 (69 years ago) and should wake up today--- one of the greatest changes he would see would be in the Milk Business.

He would find upon inquiry that H. P. Hood & Sons have been leaders in the producing of Milk that is clean, pure and safe.

In short, that H. P. Hood & Sons were pioneers in every betterment of Greater Boston's Milk supply, that they had worked most steadfastly through all the sixty-nine years of his slumber to protect the health of Boston folks.

And yet there are still too many dairies where old Rip would feel at home. Dairies never touched by the hand of progress--Where unsanitary methods still prevail--Where precautions against disease are never thought of and that an epidemic had been traced to such dairies nearly every year, and the wonder of it all would be that such conditions could exist, that there were people careless enough about their Milk supply to support them when Hood's Milk, safeguarded by every device known to science, produced in the right way to better its quality, handled to preserve its purity--and perfectly pasteurized to insure its safety--costs no more than unsafe Milk.

The leadership of H. P. Hood & Sons was again internationally recognized when Mr. C. H. Hood was re-elected president of the International Milk Dealers' Association. Boston has recognized it for 69 years, for not a single case of disease has been traced to Hood's Milk during all that time.

Miss Hersey and Mrs. Allen Speak at the Hunnewell Club on Monday

There was a large assemblage of enthusiastic advocates of Anti-Suffrage and their friends at the meeting which was held Monday afternoon in Stanley Hall, at the Hunnewell Club, Newton, when Miss Heloise E. Hersey and Mrs. Thomas Allen presented many, good, sound, logical reasons, supported by facts why women should not enter the field of politics.

The meeting was presided over by Miss Helen Cobb, and in her introductory remarks, Miss Cobb said, that those who preside over a meeting usually begin with an apology, but the reason that she was there was, that Miss Hersey was a good friend of hers; she said they would have no band and no tea would be served, but "in the way of speakers, we have brought you the goods," and they were not going to tell the women what their rights are, but they were going to tell them what their duty is. "In these days," said Miss Cobb, "we are forgetting our duty, but women know that they can do their duty without entering the political field. She then introduced Miss Hersey who spoke very interestingly on "The Woman Who Loves Her Country." To begin with Miss Hersey said that she was doubtful about argument and wished to say that she was not arguing, but just telling. When she went to College and learned of such women as Maria Mitchell and Julia Ward Howe favoring Suffrage, it was taken for granted that Suffrage was coming; but when she began to study the matter it was different. "Do not let any one make you believe that Suffrage is a right," she said, "for it is not. It is simply a device for political government," a committee appointed for the administration of Government. There are many things said in favor of Suffrage and there are two sets of reasons urged for giving women the vote. First for their own sake, and second for the sake of the country. Now the question is, "Will Suffrage better the condition of women?" In the state of Massachusetts women are far better off today than men. Man cannot sell property without his wife's consent; man is held liable for his wife's debts; there are laws for the custody of children and labor, and all are entirely in favor of women. Suffragists claim that it will help the wages of the working women, but wages are not to be controlled by forces outside of the business world.

Another ridiculous claim is that a benefit to be derived from Suffrage is that it will improve the minds of women, but it has not yet been proved that Suffrage is going to help women in any way. The important question is, not what can we do for ourselves, but, it is, what can we do for our country? The management of a city is a huge proposition and demands economy, experience and expert knowledge. The delusion that so many women are laboring under is, that when they get the vote it is going to help them to accomplish things. Politicians vote for what will be of most benefit to them, and the wives and daughters of these politicians would vote for the man who will give their men folks the particular jobs they are looking after. Suffrage will bring a confusion of questions, but the real question is, are the wives and daughters of all the voters, qualified to cast votes that will benefit the country? The mass of voters is led by the loudest voice, and the most liberal inducements.

The vote for women has not achieved its promised end, in the states where they have the franchise. In California which adopted Woman Suffrage in 1911. Prohibition was defeated in 1914 by nearly 200,000 majority. San Francisco, the Suffragists said, had entered on a new era, and yet a prominent New York newspaper man, who has recently returned from that city, said that it was a "wide open town," and that he had never seen bad conditions until he went to California; the conditions there, today, are 50 per cent worse than he has ever seen anywhere. Miss Hersey does not believe that Suffrage can ever justify itself. Women have a genius for saving that which is lost and they have multitudinous opportunities for doing good without the aid of the ballot. Their work in the Associated Charities, Hospitals, playgrounds, for children, homes for orphans, etc., that is woman's task and just on thing is necessary, "Disinterested Service" outside of politics; the passionate desire to make our country the best place in the world for women and little children, and the political right will not make it possible for women to do their good work.

Miss Hersey was a very entertaining speaker and included in her discourse many interesting anecdotes to illustrate the truth of her assertions. "Women of this 20th Century have got to have the large point of view," she said; "they have got to discover the higher call for disinterested service, and an echo of that higher call is duty, education, philanthropy and labor."

Mrs. Thomas Allen, who is a most charming speaker and well known in Newton, then gave a very convincing address on "Our Side of the Question." "What I have to say," said Mrs. Allen, "is only a repetition of what I have said before. We Antis are not working for our cause, for what we want, or for what we don't want, we are working for what we believe to be the best for women and for our nation. We only ask to be heard. We want all the men to vote "No" at election, and we are striving to bring questions clearly before the voters in our country. We want to get this question clearly before the electorate.

"Please remember that it is only a minority of the women of this country and state who want political rights; the proportion of women actively engaged, or inactively supporting the Suffrage movement, is so small a minority as to conclusively prove that the great majority of women are either opposed or indifferent to the franchise. The widest claim they can make is for 10 per cent and 50 per cent of the women are either opposed, or indifferent.

We have enough indifferent voters, and is it wise to add to the clumsy, unwieldy electorate? Is it just to the majority of the women of this state, that the vote should be given to them just to satisfy a minority who want it? The Suffragists have made a spectacular campaign for fifty years. Now women must realize that if Suffrage is granted to women, they will be forced against their desires, opinions, and beliefs into active political life, and that will mean more work. Are there many women yearning for more work? We are already doing as much as our strength will allow in all kinds of charitable work outside of the home. We ask of the voters that they shall not give us more duties at the request of a minority.

The whole question is a question of a division of duty. Will the women who are asking for these new duties, remember that your work will never be lighter than it is now. Voting is not a right; Suffrage does not exist for the benefit of the individual, but for the benefit of the State. In 1850 we were under the English Common Law. Women have always been protected by the men of Massachusetts, a fact that the most advanced woman cannot get away from. Votes for women are not coming unless the women wish it, and when the majority of women in Massachusetts want the vote, the Anti-Suffragists will give in, and go willingly to the polls. Comparison of votes with population in Suffrage states shows that Suffrage has not yet come, to a large part of our country. Suffrage has met with defeat in 21 states during the last six months. Woman Suffrage is going, not coming. Women in Massachusetts can get everything they want without the ballot. The question which confronts us, is not one of legislation, but one of education. We have good laws in our cities, but the trouble is they are not enforced. Public opinion is what enforces them.

Much has been achieved by women in charities, public schools, etc., outside of politics, and there are not many women who are fitted for public work. We Antis are old fashioned enough to believe that every woman who is bringing up a family of children in a restful, happy, religious home is doing more for her country than she could do in any other way. Sec. Lansing says that Suffrage will add 50 per cent to the election and primaries in Massachusetts. The extra cost of women voters in New York, would be hundreds of thousands." Mrs. Allen cited many instances of what is happening in states where women have the franchise, and in not one of the Suffrage states, have they laws that are comparable to the laws of Massachusetts, New York and Wisconsin. Women and children are the only classes that have never been protected by legislature as to labor laws. No

ELECT McCALL and COOLIDGE

HON. SAMUEL W. McCALL,
Republican Candidate for Governor

HON. CALVIN COOLIDGE,
Republican Candidate for
Lieutenant Governor

Woman Suffrage states have laws prohibiting night work.

Women have more rights in Massachusetts than in any other state and there are the best laws for women and children in our state. Now what is the Suffragist asking for? Something she has not got, that she wants, and if she gets it she won't know what to do with it.

Do not let any one tell you that we have not got superb laws here in Massachusetts for we have, and we ought to be proud of them, and proud of the men who gave them to us. What we Antis are speaking for is only to keep our daughters out of politics. Aggressiveness and antagonism are not going to make women any lovelier. The whole ideal of womanhood seems changed. Dr. Shaw in a speech to the U. S. Senate referred most insultingly to the Antis, calling them "scabs" and parasites, but Suffrage is not making women any broader or more refined and what is preached from the Suffrage platforms will be conducive of much evil, for many of their doctrines are very dangerous and having a bad effect on the young women who listen to them, but woman has held for twenty centuries the ideal of Womanhood, and now it is Christian Civilization that is in the balance. During the meeting Anti-Suffrage literature was distributed by Mrs. Benbow, Miss Ellison, Miss Gay, Miss Foss and Miss M. Foss and red roses were on sale.

One at a Time. The modern tendency in all grades is toward the development and elevation of the individual as a unit. It is the individual that counts in the business world, which has to do solely with the unit.

MAJESTIC THEATRE— Beginning next Monday, October 25th, "The Birth of a Nation" will positively be seen for its last week there. Its run has been the most phenomenal ever known in Boston, beating by several weeks the longest theatrical engagement ever known in that city. The most strenuous efforts were made to prolong the Boston run, either at this theatre, or at still another, but it has been found absolutely impossible to remain any longer, as much as the public plainly desires more opportunities to see this greatest patriotic spectacle ever produced in America. At the end of its thirtieth consecutive week, after having played no less than three hundred and sixty times to as many separate and distinct audiences, "The Birth of a Nation" will terminate its Boston engagement on Saturday night, October 30.

"It Certainly Does Make Cooking Easy"

Glenwoods are always Brim
Full of New Wrinkles

The Glenwood Balanced Baking Damper is far ahead of any other—it is as positive as the turning of a railroad switch—open to start the fire, closed to bake—just this one damper for kindling or baking and best of all, it can't warp or stick.

The Glenwood Revolving Coal Grate is easy to shake at all times, and simply fine for removing clinkers. It is triangular in shape, with three different sides for wear.

The Glenwood Sectional Top is interchangeable—cross pieces can not warp—a wash boiler can be placed at the back as well as in front for quick heating, leaving the front holes free for cooking.

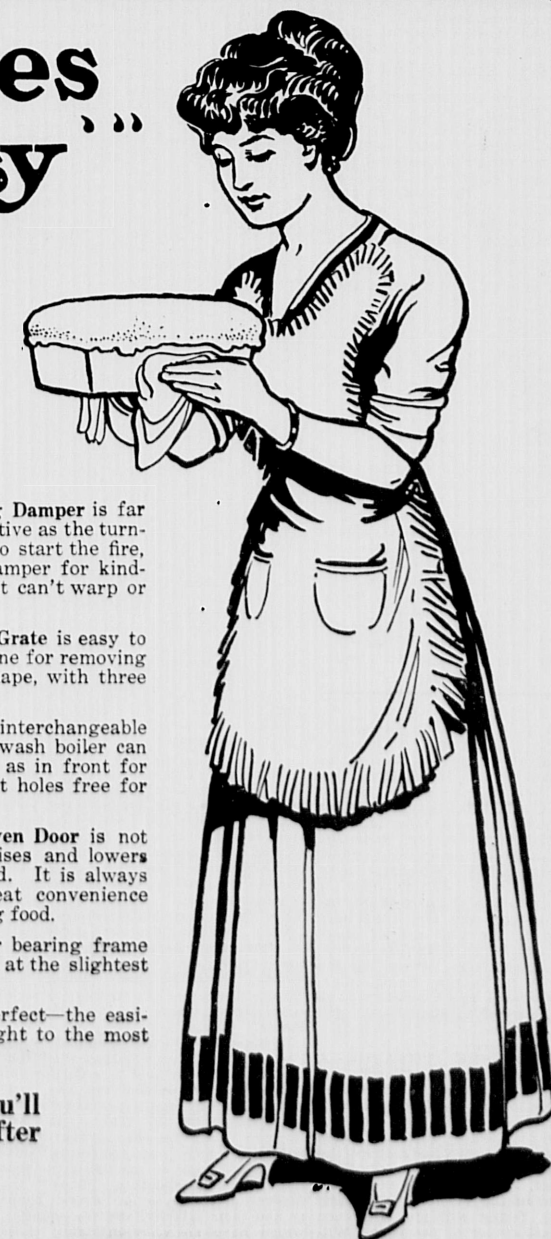

The Glenwood Shelf Under Oven Door is not stationary—it automatically raises and lowers as oven door is opened or closed. It is always level with oven bottom—a great convenience when basting meats or removing food.

The Ash Pan rests on a roller bearing frame—just open door and it rolls out at the slightest touch, neat and clean.

Glenwood Iron is smooth and perfect—the easiest of any to clean—a real delight to the most exacting housekeeper.

Shall the Proposed Amendment to the Constitution Enabling Women to Vote be Approved and Ratified

YES

Among the prominent visitors to Boston this week, are Lord and Lady Aberdeen of Ireland who are being royally entertained by scores of prominent people. Lady Aberdeen in an interview reiterates her devotion to the cause of Suffrage and says that at the close of the war she is hopeful that Woman Suffrage will be overwhelmingly adopted in England.

The Granges all over the State are passing resolutions endorsing Suffrage. Last week Ware Village Grange, Ponkapoag Grange of Canton, and Hadley Grange passed resolutions favoring the pending Woman Suffrage Amendment. Granges were represented in the Boston Parade on October 16th.

The declaration of President Wilson that he intended to vote for Suffrage in New Jersey on October 19th three consternation into the ranks of the Anti-Suffragists. They were hopeful that the President would declare against Suffrage but not only President Wilson but his entire cabinet have signified their intention of standing by the women of their various States in order that a wider democracy and deeper interest in public affairs will obtain among all the people. It is generally conceded that if New Jersey is carried for Suffrage on October 19th, that nothing can possibly stop the Suffrage Amendment in Massachusetts from being adopted by the voters on November 2. Even if New Jersey does not carry, the words of President Wilson will have a wonderful effect on the electorate of Massachusetts as it is well known that the President has found it necessary in handling New Jersey to take many a high moral stand against the wishes of certain avaricious politicians of that State who are working against Suffrage.

One of the questions that Colonel Irish, who has been imported by the Anti-Suffragists from California to assail the women of his State and decry suffrage, has been unable to answer is the one with regard to the great discrepancy in votes between Massachusetts and California. The Colonel claims that only a few women vote in California. At one of his meetings recently the following question was put to him: "How do you account for it that in California where the population of the State is one million less than the population of Massachusetts, that at the last State election 925,000 votes were cast, while in Massachusetts over 450,000 votes were cast?" Colonel Irish was unable to answer the question as there is no answer to it. The women of California vote in just the same strength as the men, and they have so accelerated interest in elections that the registration of men voters in California has increased wonderfully since Woman Suffrage became effective. It will take more than vicious attacks by Colonel Irish to offset these wonderful figures on the voting strength of California.

Nothing shows the non-partisan attitude of Woman Suffrage any more than the five candidates for governor on the five leading tickets. Governor Walsh, Democratic candidate for governor, Samuel W. McCall, Republican candidate, Nelson B. Clark, Progressive candidate, Walter S. Hutchins, Socialist candidate, and William Shaw, Prohibition candidate, are all suffragists. How it is possible for any man in the State of Massachusetts to think well enough of any one of these men to vote for him for Governor and at the same time disagree with him on the most important question that has ever been placed before the voters of Massachusetts since we became a state, is something that we can not understand.

SITTING ON A JURY

The following conversation was overheard at a railway station in Newton. First speaker, "How would you like to have your wife sit on a jury?" Second speaker, "Well, I have been trying to get a chance to sit on a jury ever since I have lived in Newton, and I have not succeeded yet. If my wife's chances aren't any better than mine, I should worry."

To the woman who fears jury service it might be found very comforting to ask her husband, son or brother if he ever sat on a jury.

WILBUR THEATRE—One of the most important events of the season will be the production of Bernard Shaw's latest invention, "Androcles and the Lion," which Lillian McCarthy, Granville Barker and Percy Burton will present at the Wilbur Theatre for three weeks beginning next Monday, October 25th. "Androcles and the Lion," aside from the interest which always surrounds the presentation of a new play by Shaw, has a particular interest for the public of this city as it will show for the first time here something of the new art of stage decoration, of which Granville Barker is a leading exponent. Preceding the performance of Shaw's Fable play, Anatole France's short comedy "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" will be acted.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—A brand new mystery farce, "Coat Tails," will be given next week at the Castle Square Theatre by the Craig Players. It has three acts and is by a new author, Edward Clarke. Tale first takes place in Mandelbaum's pawn shop; the second tale is in the office of Allen and Turner, attorneys; the third tale is revealed in the Turner apartments. Miss Mary Young will play Florence Turner, first owner of the coat. William P. Carleton, Theodore Friebus, Donald Meek, Betty Barnicoat, Justine Adams, Al Roberts and George Ernst will also appear in the piece.

HOW SUFFRAGE WORKS IN CALIFORNIA

Mrs. Frederick H. Colburn, press chairman of the San Francisco District of the Federation of Women's Clubs, and wife of the Secretary of the California Bankers' Association, writes to the New York Times of Oct. 15 as follows:

"My attention has just been called to an article by Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, entitled, 'What Women Have Gained by Suffrage,' appearing in your issue of Sept. 13.

As a native Californian permit me to reply to the statements contained therein, in concerning the workings of Woman Suffrage in California. In judging the effect of the change in electorate, it will be necessary to confine the inquiry to the small number of women in this State who are actively interested in politics. An observer will have no difficulty in recognizing the suffrage workers. They are distinguished by hard set lines of face, an aggressive, dictatorial manner, and a visibly haughty and worn expression generally. These women do not inspire great respect among other women, and are shunned by men whenever it is possible to do so. Even the politicians pass them by and try to curry favor with the women who oppose suffrage—and these constitute 80 per cent, and still dominate public opinion in California, and our male politicians have more sense than to antagonize them.

A case in point was the refusal of the last Legislature to enact a law compelling women voters to serve on juries. There was no protest from any quarter, but the legislators were not unmindful of the fact that suffrage was put over on the women of this State in a bargain made between the officers of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and the Progressive politicians. There is not now, and never has been, any spontaneous demand for suffrage by the majority of our women. To force a lukewarm, indifferent electorate to appear in police courts—to hear unprintable evidence—and to rub elbows with the riffraff that hangs around these courts, would result in an automatic self-franchisement of all but the radical women voters. By failing to register, a woman citizen could escape jury duty. With us there would be thousands who would take advantage of such a situation.

The last Legislature did less for the benefit of women than any previous Legislature has done in the last twenty years.

The legal status of women has not been improved in California by their enfranchisement. Under the old regime a married woman could by homesteaded exempt property to the amount of $5,000 from any debt owed by the husband. This gave the widow and children enough to meet their immediate wants. Now, in case of death, if there is indebtedness the wife and children lose everything. In the newly established equality, the wife is liable for all debts; she can be made to pay the household expenses and can be sued for alimony!

In the third specification Mrs. Harper states 'that political parties will be more careful in the choice of candidates.' Such has not been the case in California. One of the highest honors possible to bestow at an election has been given to a man whose private life is such that he was refused a nomination for a lesser office and practically driven out of politics by male voters a few years ago. He is now a prime favorite among the women who helped to elect him, and not one of them makes any pretext to ignorance of his record.

There has been one judicial recall in San Francisco by women voters. Instead of the judge, as was expected, given a Magistrate with very scant knowledge of the law and of such a weak character that he would never appeal to any but women voters.

Mrs. Harper also commends the practical viewpoint of the women voters of California. So far as I am able to judge, the leaders are eminently practical. But the tactics used in dealing with opposition from any source would do credit to the days of the Inquisition. There never is but one side to any question under consideration. The leaders of the suffrage movement of this State have proved themselves to be past mistresses of all the 'tricks of the trade.' I am in doubt as to whether any of them know the differences between the Democratic and Republican platforms, but they do know how to do practical politics.

'Were it not for continual agitation, interest in suffrage would die out among the masses of our women. As it is, the registration shows a continued decrease, and this in spite of the fact that questions of vital local interest are before the people for adjustment at the present time.'

California gave women the vote in 1911. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, the State expenditures were $18,691,877. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1915, they were $36,529,993. A part of this increase is accounted for by highway bonds. According to the Los Angeles Times, 'at least $10,000,000 is political plunder.' In 1911 the direct taxes for county purposes were $31,188,129. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, they were $42,292,021. 'The cost of the county government in California,' says the same Journal, 'is about five times the average cost of county government in other American States.'

Comparative figures compiled by the United States Census Bureau show that the per capita tax paid by a Californian for county government in one year would pay his county government tax in Vermont for 241 years. It was through juggling by 'Progressive' politicians that our California statutes have been so manipulated that the State Legislature fixes the number of employees of every county and their salaries; and the counties, which have no voice in fixing those payrolls, must foot the bill. Taxation without representation was tyranny in the American Colonies in 1776; it is a habit in California in 1915.

THE FAELTEN SCHOOL

The Faelten Pianoforte School has opened its nineteenth season with a very satisfactory registration. The School continues to attract a great number of talented pupils and the enrollment for the college course is the largest on record.

The School management has decided to grant a special diploma for work accomplished in the preparatory courses of the School. The diploma will represent the completion of the work equal to the first year of the college course, and will admit the student to the sophomore class without further examination.

REAL ESTATE

Alvord Brothers have made the following sales:

The new frame house and 6100 square feet of land at 93 Carver road, Eliot Station, Newton Highlands, for H. L. Tange to George R. Loud. The house, being new, is not yet assessed, but the value of the property is $5000.

The son of the northernly side of Nobscot road, Newton Centre, containing 17,040 square feet, for the estate of John Ward to Dr. Martin B. Dill, who expects to erect a house for his own occupancy.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—Announcement has just been made that after eight weeks of tremendous success at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, and just when it seemed that the play must leave Boston, the great morality play "Experience" will be transferred play to the Boston Opera House, on Huntington Avenue, for three far weeks. To transfer this great production to the beautiful two million dollar playhouse, the famous home of grand opera, is a startling innovation, which will be watched with interest.

Yet the demand for seats during the remarkable run at the Shubert, which will end next Saturday, October 23d, has been so great that the management decided to take the tremendous risk involved in leasing the immense and magnificent Boston Opera House. The increased seating capacity will accommodate the thousands of people who have so far been unable to secure seats at the Shubert. The play will be given in the most luxurious surroundings, and patrons will be able, in the success, to witness this wonderful drama from the roomy and comfortable orchestra stalls of the most beautiful opera house in the world.

SHUBERT THEATRE—It is an adroit association of famous stars that Joseph Brooks has combined for the revival of "Tribby" at the Shubert the two weeks commencing next Monday, October 25. No dramatic event in years has approached this in genuine interest, for the famous DuMaurier romance was first staged in Boston twenty years ago. There is combined in this revival the brilliant accomplishment of players who represent two generations—the polished art of veterans and the buoyant spirit of youth. "Tribby" is the ideal love story of all ages, aglow with romance, resounding with melody and throbbing with the intensity of its hypnotic theme. After two decades it is as vivid and vital as when Paul M. Potter dramatized it and not the change of a line is found necessary after two decades. There is enormous interest in this revival and unusual efforts are made by the Shubert management to guard the public against any speculative extortion.

Taxation without representation was a grievance of some of the California women before they got the vote.

Twenty-five new departments and commissions, costing some $2,500,000 a year, have been established. Ten million dollars of increased State taxes, $11,000,000 of increased county taxes, a glorious co-operation of State machine and county machine; an army of professional politicians and tax-eaters; these are among the achievements of redeemed and disenfranchised California in her new day and light.

The dried-up niggards of the East may be forgiven for wondering if it isn't a little costly for this part of the country.

Secretary Garrison in his lukewarm endorsement of Woman Suffrage, says: "The only question to be considered is the extra expense involved in practically doubling the number of voters. This consideration is, I think, entirely negligible."

Duffield Osborne comments in the New York Times on this statement as follows:

"Without troubling to question just how sincere Mr. Garrison's support may be, he has surely shown himself to be a politician. Added expense to the public, added taxation are 'entirely negligible' considerations from his standpoint. That attitude may be said to be diagnostic of the politician class, who fritter away our money; but do we, the people, who 'pay the freight' feel just that way about it? Too often we fail to remember who has been most reckless for expenditures in special lines calculated to 'make votes.' Now the question is put fairly up to us. Shall we vote 'yes' and agree with Mr. Garrison that additional expenditure is 'entirely negligible,' or shall we vote 'no' and call a halt on the politicians' recklessness with moneys not their own but ours?"

Frau Rosika Schwimmer, who campaigned for the suffragists in Ohio, and spoke for them in a salon, and who spoke for the suffrage 'Peace' movement in Cambridge and Boston, is, it seems not a "Frau" at all. She is one of many unmarried Feminists in Europe who have assumed the title 'Frau' in order to shield unmarried mothers. They argue that all women, married or single, use the same title, no one can tell whether a woman is married or not!

DOUBLING THE VOTE

Why are two persons needed to do the work that can just as well be done by one? The Anti-Suffragists ask, or in other words, why double the vote? If men and women were precisely alike. Interests in just the same pursuits and duties there might be some show of reason in the objection to "doubling the vote," but, since men and women are unlike, a man can not represent a woman. Besides, a great deal of fault is found by our government, because men are so indifferent to voting. A good many plans have been thought of by which to remedy this lack of interest, one plan recently suggested, was that of allowing votes to be sent through the mail. Another plan was to compel men to come out and vote.

If a fuller and more general expression of opinion is the demand of the hour, why is not doubling the vote just what is needed. Since a democratic form of government is a government by the people, and for the people, the more people there are who vote, the more perfect the democracy.

MRS. GARFIELD'S TESTIMONY

No one pretends that manhood suffrage has produced an ideal government. Those who argue that the votes of women will yield that ideal are mere dreamers of dreams. It is, nevertheless, an axiom that a democratic government will, in general, be about on a par with the electorate. Woman's morality, woman's point of view, woman's ideals, woman's aspirations are recognized—except by the cynic—as a force for betterment. Democracy, however, helps the individual more than it helps the government. The responsibility of a vote has helped to develop men. We women ask that we, too, may have that help—the help that comes from an imposed civic responsibility.

B. M. GARFIELD, Wife of President Garfield of Williamstown.

THE INDIFFERENT VOTER

This is the time of year when the different political parties put forth all their efforts to get men to vote. In one large city alone, the papers report that 10,000 workers have been busy, trying to persuade men to register. At most of the primaries, the vote has been light—often only a quarter of the registration, or even less. In spite of public meetings, parades, brass bands, unlimited literature, and fervent appeals from the pulpit and the press, a large part of the male voters remain indifferent; and this condition is chronic. An article in the North American Review for August, 1913, pointed out that the previous fall at the primary elections held in New York State only 15 per cent. of the registered voters went to the polls; and this was of course, a much smaller per cent. of the men who could have registered if they had chosen. In Tioga County, out of 4,244 registered male voters, only 561 took the trouble to vote. In Cortland, out of 1,342 registered men, only 197 voted. In Watertown only 8 per cent. of the voters went to the polls; in Little Falls, 10 per cent.; in Iliou 6 per cent. In Ohio in 1912 when 34 important amendments to the Constitution were submitted, less than half of the registered voters went to the polls. On an amendment relating to liquor, which is usually a burning question, less than one-third of the registered men expressed an opinion. In Columbus, in May of last year, out of 45,368 registered male voters, only 10,952 voted at an important charter commission election. At a recent election in Dallas, Texas, only 16 per cent. of the men voted. Secretary of the Navy Daniels is never weary of pointing out that in the United States at large about 25 per cent. of the men do the governing, because in most cases the remaining 75 per cent. will not take the trouble to go to the polls. No one argues, however, that the more public-spirited minority should be forbidden to cast their ballots, because an apathetic majority do not care to do so.

But if women, who are full of human nature, fail to come up to the ideal by voting their full strength, they are held up to scorn; and it is even seriously urged that the public-spirited women who are willing and eager to vote should be debarred, because so many of their sisters are indifferent. This is setting up a double standard of morals, with a vengeance. The Bishop of London, who has since gone to the front with his regiment, ridiculed this particular objection with statistics. The last time the suffrage question was debated in Parliament, an opponent of equal rights said that many women failed to use their municipal vote. The Bishop pointed out that in London 48.8 per cent. of the men who could vote at municipal elections did so, and 48.7 per cent. of the women. He added that in 1869, when the right was first given, few women voted; that the number had constantly grown, and that now throughout England the qualified women were voting about as generally as the qualified men—in some places even more so.

Fairminded men will not cast scorn upon the women because some of them neglect to vote. "Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones." The problem of the apathetic voter will have to be solved by the best wisdom of men and women studying it together.

Alice Stone Blackwell.

HOW NEWTON IS GOVERNED

Fifteenth of a Series of Articles Explaining the Management of the City

One of the most recent forms of municipal activity is that of supervised play and recreation and which was recognized by this city some three years ago by the establishment of a Playground Department. This department is in charge of a commission of five gentlemen, appointed by the mayor, for terms of three years each, without confirmation by the aldermen. The Commission selects a superintendent, who has direct charge of the work, and the supervision of the directors of the individual playgrounds. On account of the small appropriation allowed by the city government, the Commission is only able to employ the Superintendent for a portion of the year, and is also forced to limit its playground work to a ten weeks period each spring and fall and to eight weeks in the summer except in three districts where supervision is continuous throughout the year.

The work of the Commission can be divided into three general classifications, supervision, maintenance and development.

The city has about 79 acres of land devoted to playgrounds in the several villages, the largest being that at Newton Centre. Our playgrounds have usually been established by agreement of the city government and the citizens interested, that one half the cost of the necessary land shall be contributed by each. Two exceptions are noted to this rule, the playground at Newton Centre being largely the entire gift of the residents of that village, and the West Newton Common being donated by the residents of that place.

The city now has charge of 18 playgrounds, some of them being of quite small extent, while others have room for all kinds of sports. Two of these grounds are leased.

Base ball and football grounds are maintained at Cabot Park, West Newton Common, Auburndale park, Lower Falls, Upper Falls, Waban, Newton Highlands, Newton Centre, Stearns, Allison and Boyd in Nonantum.

In three districts, the Commission has made arrangements with one of the teachers in the Stearns, Horace Mann and Mason school districts to act as assistants for the school year, devoting Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and Saturdays to the playground work and keeping in constant touch with the interests of the children and making the playground attractive to everyone interested.

For ten weeks each spring and fall the playgrounds are supervised Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, Saturdays and holidays when school is not in session. These supervisors are both men and women, usually teachers in the local schools or students at neighboring colleges. Supervisors of this class are in touch with the community, know the children and make for continuity of service.

In the summer the supervision is more extended, covering five days each week, omitting Saturday, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. The average summer attendance, omitting Saturday, is about 2,400 daily. The supervisors encourage the formation of teams for various kinds of sport, such teams to be self managed as far as possible, teach the children such occupation work as making baskets, weaving, sewing and making dresses. The program for play includes base ball, football, volley ball, fist ball, basket ball, croquet, tennis, quoits, bean bags and duck on the rock and the use of swings, teeters and slides. The Commission usually furnishes play implements, except such things as tennis racquets, tennis balls, etc. Base ball is exceedingly popular, with 9 leagues among the boys and 2 for girls. These leagues are divided between the north and south sides of the city, and the leaders of each play each other for the city championship. Tennis courts can be used for one hour each, players signing up for the time on schedules which are open for two weeks ahead.

Saturday is omitted from the Playground schedule to allow the older boys and men to use the grounds. The Commission controls their use, however, by a system of permits, between 500 and 600 being issued each year.

The average attendance on the playgrounds Saturdays is over 1500 and crowds of 3,000 and 4,000 have often been noted. It is estimated that about 250,000 spectators have used the playgrounds annually in this way. The value of the playground to these people cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. It gives an opportunity to witness clean, manly sport, free from the temptations of liquor and other degrading influences.

The maintenance work of the Commission covers the upkeep of the grounds, which have increased one third in the past two years, cutting the grass, maintaining the tennis courts, the swings and sand boxes. The appropriation of $8000 for this work is the same as it has been for some years notwithstanding the increase in the extent and the use of the grounds.

The Commission is making some progress in developing the playgrounds of this city. One of the most crying needs is for sanitary conveniences on each playground. It is impossible to assemble several thousand people together without creating some nuisance on these lines. Newton Upper Falls has a convenience station which has been erected this year. Quarters are provided for both boys and girls and there is some room for storage of equipment. Newton Centre, thanks to the generosity of its residents, will have rather commodious quarters, utilizing the former church building of Trinity parish for the purpose. Cabot Park and West Newton Common are sorely in need of similar conveniences and steps should be taken at once in that direction.

The present work of the Commission is principally for children. There is a strong movement in playground and recreation circles to extend the work to include young men and women who have left school and are employed in sedentary occupations. This means some form of recreation during the evening hours, such as the utilization of school halls for recreation centres, lighting tennis courts for night play, and illuminating skating surfaces during the winter. The need for this class of work is manifested when we consider the fact that while the heart grows on an average 7 1/2 cubic centimetres yearly until the age of thirteen, it grows from 35 to 75 centimetres during the ages from 14 to 19. The lungs have an average growth per annum of 35 cubic centimetres, while the growth between 14 and 19 is from 75 to 150. The vital organs grow very rapidly during these years and any retardation would mean undersized heart and lungs for the remainder of life. In another sense, the greater care taken of our young people during this period of adolescence, would result in men and women of greater physical development and a preparedness for war which would be of great value to the future of the nation.

Newton is exceptionally well situated for the development of swimming as a sport and as recreation. Cradled in the arms of the Charles River, every village has easy access to the water and swimming ought to be encouraged among our people.

The new Edmonds park has a splendid place to locate a toboggan chute, a form of winter sport which would be of great value to many persons whose work keeps them indoors.

These are merely hints of the possibilities which are present in this city for work along recreative lines. The value of recreation cannot be estimated in money. If the work among the children serves to bring out qualities of leadership, if it builds up the body and brain, if it teaches the rich and the poor, to respect each other for individual ability and not for this eye of the pocketbook, it has accomplished results which are far greater than dollars and cents, and will help to make possible a saner, healthier and better race of people.

CONCERT BY BELGIAN ARTISTS

A musical treat of the highest order is promised to the people of Newton in the concert to be given at Players' Hall on Friday, October 29, by a company of Belgian artists. This concert is to be given under the auspices of the "Cercle Espérance for Belgian Sufferers," a society organized in London last year under the patronage of such distinguished persons as H. I. H. the Princess Clemantine Napoleon, His Excellency M. Paul Hymans, Belgian Minister to England, the Rt. Hon. the Lord Mayor of London and others. Through the "Espérance" arrangements have been made by which a party of the most prominent musicians of Belgium, themselves exiles from their unfortunate country, are to make a concert tour of the United States and Canada. The artists are not to receive anything for their services, which they have given freely to help their suffering compatriots.

As illustrations of the quality of entertainment which may be expected, it may be mentioned that the soprano of the part Mlle. Octave Billorey, was a prima donna of the Antwerp Opera House, at which place the bass, Mr. Jan Collignon held the post of "primo basso." The two instrumentalists, Mlle. Daisy Jean, and Mlle. Gabrielle Radoux, pianist, are from the staff of the Royal Antwerp Conservatory. The tenor, Mr. Willis Flanagan, is a native of Springfield, Mass., who has been winning a reputation as an opera singer in Belgium, and who has joined with the others in giving his services to his adopted country.

Arrangements for the concert in West Newton are in the hands of a committee composed of the Rev. E. M. Lawrence, Gould, chairman, and Messrs. James Richard Carter, Charles Whittemore, Philip W. Carter, William C. Richardson, Kenneth P. Kempton, Prescott H. Wellman and Robert B. Capon.

CORRESPONDENCE

A suggestion to the Middlesex and Boston St. Rwy. Co.

A "Herald" headline on Monday morning last, read, "Auto Kills Woman: Victim Had Just Alighted from a street car in Newton."

The writer of this article happened to be a passenger on the car from which the victim alighted, and he is not blaming the St. Rwy. Co., but the question came to him for the hundredth time.—Why is it that from Commonwealth and Washington streets to Wellesley Hills, a dangerous section, the Company empties and fills their cars from the roadway instead of opening the doors on the safe or sidewalk side of the cars?

Always at Commonwealth avenue and Washington streets and in front of the Newton Hospital at any hour may be seen helpless people out in the roadway trying to board cars and avoid automobiles at the same time.

I suggest that but one stop be made at Commonwealth avenue and Washington street and that patrons be handled only from the sidewalk, instead of the roadway. I ought to anticipate the reason for the present rule.—That on account of trees it is dangerous to the car men, but with closed or box cars that reason is not valid now.

PUBLIC MARKETS

The Public Markets were held on Saturday and Tuesday morning at Newton Centre and Newtonville. One team selling poultry was at Newtonville on Saturday morning and one team of farm produce appeared on Tuesday morning. Newton Centre, on the contrary, was a lively place Saturday morning with teams and trucks present from Dover, Boxboro and South Sudbury, and a team of poultry from Somerville. It is said that over 700 lbs. of poultry were sold during the morning at prices of 20 cents for fowl and 25 cents for chickens. Prices asked for vegetables were fairly low. Person patronizing these markets should remember that there is always a difference in quality and that cheapness in price is not a fair basis of comparison with goods sold in other markets.

Tuesday morning the business was much less than on Saturday.

Prominent Speakers Address a Large Gathering at Players' Hall

Players' Hall, West Newton, was nearly filled on Monday evening at a meeting held under the auspices of the Anti-Suffrage Association of this city. Hon. Charles E. Hatfield, whose daughter, Mrs. Stuart Chase, is one of the leaders in the Equal Suffrage movement, was the presiding officer and took occasion to say that he was heartily in favor of the Anti-Suffrage cause. The speakers were Miss Marjorie Dorman of New York, who has spoken several times already in this city and former Lieutenant Governor Robert Luce of Waltham.

Mr. Luce said in part:
"The suffrage is not a natural right at all. It is an artificial privilege, or better, a duty imposed by a people on some of its number in order to secure that form of government which may seem to it most desirable. English-speaking peoples have thought it wise to elect their officials and make their laws through the decisions of a majority of certain definite classes of their number."

"For precisely the same reason we have excluded women because we have thought that as a class they would not make our political decisions wiser. We cannot legislate for the exceptional youth or the exceptional woman. The whole issue is whether the class, the group, will better things. In brief, it is purely a problem of expediency."

"The real question, then, is whether the grant of the suffrage to women would produce any benefit to the community. And this involves the further question of whether government by women will be advantageous, for only when an official was elected or measure carried by the aid of women's votes would the present situation be changed, and this means government by women. The chief legislative claims advanced relate to special legislation, for

INSPECT HOSPITAL

City Government Entertained by President and Trustees of Newton Hospital

Mayor Childs and ten members of the board of aldermen were guests last Sunday afternoon of President Bray and the trustees of the Newton Hospital. An hour or so was devoted to an inspection of the various buildings and wards of the Hospital, together with the recently completed morgue and garage. This building is most complete in all its fittings. It is located near the northerly boundary of the property in the rear of Founders Building. The garage opens at the same level as that of Founders and has ample room for the automobile ambulance, and several automobiles, with room for the attendants. In the basement, which is reached by a driveway near the railroad, in order that the taking away or the bringing in of bodies may be as inconspicuous as possible, a room is provided for the purposes of autopsy and there are crypts for nine or ten bodies.

After the inspection the party were hospitably entertained in the recreation room of the Nurses Home and many interesting facts told of the Hospital work. Mr. Bray said that few people really knew anything about the Hospital. 2,052 patients were treated during the last Hospital year at a total cost of about $90,000. About 20 per cent of the number were free patients, about 60 per cent paid something but not the full price and only 20 per cent paid the regular hospital rate. The annual deficit was about $20,000 of which the proceeds of Hospital Sunday, some $12,000 or $13,000 reduced to a net deficit of $7,000 or $8,000.

Mr. Bray did not believe that the service the Hospital was rendering the city ought to be curtailed and that some method should be adopted to make up this deficit, either by increased contributions on Hospital Sunday or by a systematic campaign for subscriptions. He thought that many people ought to be interested in

TAXATION PROBLEMS

Mr. Charles A. Andrews Explains Situation in Address at Waban

Mr. Charles A. Andrews of Waban, former Deputy Tax Commissioner of the Commonwealth gave an interesting address last Sunday noon to the Men's Class at the Union Church, Waban, on the Taxation problem of which the following is an abstract.

In round figures, a hundred million dollars is raised in taxes in Massachusetts each year. Fully 80 per cent of this is raised by the taxation of property; the laws for the taxation of property are administered solely by the cities and towns.

The principal classes of property, which by the law are made taxable, are: First, Real Estate; Second, Machinery; Third, Stocks of Merchandise and Raw Material; Fourth, Household Furniture, automobiles, paintings, libraries, etc.; Fifth, Shares of stock, bonds, evidences of indebtedness; Sixth, money on deposit or in hand; Seventh, Income in excess of $200.00 derived from a profession, trade or employment.

The enumeration of these principal classes of taxable property is sufficient to show anyone that some of them will be reasonably, accurately taxed, while others will quite largely escape all taxation. Real estate and the so-called "tangible personal property" can in general be accurately appraised and taxed.

When we come to stocks and bonds, evidences of indebtedness, cash and "Man's treatment of women is the barometer of civilization" was the text of a recent address which clearly indicated the progress made by women from the days when they were treated as slaves to the present time when, in some respects they are recognized as man's intellectual and moral equal.

And the answer the men of Massachusetts make next Tuesday on the proposed amendment to the constitution will be in effect, an indication of the progress of civilization in our own community. For if any man who intends to vote No on this important question will candidly and thoroughly analyze his reasons for so doing, he will find at the very bottom, a belief that he is a superior being to his mother, his wife, his daughter or his sister. He may disguise this reason in many ways, such as placing his female relations on an altar of goodness or sanctity, but if he is honest with himself, he will ultimately find that the controlling motive is his own egotism.
Equal suffrage is not a question of how much you "love your mother" as Miss Dorman flippantly stated the other evening in Elliot Church, it is rather a question of how much man respects his mother, his wife, his daughter and his sister.

Equal suffrage will not prove to be a panacea for all our legislative ills but it is certain to add a strong and possibly a controlling force to the moral and social betterment problems which are decided by political action.
It is inconceivable that the drunkard's wife and daughter would vote "Yes" on the liquor question under our local option laws, and temperance measures would undoubtedly be greatly advanced under equal suffrage. Woman's influence, backed by the ballot could also be confidently counted upon the right side of legislation relative to the social evil, protection for women and girls, the age of consent, and the many questions which concern the relations of the sexes.

With logic and reason entirely on the affirmative side of the question, is it not expedient for the men of this state, to vote Yes next Tuesday and give their mothers, their wives, their daughters and their sisters, a definite voice on these matters which so vitally affect the entire human race. Vote YES.

Mr. McCall, the Republican candidate for governor, is waging a splendid campaign against the "amiable inefficiency" of Governor Walsh, the mediocre and political character of most of his appointments, and his delay in filling important offices and boards.
The whole Commonwealth knows Mr.
McCall's record while in Congress and feels sure that a man of his independent character and ability will be a worthy governor of the state. The only danger to be feared in the election next Tuesday is from men of the highest moves who urge the candidacy of Mr. Shaw for governor. These gentlemen know that it is impossible to elect Mr. Shaw the present year, but they will vote for him to "punish" the Republican party for refusing to endorse national prohibition in its platform. Let us suggest that in "punishing" the Republican party in this fashion by the re-election of Governor Walsh, the best interests of temperance and even prohibition itself are more seriously endangered than by any other means. Governor Walsh vetoed the liquor transportation bill at the last Legislature, and if re-elected it is certain that this most desirable temperance measure will be again defeated. Governor Walsh is supported by the liquor interests, and his re-election means that any temperance measures will meet with executive disfavor. Is it worth while, therefore, for men who really believe in temperance, to "punish" the entire state and the reform which they have so close at heart, by voting for Mr. Shaw and thereby make certain the return of Governor Walsh.

HON. SAMUEL W. McCALL,
Republican Candidate for Governor

HON. CALVIN COOLIDGE,
Republican Candidate for
Lieutenant Governor

A vote for Mr. McCall is a vote for temperance and ultimately for national prohibition, for the Republican party is the only party which can and will meet the wishes of the people on these lines.

For the past four months, the Graphic has endeavored to give fair and equitable treatment to both sides of the suffrage question which is to be decided next Tuesday at the polls. The official organizations of both sides, in this city, have furnished the material which has been printed each week, and edited the last two issues of the paper. This service has been given without cost and for the sole purpose of affording the readers of the Graphic, the responsible arguments of both sides on this important matter.
Incidentally it might be stated right here, that newspapers in surrounding communities have been paid for exactly this service, as they have treated it solely from a business standpoint, as political advertising.

It is to be hoped that under these circumstances, partisans of both sides, will appreciate the attitude of the Graphic, so far as publicity is concerned.

One of the constitutional amendments to be decided next Tuesday authorizes the state to loan its credit and to assist in the relief of congestion in some of our larger cities. On its surface the amendment is likely to appeal to many who have given the subject but little consideration for everyone would be glad to eliminate the slums and to bring the sunshine into the lives of the very poor. As a policy of the state, however, the subject takes an entirely different aspect. If the state begins to provide homes for its citizens, how soon would it be called upon to furnish means of transportation for them to reach their work, how soon before it would be called upon to furnish food and clothing as well as homes, in short how soon would the state become a great paternalistic community for thousands of its less favored citizens. It would seem to be part of wisdom to defeat this amendment.
Vote NO.

The recent fatal accident caused by the almost criminal carelessness in street railway management in allowing passengers leaving the electric cars, to step almost directly into the pathway of passing automobiles, ought to bring about a prompt change of policy, and the use of common sense in this particular instance. It is easy to realize that with the operation of open cars, many accidents might occur if the side towards the trees on the sidewalk was not protected. This condition does not exist with the operation of closed cars and the change of conditions calls for a change of policy, which the death of Miss Deering has strongly emphasized.

The proposed amendment to the constitution to authorize the imposition of an income tax ought to receive a large and favorable vote. The taxation laws of this state are in such a condition that almost any amendment that can be passed by two successive legislatures ought to be approved.
The amendment does not go as far as many would like in the way of tax reform, but it opens the way for some relief from the present inequitable method of taxation and may lead to better results in the near future. Vote
YES.

Particular attention should be given by the Republicans of this city to giving Senator George H. Ellis the greatest possible majority next Tuesday for re-election. Senator Ellis is the kind of man needed in political life and his six years of service at the State House have been a credit to the state, the city and to himself. There is a determined opposition to the re-election of Senator Ellis in the rest of this senatorial district and Newton must do its utmost in his behalf.

Vote for Senator Ellis.

Newton Republicans ought not to stop with voting for the head of the ticket next Tuesday. The Republican candidate for County Commissioner, Mr. Alfred L. Cutting ought to be given a good vote in this city in order to insure his election in a field of several candidates. The County Commissioners next spring will have the duty of making the apportionment of representative districts for the next ten years, and it is especially important that Mr. Cutting should have a seat in that body.

A vote for Shaw will help re-elect Governor Walsh, who vetoed the liquor transportation bill last spring. Vote for McCall and really help the temperance cause.

There are rumors of many interesting developments in the coming contest for the mayoralty.

Our public markets continue to serve a few people and families at an expense of $2000 to the taxpayers of the entire city, and a possible cost of over $10,000 if continued next year. This is saving at the spigot and wasting at the bung with a vengeance.

Every man who has the true interests of temperance at heart will vote for McCall for governor. A vote for Shaw will help re-elect Governor Walsh, who vetoes necessary and desirable temperance legislation.

Mr. William Shaw, in calling Mr.
McCall a "liar" is using most intemperate language for a prohibition candidate.

A Republican vote for Shaw will postpone all temperance legislation at least one year.

Every Republican who votes for Shaw is a friend of the liquor interests.

PAY YOUR TAXES

Attention is called to the fact that persons who neglect to pay their taxes ON or BEFORE November 1st will be charged interest from October 15th.
A day's delay, therefore will entail an interest charge of 16 cents additional.
Poll tax payers are also interested in the change in the law which adds 25 cents charge for a demand notice if not paid promptly.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

A very successful Halloween Costume party was held Monday evening in Dennison Hall, Newtonville, under the auspices of the Mt. Ida Council, R. A., and the Ladies Auxiliary. The whirl prizes were captured by Miss E.
Levesque, Mr. Allyn W. Kellogg of Newtonville, Mr. George E. Thibault of Newton Centre, and Mrs. Barrows of Newton. Following the cards a dancing party was held with a program of popular musical selections by Cole's Orchestra. Miss White of All-ston won the prize for the most effective ladies' costume, and Mr. David Webster of Brighton was winner of the prize for the best men's costume.
There was a very large attendance and the affair was most enjoyable.

NEW TRANSFER FACILITIES

Commencing Monday, November 1st, all passengers desiring to transfer between Newton-Brighton cars and cars

the highway, at Watertown Carhouse.
Opportunity to transfer has been provided within the enclosure without the use of transfer checks. Passengers desiring to change between the cars of the Elevated Company and the cars of the Middlesex & Boston St.
Ry. Co., operating over Watertown dent, Mrs. Winchester; vice-president,

Words Worth Remembering.

The highest representatives of men who have endeavored to search out the deep things during the Christian era are Dante and Milton. . . . It seems daisy more amazing to me that such men as those should dare to play with the most precious truths (or the most deadly truths) by which the whole human race listening to them could be informed or deceived—all the world their audience forever with pleased ear and passionate heart—and yet to this submissive infinitude of souls, and evermore succeeding and succeeding multitude, hungry for bread of life they do but play upon sweetly modulated pipes; with pompous nomenclature adorn the councils of hell; touch a troubadour's guitar to the courses of the sun; and fill the openings of eternity before which prophets have veiled their faces, and which angels desire to look into, with idle puppets of their scholastic imagination, and melancholy lights of frantic faith in their lost mortal love.—
John Ruskin.

Famous Portrait Painter.

The first portrait painter of the United States to win general fame was Thomas Sully, who was born 132 years ago. One of the first celebrated American historical paintings, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," was the product of his genius. Sully established himself in Richmond as a portrait painter in 1803, but soon removed to New York, and in 1810 to Philadelphia, which city was afterward his home. In addition to "Washington Crossing the Delaware," his famous historical paintings include "The Capture of Major Andre" and "Miranda."
As a portrait painter his most notable subjects were Thomas Jefferson, Lafayette, James Madison, John Marshall, Fanny Kemble and Queen Victoria. He visited England to paint the girl queen in her coronation robes.
Sully lived to an advanced age, dying in Philadelphia in 1872.

How to Brew Tea.

It is generally believed that anyone can make tea. This is far from the case. Great care should be taken to have the teapot hot. Scald it out with hot water before putting in the dry tea. The water to pour on the leaves should not only be boiling, but should be freshly boiled. The big tea-kettle which stands on the stove all day and is filled at irregular intervals does not furnish the best water for the purpose. Get a small enameled-ware kettle holding about a quart of water. Pour the water on the tea, which should not steep over three minutes. Then you will have a cup of tea which is not only very much better in flavor but is much more wholesome than that made in the ordinary careless fashion.

Time for the Heavy Meal.

The idea of time for the heavy meal of the day is in the early afternoon, but this is not practical for those who are working, and so it must be postponed to late, when the labor of the day is over. Luncheon for the worker, especially the brain worker or those employed in sedentary occupations, should be light and nourishing.
"A piece of pie and a cup of coffee" is no lunch for a man who grabs it, gobbles it down in five minutes and tears back to his office; he would be much better off if he would content himself with an old-fashioned rice pudding, a cup of custard, a poached egg, or rolls and butter, accompanied with a glass of milk and fruit, preferably an apple.

The Explanation.

Banks—"I had a new experience yesterday, one you might call unac-countable. I ate a hearty dinner, finishing up with a Welsh rabbit, a mince pie and some lobster a la Newburgh.
Then I went to a place of amusement.
I had hardly entered the building before everything swam before me.
Binks—"The Welsh rabbit did it."
Bunks—"No; it was the lobster."
Bonks—"I think it was the mince pie."
Banks—"No; I have a simpler explanation than that. I never felt better in my life; I was at the aquarium."

Tolpom.

"What in the world does that mean?" asked the traveler through a sparsely settled region on the Cape.
"There's no such place on my road map." The man whom he addressed first took a leisurely survey of the traveler and his horse and then turned his eyes toward the weather-beaten sign which bore the single word "Tol-pom." "That ain't a name," he said, with dignity. "It's just an indication.
It means, 'To Long Pond one mile.'" —Youth's Companion.

How He Grew Up.

"Don't complain when the children around you make a little noise," said the man with a kind heart. "Remember you were once a little boy."
"I'm not forgetting it," replied the man with a perpetual frown. "I was one of those little boys who are always compelled to sit around dressed up and watch the other boys having a good time."

No Kind of Host.

"He's not much of a host."
"What's the matter? I thought he was a delightful entertainer."
"Oh, he was kind enough while we were there. But when we came to leave at 1 o'clock in the morning he didn't even offer to walk three blocks to his garage, get out his car and drive us six miles home."

LOURISHES REVOLVER

Michael Laudaro of Newton Upper Falls created a panic in the Park St. Subway station at 11 o'clock Saturday night by flourishing a loaded revolver. The place was crowded with theatre-goers and people from the Democratic rally held in Tremont Temple.

They rushed in all directions to avoid the man with the gun. He seemed to be pursuing somebody who evidently escaped since no shot was fired. Men and women rushed aboard waiting cars, irrespective of their advertised destinations, or hurried up the stairs to the street.

Inspectors Smith and Concanon, who were near, looking for pickpockets, seized Laudaro from behind and wrenched away his weapon, a fully-loaded 38-calibre revolver.

HOUSE BEAUTIFUL

Under the auspices of Palestine Chapter 114, Order of the Eastern Star, a very unique bazaar opened last evening in Temple Hall, Newtonville, and will continue this afternoon and evening.

Judging from the excellent display of salable articles, and the attractively decorated booths, the ladies spared no effort to provide for the holiday shopper and the little folks, and many a suggestion and useful present may be found at the various booths.

Seven large white canvas booths are arranged along the sides of the hall and in the centre a large square candy table decorated in orange and black, with Hallowe'en emblems, is presided over by Mrs. Wendell Brayton, assisted by Miss Dolbier. The Living-Room booth is festooned with pink and white carnations, and pictures, baskets, cushions, work-bags and many other useful and ornamental articles are on sale. This attractive booth is in charge of Miss Sandholzer.

The Dining-Room booth is under the direction of Mrs. Winslow of Newton Centre, assisted by Mrs. F. D. Sampson of Newton. It is artistically decorated with red roses, and refreshments, tea, coffee and ices are served at small tables.

The Kitchen Booth, is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Leonard, and contains many useful kitchen utensils. In the Nursery Booth, which is under the supervision of Mrs. R. C. Thompson, can be found infants' clothing, caps, bonnets, sashes, dolls, powder-puffs, blankets, etc.

The Bath Room booth is in charge of Miss C. C. Porter assisted by Mrs. R. H. Kimball, Mrs. A. Stevens, Mrs. William Macpherson, Mrs. Babbitt, Mrs. Tucker, and Mrs. Fournier, and a large assortment of bath-room necessities including soaps, perfume, toilet articles, bath robes, towels, etc., are on sale. The booth is decorated most effectively in Hallowe'en colors and emblems, jack o' lanterns, etc.

The Girls Booth was a most interesting feature and was delightfully decorated with red ribbon streamers. Every thing dear to the heart of a young girl may be obtained at this booth which is presided over by Miss Myrta Kimball assisted by Mrs. C. E. A. Bore, Mrs. A. C. Jewett, Mrs. R. M. Goode, Mrs. A. W. Twig, Mrs. E. S. Ripley, Mrs. E. J. Wood, Mrs. T. L. Littlehale, and Miss Minnie Gorse.

The Men's Booth is labelled the "Den," and is in charge of Dr. Parker and Mr. R. C. Thompson, and the tables contain an assortment of neckties, handkerchiefs, cuff-links, match boxes, shaving brushes, toilet articles, etc.

Twenty large dolls in varied costumes are arranged in a row on the wall back of the booth, and there are a number of interesting features during the evening for the entertainment. There was a good attendance during the evening, and the booths appeared to be doing a flourishing business. This evening supper will be served, and as no admission fee is charged all will have an opportunity to visit this interesting Bazaar.

INFORMAL DANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert George Ripley entertained at a very delightful dancing party on Saturday evening at their residence on Birch Hill road, Newtonville.

The spacious studio was transformed into an ideal ball-room for the occasion, and the many beautiful sketches of foreign scenes in oil and water-colors, which adorned the walls, together with the brilliant lights and decorations of bright autumnal foliage, served admirably to set off the gay ensemble.

The order included many of the modern society dances, the One-Step, Waltz, Canter, and Fox trot and the latter was so popular with the enthusiastic disciples of Terpsichore, that it was encored repeatedly. A charming program of music was furnished by Miss Major of Dorchester.

During the intermissions, refreshments were served in the dining room which was decorated with autumn flowers and foliage. On the table yellow nasturtiums were attractively arranged in a large basket as a centerpiece, and the soft light from the candles, shedding a radiance over the whole, rendered a wonderfully effective scene. In the adjoining conservatory frappe was served between the dances.

About forty guests were present from Boston, South Framingham, Newton Centre, West Newton, and Newtonville.

POLICE NOTES

George E. Murray of 151 Waltham street, Watertown, was arraigned in the Police Court Wednesday morning before Judge J. C. Kennedy, on a charge of manslaughter, and was held for the grand jury in $500 bonds. Murray was the operator of a motor-cycle, which came into collision with Mrs. Emma M. Deering of Natick on Oct. 17 and threw her into the path of an automobile, causing death. Murray was represented by attorney James S. Cannon of Newton and entered a plea of not guilty. Judge Kennedy in his remarks thought that it would be better to put the case before the Grand Jury.

Patrolmen Cronin and Hannon arrested Frank M. Smith, Joseph P. Mulhern, Joseph F. Farrell, William J. Lavoie, Arthur F. Landry and Joseph Delaney, all Nonantum young men, Monday on the charge of the unlawful appropriation of an automobile last Saturday night from a garage on Watertown street. The machine was owned by Abram B. Fox of 94 Jackson road, and the young men were apprehended in Framingham, where the machine broke down. Judge Kennedy continued the case until next Tuesday morning, and all but Delaney pleaded guilty to the charge.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

The subject of Christian Science is now engaging public attention throughout the world over and thinking people are more and more inquiring about its teachings and results. There is hardly a community in our country, where its healing work has not reached or is known of. In order that the teachings of Christian Science may be clearly understood, and to correct any misapprehensions regarding it, public lectures are given from time to time by authorized speakers. One of these lectures by Prof. Hermann S. Herling, C. S. B., is announced for next Sunday afternoon, Oct. 31st, at 3.30 at Players' Hall, West Newton, Mass., to which the public is cordially invited.

CARS IN NONANTUM SQUARE

After several months of negotiations, between the members of the city government and the officials of the M. & B. St. Rwy. Co., the experiment was commenced last Monday of stopping the local street cars about 100 feet short of the track terminal in Nonantum square.

Two temporary crossovers have been placed on Washington street and the cars now stop just east of the Bank Building. It is hoped that the removal of the standing cars from the centre of Nonantum square will allow the traffic to be handled better and safer than at present. The Elevated cars are also stopped one pole nearer the centre of the square than has been the custom, so that the distance between the two lines of cars remain about the same.

Casual observation of the situation seems to indicate that the new plan has some serious objections. The passengers from the local cars will persist in using the street as a passageway to the Boston cars, and keep right in the line of street travel through the square. The Elevated cars with trailers are so long that the new stop completely blocks the path of the north bound traffic and holds it up until the cars have passed on. The congestion in front of the bank building when more than two local street cars are being handled is also quite serious. The matter is being tried out as an experiment and may lead to the ultimate solution of the serious condition which has existed in Nonantum square for a long time.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

A joint reception will be given to Mr. Charles D. Kepner, president of the Newton Association, to Mr. Allan J. Emery, a former president, and to Mrs. I. U. Townsend, president of the Woman's Auxiliary, on Tuesday, Nov. 2nd, 8 to 10 o'clock. Invitations have been sent to all the members of the Association and the auxiliary and to those who contribute in any way to these organizations. We would like, however, to extend a very cordial invitation to any one who is interested in the Association to be present on that evening.

The house bowling tournament starts on the evening of Nov. 1st. The speaker at the Fellowship club on Monday evening, Nov. 1st, will be Mr. Frank F. Davidson, Treasurer of the Thomas Long Co. His subject will be "Good Business as Related to the Christian Life." Supper will be served at 6.30, after which Mr. Davidson will speak.

The Social committee are planning to have something going on in the lobby every Monday night. Last Monday night Mr. H. C. Fraser had charge. There were puzzles to solve, games for all and a modelling contest. Each member was given a piece of clay to mold into the form of a rabbit. The product of some of the clay modelers did not look anything like the original but everybody had a good time.

An important meeting will be held tomorrow evening at the Y. M. C. A. to form a basket ball league among the Sunday Schools, Newton, Waltham, Watertown and Faneuil.

Miss Marie Anastasia Nolan, the daughter of Mrs. Maria A. Nolan of West Newton, and secretary to Mayor Edwin O. Childs, was married Wednesday evening to Mr. Charles E. Nally of Nonantum, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. F. Keleher, pastor of St. Bernard's Church, in the church rectory in West Newton. The bride was gown in white satin trimmed with Irish lace and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her sister, Miss Margaret P. Nolan was maid of honor. Mr. Joseph A. Henley of Belmont was the best man.

A largely attended reception followed at the home of the bride on Watertown street. After a trip to Bermuda, Mr. and Mrs. Nally will reside at 936 Watertown street, West Newton, where they will be at home after January first.

the benefit of women as a class. At present they are especially favored by the law in many particulars the wife being better off than the husband in such things as responsibility for debt, support of self or children, alimony, dower and courtesy. Furthermore the constitutionality of laws regulating the work hours of women is generally based on the assumption that women are wards of the State, and may be protected by statutes not open to male wage-earners. The imposition of the suffrage on women would logically result in depriving them of all special privileges and immunities.

"Working women are urged to espouse the suffrage cause in the vain hope that it might improve their condition by raising wages. That delusion is lamentable. Wages are fixed by economic laws that statutes cannot compel.

"Over against the possible gains are to be set very serious objections. They are grounded on the fact that sex is a fundamental characteristic. Sex means division of labor. The work of woman and the work of man are different. It is idle to base an argument on the capacity of the exceptional woman to do the exceptional task. The important thing is that women as a class are not fitted to do the work of men as a class. "The chief task of government is essentially a task for men because government is primarily protection, and protection rests on force. The majority must be able to coerce the minority. Man is combatant, woman is non-combatant.

"The lives of most women do not train them in business, in affairs. More important, the sex characteristics do not favor expertness therein. Wherever excellence depends on affection or emotion, women excel; where it depends on reason, men excel. Trust a woman's intuition; follow a man's logic. It happens that government is a matter of logic and not of sentiment. "Voting implies office-holding. We have three departments of government—the legislative, in which some women ask a share; the executive, in which few women could take a part; the judicial, which none but the most masculine-minded women would or could enter. Women on juries would be either a poke or a calamity. In the quality of justice the man excels. "Most women are as conscious of their own limitations as we men are of their peculiar capacities. Therefore most women instinctively shrink from accepting the obligations of the ballot. With nine-tenths of the women either opposed to the suffrage or indifferent we are asked to force it on them. When women want to vote they will."

DEATH OF MR. BELL

Mr. William Gibson Bell, president and general manager of the William G. Bell Company of Boston, manufacturer of refrigerators and store fixtures, died shortly after 10 o'clock Wednesday evening at his home, 49 Shaw street, West Newton, where he had lived for the past 30 years. He had been ill since last Saturday with pneumonia.

Mr. Bell was born 77 years ago in Hancock, N. H., of old Colonial stock and was widely known as the manufacturer of Bell's seasoning and dressing, which he has made for the past 40 years. He is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Mary H. G. Whitney; a son, Alfred W. Bell of West Newton; and a daughter, Mrs. Douglas Cooke of Allston.

Mr. Bell was an active member of the Second Congregational Church and was a member of King Solomon Lodge of Masons in Somerville, of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Boston Congregational Club.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock at his late home on Shaw street.

NEW PASTOR

Rev. Fr. L. W. Slattery Assigned to the Church of Our Lady

Rev. Father Lawrence W. Slattery has been appointed permanent rector of the Church of Our Lady at Newton by Cardinal O'Connell and will probably take charge of the parish some time next week.

Fr. Lawrence W. Slattery was born in South Boston, where he and the family are well known. He is a brother of Dr. John W. Slattery, the superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Brighton, and of Francis W. Slattery, a well-known attorney of Boston. He studied in his early youth in the schools of the South Boston district. He was graduated from the English High School at the age of 14, being the youngest member of his class, and in fact, one of the youngest boys at that time to achieve this distinction.

Fr. Slattery then entered Holy Cross College in Worcester, for his academic course, but before completing this transferred to Georgetown University, from which he was graduated. He then went to Aix, France, to complete his philosophy and the full theological course.

Having completed his preparation for the priesthood, Fr. Slattery returned and was ordained by Cardinal Gibbons in the Cathedral at Baltimore in 1885.

Immediately after his ordination to the priesthood he was assigned for duty in this, his native diocese, his first curacy being at St. Charles' Church in Woburn, where he remained for about 13 years. He was next appointed as an acting pastor at St. John's Church in Hopkinton, and for two years he successfully carried on the work there.

His administrative work at Hopkinton won for him early recognition, and he was next assigned as pastor at Georgetown, with its adjacent missions, and in this charge he undertook the rebuilding of the church property with the result that at the expiration of another two years the parish at that place was in excellent condition.

Thus some 17 years of his life in the priesthood had been spent, when he was again transferred, being assigned to the pastorate of St. Patrick's Church in Cambridge, where for a period of almost 10 years he followed out his previous achievements and placed this parish in a most thriving condition.

While stationed in Cambridge Fr. Slattery observed his silver jubilee in the priesthood. He was held in the highest esteem, and when three years or so ago he was transferred to St. Joseph's Church in the West End it was with much regret that the Cambridge parishioners saw him go.

In the West End parish the pastorate of Fr. Slattery has been the same as at all other places. He has constantly endeavored to bring the parish up to the highest standard, and as elsewhere he has met with singular success.

In assuming the permanent rectorship of the Church of Our Lady Help of Christians Fr. Slattery comes to one of the most important parishes of the diocese, the parish including a school and convent.

The exhibit will remain on view throughout next week during school hours, but the room will not be open in the afternoons after October 28.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE

To the Voters of Newton:

An advertisement appeared in the last issue of the Newton Graphic over the signature of one T. H. Elliot, urging Dartmouth College men to vote for Mr. Edward Carr for Senator, because he has two sons in Dartmouth College.

Of course such an appeal is a very short-sighted one, and antagonizes ten voters for every one whom it might attract, if it be conceivable that it could attract even one. It is, moreover, in the worst possible taste.

This would be true as applied to any college, but Dartmouth men in particular are weary of being solicited politically by individuals on the erroneous theory that their college loyalty is somehow involved.

It is altogether unlikely that Mr. T. H. Elliot is a Dartmouth man; but whether so or not, it is certain that in publishing this advertisement he acted without the approval or the knowledge of any Dartmouth organization or group of alumni.

JAMES P. RICHARDSON,

The people of the Christian Churches of Newtonville believe that the message of Christianity is as true and as vital to-day as ever. ¶ They believe also that the world in general and our nation in particular have never stood in deeper need of it than now. ¶ Accordingly, on the four Sundays of November, their ministers will make a united effort to present the Christian message, as simply and as directly as possible, to all who will come and hear it. ¶ In each church the same topics will be discussed. ¶ In each—as always—you will be cordially made welcome. ¶ Will you not plan to accept the invitation?

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

AT HEAD OF COLUMN

Next Tuesday's election will set for the present—and probably the advocates upon whichever side wins will hope for all time—the issue towards which the women of Massachusetts have been bending every energy for many months, namely, that of giving political equality to women. Since this matter is to be settled, not by the women who are the ones directly affected, but by the men, the Club Editor addresses her appeal to those stray men who may happen to wander into this column. There are many arguments on this subject both for and against, and to know ample opportunity has been given in these columns during the last four months. Of them all the Club Editor asks the readers to consider but two, one on each side, and to weigh them over against each other, that of justice or that of expediency. For the most part the women of Newton do not need the ballot in the sense that the women in industry need it, but do not all realize and even admit that they are their brother's keeper? If they are not, then why all this social betterment work? Why establish a Social Welfare Bureau, a dental clinic, a tuberculosis camp or school centres or playgrounds, etc., etc.? A large number of women all over the country are demanding that they be given justice and for that 15,000 marched in Boston two weeks ago and 50,000 in New York last week. Since it is a matter of simple justice that women should have the opportunity to express themselves upon matters concerning the welfare of themselves, of their children and of other people's children, why question the "expediency" of so doing? Give them justice rather than expediency by voting "YES" next Tuesday and trust the future to work out its own problems. No thorough-going, thoughtful suffragist today claims that the millennium will come the minute women are given the ballot. Women have not been doing things all down the ages as have men, but they have done pretty well in the time that has been theirs. Who, for the most part, keeps the home sweet and clean, who manages the children, and who keeps the check on the family purse? Give her who does this a chance to assist in doing the same for the community home.

month and will be held in the chapel of the Baptist church, the first one coming next Thursday morning, Nov. 4th.

Local Happenings

The members of the Pierian Club held an enjoyable meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Gallison in Watertown last week. Continuing the study of the Islands of the Sea, Mrs. Cutler read a paper on the History and Customs of Greenland. One on Iceland prepared by Mrs. Child was read by Mrs. Hemphill.

On Saturday, Oct. 23rd, the Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club met with Mrs. W. E. Sanderson. Act III of Othello was the subject of the afternoon in charge of Mrs. W. E. Moore. She showed secret power by which a man like Iago makes innocent persons like Othello, Desdemona and Cassio, as well as circumstances, conspire to serve his evil purposes. Also the ethical import of the play dealing with love, jealousy, hate and revenge. That deceit and falsehood, whatever conveniences they may for a time promise or produce, are obstacles to happiness. Those who profit by the cheat distrust the deceiver and the act by which kindness is sought puts an end to confidence.

The first regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held at Players Hall on Friday, October 22nd. After the regular business meeting Mrs. Harriet L. B. Darling of Brookline, a member of the State Federation Home Economics department, spoke on "How to feed a family of five on twelve dollars a week."

The club will hold its annual fair on Nov. 16th at Players Hall.

The members of the travel class of the W. N. W. Educational Club met on Monday, October 25, with Mrs. F. E. Newers. After a short business meeting the afternoon was devoted to the reading of papers.

The first "Trip thru Middle Atlantic States" was most entertaining as the writer, Mrs. A. Gordon Wein, described the various points of interest in the different states, and touched upon a few of the principal industries. Mrs. Guy Halbrook's paper "Public Resources and Public Works" followed, and was read in her absence, by Mrs. Harry Wells.

The next meeting of the class will be on Monday, November 8. The hostess on this occasion will be Mrs. Joseph A. McDonald of Auburndale.

At the meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club this week Home Economics was the subject for the afternoon. Mrs. Frank Frost spoke on "The Home and Housekeeping," as a Profession, Mrs. Ogden of Food Values, Mrs. Seward on Scientific Food Combinations and the Care of China. After the intermission Mrs. C. H. Keeler entertained the members with readings from Hashimura Togo.

The members of the Auburndale Woman's Club had an unusual and delightful afternoon on Tuesday in listening to the address of Mrs. Effie Danforth McAfee of White Plains, N. Y., on "Progressive Scandinavia." Mrs. McAfee is a remarkable speaker with a most charming personality and she spoke from wide experience. She was the only American admitted to the Nobel Salon at Christiania during the summer of 1913 and many of the slides she showed were given her by the government. In keeping with the subject of the afternoon the music consisted of selections from Grieg rendered by Miss Ruggles upon the "cello."

On Thursday afternoon the Newton Centre Woman's Club opened its season auspiciously with a reception to the new members. The program included selections by the Lotus Male Quartette and readings by Miss Gow. Mrs. John Capron and Miss Elizabeth Bartlett were in charge of the social arrangements.

The club has enlarged its membership limit and is planning in due time to erect a club house and will bend every energy in that direction. In addition to the monthly current events lectures the program announces three lectures upon Home Economics during the winter months.

Thirty-Fifth Anniversary

Last year the West Newton Women's Educational Club celebrated its thirty-fifth anniversary and now a second club, the C. L. S. C. of Newton Highlands, follows in its train. Mrs. C. Peter Clark of Newton Centre, president of the club, opened her home for the occasion. Luncheon was served at one o'clock, after which the members joined in most delightful reminiscences. The history of the club for the first twenty years was summed up by Mrs. S. B. Whittemore, the next five years by Mrs. H. B. Rogers, the next by Miss Adelaide R. Webster and the last five by Miss Anna S. Thompson. Mrs. Darius Cobb acted as toast mistress and these toasts were responded to as follows: "Marriage," Mrs. Sanford E. Thompson; "Woman's Limitations," Mrs. Philip S. Sweetser; "Home," Mrs. C. Peter Clark; "Mother," Miss Cora S. Cobb; "Father and his Limitations," Miss Ella M. Bacall; "Children," Mrs. Emory W. Clark and Mrs. Libridge B. Lincoln; "Our Welcome Guests," Mrs. J. F. C. Hyde; "Absent Friends," Miss Mary E. Hyde; "The Hostess and our President," Mrs. Darius Cobb; "Greetings to the Club," Mrs. Elliott J. Hyde; "The Dinner," Mrs. Fred R. Hayward; "Women Past and Present," Mrs. Stephen A. Wiswell; "Woman's Onward March," Mrs. E. G. Swift; "The Other View," Miss Josephine Ayers; "For What Our Club Stands," Mrs. W. T. Logan; "Our Country," Miss Marion B. Morse; "Our Flag," Mrs. Leonard Boyd and Mrs. Albert F. Hayward; and "Twenty Years Ago," Mrs. W. Scott Richards. At the close all joined in singing, "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgotten."

The club's year book gives three members on the active list, Mrs. Darius Cobb, Mrs. J. F. C. Hyde and Mrs. W. Scott Richards, and one on the associate list, Mrs. Elliott J. Hyde, who have been in the club since the beginning, and two, Miss Mary E. Hyde and Mrs. S. B. Whittemore, who entered the second year, while there are several others who joined during the first ten years, so that this celebration in reality marked the completion of thirty-five years of continuous study by an earnest group of women.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE AS A MORAL ISSUE

Under this heading a presentation of the question was given in Eliot Church, Sunday evening, October 17, by Mrs. Teresa Crowley on the Equal Suffrage side and Miss Marjorie Dorman on the Anti-Suffrage side. Mrs. Crowley labored under two great disadvantages. It fell to her lot to speak first which gave her opponent a chance to answer, an advantage of which Mrs. Crowley was deprived. She was further hampered by feeling obliged to discuss the topic wholly as a moral issue, leaving out the many forceful arguments that might otherwise have been employed. That Mrs. Crowley intended to make an entirely different speech we are well informed, but, seeing the subject announced as a moral issue and being a lawyer by profession, she felt obliged to stick closely to her subject. This she did, with dignity, but there was a lack of her usual keen ability which was disappointing to those who have heard her speak on the same topic elsewhere. It was the more pity that Mrs. Crowley felt obliged to treat solely as a moral issue, since her opponent showed such an utter disregard of this particular phase of Equal Suffrage. So far from considering woman suffrage as a moral issue Miss Dorman frankly stated that it was simply a question of dollars and cents and should be considered as such. After acknowledging that as a working woman the ballot might be useful to her personally she added that her own interests ought to be set aside if it was going to cost anything to the government to allow her to vote. She even went so far as to claim that women who asked for equal suffrage were selfish beings because they were trying to secure the franchise and that would cost such a lot of money, in counting ballots. The one cardinal sin, according to Miss Dorman was to ask the government to spend money. It did not seem to occur to her that women in paying taxes contribute towards the expense of printing ballots for men, and that to ask men to contribute towards the expense of printing ballots for women is not a wholly selfish and unreasonable proposition.

Mrs. Crowley said in beginning her speech that the greatest foe to woman suffrage has always been the liquor interests. This Miss Dorman attempted to disprove by showing that some of the Equal Suffrage states go "wet" and some "dry" and therefore liquor dealers had no fear of woman suffrage. The statement was quite true of some of the Equal Suffrage states, but, the reason "why" was of course not told. As every one knows in many of the Equal Suffrage states men outnumber the women nearly two to one. It would therefore be quite impossible for women to carry a state either way. In consequence liquor dealers in these states are not afraid of equal suffrage because they know perfectly well that the power is in the hands of men who vote a state "wet" or "dry" according to the sentiment in that particular state. Any one who doubts Mrs. Crowley's statement that the liquor interests are against woman suffrage should read the item in this week's GRAPHIC entitled "Wet's Stupidity." This article from the "Chicago Post" shows what the liquor interests are trying to do in Chicago to woman suffrage.

There is one phase of the suffrage movement presented early in the evening by Miss Dorman, which we hope sunk deep into the minds of the voters. "The awful waste of money for a campaign."

It is certainly to be deplored that what ought to be a free gift to women should cost so much. We hope the voters appreciate this economic side of the question. A second campaign would mean another year of waste. Think it over Mr. Voter and save waste. Let the Commonwealth have all this extra money with which to pay the women's bills.

WET'S STUPIDITY

In the long history of the prohibition fight in the United States the one constant and unchanging quantity has been the stupidity of the opposition offered by the organized liquor interests. This record is unerringly lived up to in the new attack made upon the Illinois woman suffrage law by the Illinois "wets."

The law has been upheld once by the Supreme Court. Today's attempt to knock it out is almost openly based on the fact that the makeup of the court has changed, a basis as affronting to American fair play as it is to the court itself.

Whatever the court may do however, it is again made evident to Illinoisans that the wet interests are opposed to progress and democracy. Here is the stupidity of the move. It will again force into the dry camp in the impending battles thousands and thousands of voters who are not sure about the virtues of prohibition, but, who are first, last, and all the time against the Tory trickery typified by liquor's new effort to take away woman's right to vote.—Chicago Post.

ABOUT THOSE RISING TAXES

Taxes, it has been alleged by anti-suffragists, go up under equal suffrage. Earl Akers, treasurer of the state of Kansas, says: "To a Kansan this is amusing. Taxes have gone up with us just as they have with every other state that has made the wonderful advance we have in the last 10 years, but adding more voters has not been the cause. We've had limited suffrage for women for a long time, and nobody has ever reckoned the expense of extra ballots and a few additional clerks and judges of election of any material consequence at all. That argument is frail, just like a whole lot of the other objections raised by the anti's, but I know that in a time like this desperate methods are resorted to in order

TO THE MEN OF NEWTON

We appeal to you to vote "NO" on the women's suffrage amendment. We who are your partners in your home affairs and in widespread charitable work appeal to you not to throw this additional burden upon our shoulders. We do not believe that on the whole we could manage the business of government better than you do and we are sure that what falls to us under the partnership as it exists today could not be as well done. We appeal to you not to burden the majority of women whose lives are now filled in order to satisfy the desires and ambitions of the minority. We ask you to do this work yourselves as well as you can and we have confidence that in the future as in the past the men of Massachusetts will so act as to safeguard and promote the interests of all members of the community, women and children as well as men.

BOYS CLUB ENTERTAINMENT

Among the interesting coming events will be the annual entertainment under the auspices of the Boys Club of St. Paul's Church, which will be given on Friday and Saturday evenings, Nov. 5th and 6th at 8 o'clock in Lincoln Hall, Newton Highlands.

"In Dreamland," a musical play will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Wellman, who guarantees a performance that will be sure to please. The show, which is bigger and better this year than ever, promises to be of intense interest, and will contain many novel and entertaining features, among which will be the impersonation of such well known Movie Stars as "Charlie Chaplin," "Celestia The Goddess," "Mary Pickford," "Pearl White," by Jackie Guller, Bill Wellman, Jimmie Hall, and Sherry Smith.

Cal Smith will represent "Anitra, Queen of Dreamland."

At the close of the Saturday evening performance there will be dancing. To stem the tide. Last fall 82 per cent of our women voted. None of them was elected to state offices or to the legislature, and none of them was a candidate for such a position. Our women are not persistent candidates for office, and never have been.

RE-ELECT SENATOR ELLIS

The First Middlesex Senatorial District, honored last year in having as its representative in the Massachusetts Senate a man who, if not the leading member, was one of the strongest and ablest senators in that entire body, George H. Ellis of Newton, promises to give Senator Ellis a larger majority for re-election next Tuesday than he received a year ago, according to those who have been making a general canvass in the interests of the Senator.

"I do not feel that my record in the Senate needs any explanation or defense," says Senator Ellis, "therefore I have not felt it incumbent on me to go into an extended campaign or to discuss in detail any of those measures which I have advocated or opposed during the past year. I have always endeavored to acquaint myself thoroughly as to the merits of every question which has come up for my vote and so to cast my ballot as best to serve the welfare of the greatest number. I believe the people of my district are convinced I have served them honestly and faithfully and will so express themselves by their votes next Tuesday."

MOTHERS' REST

The annual meeting of the Mothers' Rest Association was held last week Thursday afternoon in the First Baptist Church at Newton Centre with a large number present. Unusually gratifying reports were heard from the officers and matron of the Association, showing that 134 mothers and 163 children were entertained at the Home in Needham during the summer months, ending Sept. 29th.

The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Everett D. Burr; First vice president, Mrs. Samuel Ward; Second vice president, Mrs. H. H. Kendall; Secretary, Miss Violet Edmonds; Treasurer, Mrs. F. S. Risteen; Auditor, Mrs. W. E. Shedd; Directors, for three years, Mrs. A. Polhemus, Mrs. W. H. Bundy; for two years, Mrs. S. P. Meloney, Mrs. L. R. Spence; for one year, Mrs. C. T. Bartlett, Miss Florence A. Foster.

CLASSICAL HIGH SCHOOL

The Senior Class assembled in the hall Wednesday morning, and first voted to publish the "Newtonian" next spring. They then instructed President Forrest Davidson to appoint a nominating committee, who will select the editor-in-chief and business manager of this publication.

The first meeting of the English Club was held in the hall Friday, October 22, at the close of school. After a short address by Mr. Thomas, the following officers were elected: Judith Matlack, president; Evangeline Huntley, vice-president; Jeanette Lawson, secretary; Dean Almy, treasurer.

The Sophomore Class election was held Thursday, October 21. The following officers were elected: Allen Davidson, president; Florence Mandell, vice-president; Priscilla Clark, secretary; Bradford Story, treasurer. Allen Davidson, the president, is a younger brother of Forrest Davidson, president of the Senior Class.

The Newton High School Debating Club held a dance in the gymnasium Friday evening.

Most of the supporters of the football team were greatly surprised by Friday's defeat at the hands of Huntington School. Any expectations of an easy victory, however, were entirely unwarranted, for Huntington's eleven was known to be made up of some fine material. The heavier and more experienced visitors completely outplayed Newton and clearly deserved to win. It seems strange that only fifteen cents should be charged for admission to a game with a team of Huntington's strength, while twenty-five is the price for games against much weaker elevens.

Manager Leonard has succeeded in filling the open date on the schedule and a game with Dorchester Arts has been arranged for Friday, October 29. The strength of the Dorchester team it unknown, but a hard contest is not expected. It will probably serve as good practice for the coming games against Cambridge Latin and Waltham.

Charles Brady, '15, the Newton football captain of the 1913 season, has entered Boston College.

Room 22 and room 19 are tied for first in the "Review" subscription contest.

All the pupils will welcome the holiday which will be given them Friday, October 29. The date of the annual teachers' convention.

The girls of the school have organized a girls' cheering section for the football games. Their cheering at the Newton-Huntington game added considerably to the enthusiasm of the other spectators, and seemed especially interesting to the Boston boys. Miss Leslie Perkins is the official cheer leader.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—"The most wonderful play in America in the world's most gorgeous playhouse" is the way the advertisements announce "Experience" at the Boston Opera House, Boston. This great morality drama after a phenomenal run of nine weeks at another theatre, was moved intact to the great Boston Opera House on Huntington Avenue, last Monday night, for three farewell weeks. It has been followed by the greatest crowds in the history of Boston theatricals, who have been influenced not only by a desire to see this great play but also by the unprecedented opportunity to visit this gorgeous amusement palace at the remarkable scale of prices in vogue. Many people have seen the play several times, and it is safe to say that many more who have already seen it, will take advantage of this wonderful opportunity to also see the beautiful and superb Boston Opera House, which when the golden dome is fully lighted is almost a parallel for the wonderful Tower of Jewels at the San Francisco Exposition.

Kiel and Suez Canals. The Kiel canal, which is just over 61 miles in length, is the second longest ship canal in the world. The longest is the Suez.

THE EVER BEAUTIFUL BARBERRY

Of all the autumn color show, the part furnished by the barberry hedge is the finest. Beautiful every hour in the year, its fall changing is an intensification of that beauty. The change begins early, and is in progress for many weeks, until suddenly it glows in a deep scarlet-crimson, amidst which its clear scarlet fruit, hanging in graceful sprays under the arching twigs is the accented note. What a shrub it is! Hardy, serviceable, able to endure shade and yet to reveal in sun; needing no trimming at all, holding interest all the time; getting along in poor ground but rejoicing abundantly if better treated; is it not the one best low-growing shrub? So closes the month, in a glow of autumn color, fading slowly, dropping softly to the ground. It is a joyous ending to a lovely season in this growing garden—J. Horace McFarland in The Countryside Magazine for November.

WILBUR THEATRE—It is unnecessary more than to indicate the action of the two plays, Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion," and Anatole France's "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," which will be presented at Ye Wilbur Theatre (Boston) for the second week beginning Monday, November 1st. M. France settles the case of a man possessed of a beautiful wife, who has all the normal faculties save that of speech. The poor fellow, unaware of his blessings, though he is warned by a friend to let well enough alone, calls in three practical men, who with instruments of Babylonian proportions set the tongue free to speak. And such a gabbling ensues! Again the doctors are summoned, and this time they administer a powder which deprives the frantic husband of his hearing, for though you cannot make a woman dumb, you can make a man deaf! Whereupon the husband, unable to hear, is happy, but the wife goes mad because of his inattention, and by biting every member of the company in the neck, conveys the madness to them all.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—Once in a while an untired, brand new dramatist hits the bull's-eye at his first attempt—but it is once in a great while. This year Edward Clark seems to have scored with his mystery farce, "Coat Tales." This play was produced last Monday by John Craig, Mary Young and their associates. It will continue next week and perhaps many subsequent weeks. The farce is a series of rapid-fire laughs and mirth-causing situations. From the moment the sable coat disappears into the depths of a pawn shop in the first act until it is restored to the rightful owner after a long list of adventures, there is not a stupid minute for the audience.

RUGG-BRECK

One of the most charming home weddings of the season was that of Miss Margaret Breck, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Breck and Mr. Robert Billings Rugg, Harvard '08, which took place at the Breck residence on Beacon street, Waban, on Saturday evening. The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock in the presence of the immediate families by Rev. Charles H. Cutler, pastor of the Union Church of Waban. The bride was given in marriage by her father who was gowned in white charmeuse with court train of brocaded satin. She wore a princess lace veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, white orchids and gardenias. She was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes Breck, as maid of honor, dressed in hand painted rose satin with over drapery of pink tulle and carrying a chayer roses.

The best man was Mr. Donald Frothingham of New York a college classmate of the groom.

A largely attended reception followed the ceremony until ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Rugg being assisted in receiving their friends by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Breck and Mr. and Mrs. Frederic W. Rugg. The ushers were Messrs. Hugh Nawn, Harvard '09 of Boston, Joseph F. Breck, Jr., Harvard '07, of Minneapolis, Minn., a brother of the bride, Guy Kinsley of Winchester, Howard F. Whipple, Harvard '08 of Brockton and H. H. Brooks of Pawtucket, R. I.

The house was made most attractive with masses of yellow chrysanthemums and smilax, the drawing room being profusely decorated with orids roses and white chrysanthemums with ropes of laurel and asparagus vine.

Mr. and Mrs. Rugg will spend their honeymoon in a motor trip thru the White Mountains and will reside at Riverbank Court, Cambridge, where they will be at home on Wednesdays in January.

A QUESTION OF RIGHT

The question of woman's suffrage rests on justice. We pose as a democracy. To exclude one-half, and in many respects a finer half, of our population merely on the physical question of sex, is unjust. If women are to be bound by the laws of the country they should be allowed to shape those laws.

If men will think of woman's suffrage as a question of simple justice and stop worrying how they think it might affect their own personal viewpoint and aspirations—which in any big question they should entirely ignore—then there would be no question about the result of the vote on the question in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts this Autumn. Many men will do so.—Boston Globe.

SHUBERT THEATRE—The all-star restoration of "Trilby" has proved a delight at the Shubert. That it can only be retained in Boston for one more week is a matter of regret. There is sentiment about this revival of Du Maurier's glowing romance of Youth. The play was first acted in Boston in 1895. It is amazing how it appeals to the popular taste just as grippingly now as then. Rarely is displayed in a Boston playhouse such enthusiasm as this remarkable performance arouses. The climatic outburst follows the scene where Phyllis Nelson-Terry, as the mesmerized singer steps between the parted red velvet curtains and with fixed, hypnotic stare gives, under Svengali's baton, a wonderful demonstration of vocal art, worthy of Grand Opera. After she reaches her phenomenal G in all, the audience fairly goes wild. The "Trilby" engagement must positively close Saturday night, November 6, Matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

income, there is the greatest difficulty and the greatest failure on the part of the assessors to comply with the law. To say that all Boards of Assessors fail to do the things required of them by the law is not necessarily to find severe fault with the Assessors. It is but another way of saying that the law requires the impossible. So impossible is it for assessors to do the things required of them by the law, that large values of the kinds of property last enumerated escape taxation. It is, generally speaking, only in the case of the private estate that full taxation, as the law requires, is enforced. In such cases the amount of the income required to pay the tax legally assessed varies from 20 per cent to as high as 50 per cent and even 60 per cent.

Thus, we have on the one hand some persons paying taxes, with relation to their unproductive property, to as great an extent as 50 or 60 per cent of the income produced by it, and on the other hand, persons owning some kind of property which, because of their success in concealing it, are not taxed at all. This unevenness in the enforcement of the law is generally known, and is a cause of great dissatisfaction and fault-finding because the American citizen dislikes, above all things, a different standard of law enforcement for one person than for another.

Tax rates in the cities and towns of Massachusetts vary exceedingly. They are as high as $26.00 per thousand, and as low as $3.00 per thousand. A result of this situation is that during the last fifteen or twenty years there has been a great deal of migration from one municipality to another.

This migration is usually by people of considerable or large wealth, and has resulted in the collection of large amounts of taxable property in a comparatively few municipalities. Such aggregations of wealth have been made at the expense of other municipalities which are sorely in need of taxable property in order that they may maintain even a reasonable standard of schools, roads and other public properties. Nahant, Orleans, Dover, Cohasset and Manchester are examples of the towns in which wealth has thus collected, and Lawrence, Somerville, Everett, and Boston are examples of the places which have suffered by virtue of change of domicile of men of wealth. The change of domicile can be accomplished without much, if any, change of residence.

The reason that the Legislature has not the power to prevent migration and the further power to make a distinction between classes of property in the matter of taxation is found in the constitution of this State. The tax provisions of the constitution were first adopted away back in Colonial times, and have remained practically unchanged ever since.

The constitution calls for proportional taxation. As the word has been used and defined in tax matters in Massachusetts, it means that any property which is to be taxed at all must be taxed at the same rate as any other class of property in the same taxing jurisdiction. The taxing jurisdiction is the city or town.

The necessity, under the constitution, of having this kind of taxation makes it impossible for the Legislature to discriminate between property which is in itself wealth, such as real estate or factories or railroads, and property which is in itself merely an evidence of ownership, such as a mortgage, a share of stock, a bond.

The constitution also makes it impossible for the legislature to prescribe that any class of property must be taxed at the same rate everywhere in the Commonwealth. In these respects Massachusetts finds herself in the same situation as most of the other states of the country have been in, in fact a good proportion of them are still in this situation, though they do not feel the injustice of it as much as does Massachusetts, because we have here more taxes to be raised than most of them have, a more crowded population, more difficult questions of assessment. Something like a dozen states, recognizing the impossibility of getting fair tax laws under their old-fashioned constitutions, which have been like that of Massachusetts, have modified their constitutions. The modifications thus adopted have not been identical in language, nor have they resulted in identical changes of laws. Nevertheless it is true to say that all of these modifications of constitution have made it possible for the legislature to establish the same rate all over the State, and to vary that rate by one method or another for different classes of property.

It has been possible, as a result of these various amendments, for the legislature of several states to recognize economical differences in classes of property, to adjust their tax laws to such conditions, to get a fairer taxation upon all, to secure a more even enforcement of the laws, to lessen the amounts of revenue.

The amendment to be voted on this Fall in Massachusetts is an amendment which, if adopted, will give to the legislature of Massachusetts the power to do such things in Massachusetts. Until our constitution is amended, the legislature has no power to undertake any of the reforms which have been undertaken in various other states, and have worked out in such other states with remarkable success. The adoption of the amendment in Massachusetts is necessary in order that this State may avail itself of one of the approved successes in tax matters, and thus may raise its enormous revenues more fairly, and with greater satisfaction to the people.

OPEN AIR MEETING

At an open air meeting held Saturday evening in West Newton, Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley gave an interesting address on the Suffrage question from which the following abstracts are taken.

Woman Suffrage is a part of the evolutionary movement for self government. The men of the West in giving the ballot to their women showed a belief in democracy and faith in woman. So we believe that Massachusetts men will realize that we are sharing with them the burdens and problems of industry and the care of the home and the children, all of which are today matters of governmental action, and knowing this will give Massachusetts women the vote on November 2nd.

As we look back over the more than sixty years of work for the enfranchisement of women in our own state and think of the devotion of the pioneers, of the prejudice that had to be overcome, of the slow but sure growth of favorable sentiment, we realize that victory is here because woman suffrage based its claim on the fundamental principles of justice and human service. We as people are pledged to a democracy, "a government of the people, by the people and for the people," and we believe "that government derive their just powers from the consent of the governed." We ask that these principles may be held to apply to the woman citizens. Whether the vote is a right or the privilege, every citizen must have it in order to attain economic, intellectual and spiritual freedom.

Justice and expediency both demand that the vote should be given to women. They have been experts from the beginning in many of the problems with which law and government are concerned. All the moral and social problems, the preservation of health and safety, the regulation of hours and conditions of labor, even the determination of wages, are now being considered the business of bureaus and legislatures. The questions of municipal housecleaning, clean streets, pure water, housing conditions, and pure food, vitally affect the welfare, life and happiness of the family.

When women began to understand now closely their welfare and that of their families was associated with government, they naturally and inevitably demanded an equal voice in that government.

Every consideration of the suffrage question must deal with the problem of the wage-earning woman. We have 8,075,772 females gainfully employed in the United States who have something vital at stake in government, and giving women the vote means among other things an arousing of interest on the part of the law makers and politicians in the woman's point of view. And it also means education and training to the voter. The state cannot get the best intelligence of its women unless that intelligence is quickened by a sense of full responsibility.

Woman is proving her ability to do a full share of society's political work, the humanitarian activities of the modern city are definitely her contribution. Governmental commissions everywhere take woman's testimony on housing conditions, the care of dependents, labor conditions, systems of correction and other remedial measures, and does it not seem incongruous to accept woman's value to the modern state in social reform and still deny her the power to regulate and control these reforms when they become matters of political action.

JULIETTE VIRGINIA RICHARDS

For those who may wish to know more of Miss Richards' later years these particulars are given.

She went to California in January 1905, on the advice of physicians who realized that with her weak heart a milder climate would give her less to struggle against. She soon became attached to the Pasadena life with its beauty and its comfort. She made many new friends and was never out of touch with the old. These ten years have been largely very happy.

There was no noticeable change in her condition till half a year ago when she began to lose ground. This was so gradual at first as to be hardly perceptible but more recently those who lived near realized that she was growing rapidly weaker.

Desirous of not alarming the absent, she was careful to keep her letters cheerful up to the last, but she understood her symptoms and had no fear of approaching death. Indeed, she once wrote in an intimate letter, "I have never known what it was to be afraid of dying."

A sudden cold brought on a congested condition which in her weakened state she was not able to resist and she passed away Monday, October 18th, having been confined to her bed but a few days.

Her funeral held in Pasadena on the afternoon of the 20th was largely attended. She was surrounded by the flowers she loved, flowers which came from dear ones near and far away.

According to directions written by her some time ago, she was cremated and her ashes were sent east to be placed near the graves of her parents.

The interment will take place in Enfield, Mass.

THE STORE OF QUALITY

QUALITY GOODS

The hardest thing in selling is to show a customer that first cost is not last cost; to make him understand that while the cost of some goods may be much lower in the beginning, they are almost invariably dearer in the end; to show him that almost always an article is worth just about what it costs; in short, to impress him with the meaning of QUALITY. Quality is not the result of a moment's inspiration, but is the result of patient investigation and careful testing until we become satisfied that an article is fitted to be classed with Quality Goods.

Don't Lean on Your Elbows.

When the writer was a little girl her mother used to warn her constantly against leaning on her elbows. "You will have rough elbows like the gossips who have nothing to do but lean out of their windows and watch their neighbors," she would cry, and then the small daughter would examine her little fat arms anxiously, twisting herself painfully in the effort to be assured that her elbows did not betray her in so unmistakable a fashion. I wonder how many would remember that nowadays when the habit of leaning on the elbows, "restaurant fashion," has become so universal that it is almost impossible to teach the children to sit properly at table because of the example set them by their elders? Pretty elbows are the exception rather than the rule in most cases, and it does indeed take little to roughen and disfigure them. A round elbow is not necessarily a point of beauty, as it indicates a tendency to embonpoint if there is too much flesh about the bone.

The Palmyra Palm.

Though a Tmall poem enumerates 800 ways in which the Palmyra palm may be used, one of its most interesting uses is the production of a sugar called jaggery. This is the result of boiling down the fresh juice, and is one of the chief sugars of south India. Four or five quarts per tree per day is the yield for four or five months. Once in every three years the sapdrawing process is omitted, as otherwise the tree would die. The tree begins to yield at fifteen years and continues for about fifty years. The female tree yields about twice as much sap as the male. Three quarts of this sap make one pound of sugar or jaggery, which is the chief sugar used by the poor classes of India.

Belgium's List of Great.

Liege, Belgium, is the birthplace of two of the greatest violinists—Ysaye and Cesar Thompson, both born in the same year. Belgium also has to her credit Vieuxtemps, who was born at Verviers; Arthur de Greef, the pianist, who was born at Louvain; the great 'cellist, Gerardy, who comes from Spa; while Brussels was the birthplace of Ernest de Munck, Henri Verbruggen, the famous violinist and composer, and Jane Bourgeois, the singer. The greatest living exponent of an unusual form of art, the official carillonneur of the city of Malines, Josef Denys, is also a Belgian.—New York Press.

Heredity.

A western buyer is inordinately proud of the fact that one of his ancestors affixed his name to the Declaration of Independence. At the time the salesman called, the buyer was signing a number of checks and affixed his signature with many a curve and flourish. The salesman's patience becoming exhausted in waiting for the buyer to recognize him, he finally observed: "You have a fine signature, Mr. So-and-So." "Yes," admitted the buyer, "I should have. One of my forefathers signed the Declaration of Independence."

Old Stonehenge.

Stonehenge is nine miles north of Salisbury, in England. The name comes from the Saxon Stanhenge, or "Hanging Stones." They constitute the ruins of an ancient sanctuary. In the middle is the so-called altar—a slab of blue marble. Most of the larger stones are sandstone, the others are granite. Someone has said of Stonehenge that it is to England what the pyramids are to Egypt. Scientists have declared that the old castle belongs to an epoch nearly two thousand years before the birth of Christ.

Invention of Importance.

Coagulen is the invention of the great Swiss surgeon, Professor Kocher. It is in the form of a powder which, before use, is mixed with water. Applied to a wound, it almost instantly coagulates the blood and stops the bleeding, whether external or internal. It shortens surgical operations and makes them less dangerous. The French medical headquarters speak most highly of coagulen. It will, no doubt, come into general use in all surgical operations.

Pretty Luncheon Idea.

Fill a clear glass bowl such as is used for goldfish with carbonated water. In it place a bouquet of nasturtiums and their leaves. The escaping gas in the water creeps over each leaf and flower, making the whole seem covered with dew. It is a most refreshing bit of coolness on a hot day.

The Doctor's Dilemma.

Jack—"The doctor tells me young DeSapp has something like brain trouble." Tom—"Can't he do anything for him?" Jack—"No. He says it would be an easy matter to get rid of the trouble, but it is impossible to locate his brain."

She Didn't Call.

Him—"Would you call for help if I attempted to kiss you?" Her—"Yes, if necessary; but I don't see why a big, strong chap like you should require any help."

Liberty and John.

"Oh Liberty, what crimes are committed in thy name!" quoted the moralizer. "But not half so many as in the name of John Doe," rejoined the demoralizer.

HOW NEWTON IS GOVERNED

Sixteenth of a Series of Articles Explaining the Management of the City

Few people realize the effect on their lives and pocketbooks of the work of a small and almost unknown department of the city, that of the sealer of weights and measures. The accuracy or inaccuracy of the delicate scales used by druggists in compounding prescriptions may mean life or death in serious cases of illness and every commodity sold in the city is directly under the control of this department.

The range of its work is apparently without limit, ranging from the measurement of the number of yards in a spool of cotton thread, to the number of pounds sold in a ton of coal. Not only does the department have jurisdiction over the scales and measures used in the ordinary day to day sale of groceries and provisions, but it also supervises articles sold in packages, cans, and cartons put up by manufacturers doing a country wide business. The department is obliged by law to seal every weight and scale used in the sale of articles in this city, at least once a year, the penalty for using an unsealed scale being $20 for each offense.

While no fee is charged for sealing if the scale is brought to the office at the City Hall, it is customary for the sealer to make the test at the place of business. The fee for this work is $1.00 for platform scales generally used for coal, 50 cents for the smaller platform scales and 3 cents for each smaller scale or weight. The scales passing the annual test are placarded with a gummed label to that effect, if used under cover, and if exposed to the weather, are marked with a lead seal securely attached to the scale. It is the business of the purchaser to see that the scale on which his goods are weighed is properly sealed.

The law of the state practically prohibits the use of dry measures in the sale of commodities, for which a legal weight has been established, such as the requirement that apples shall weigh 48 pounds to the bushel, potatoes 60 pounds to the bushel, flour 196 pounds to the barrel, etc. The law also requires berry boxes to hold one quart, one pint or a half pint, so that if customers will see that the boxes are full, there is little danger of being cheated in this respect. With 200 hawkers and vegetable peddlers licensed by the Health department, the sealer's department usually has plenty of work during the season in testing the scales used on the teams.

The department usually verifies the coal scales used in this city about once each week, stopping the team of this or that dealer on the street, copying the weight ticket and taking the team to the nearest platform scales to verify the weight as given. As a general thing, any inaccuracies in the weight of coal have been favorable to the customer, the 1914 figures showing 3 underweight to 22 overweight.

It is a hard matter to test, as housekeepers usually object to a visit from the sealer, and prompt work is necessary on account of melting. It is customary where short weight in ice is suspected to secretly follow up the delivery, reweigh promptly and compare the result with the weight marked on the housekeeper's score. Of 40 tests made last year, all of them showed over weight.

Milk bottles are now sealed by the manufacturer with the seal blown into the bottle. A bond is filed with the state department, and from which any fines imposed for undersized bottles are taken.

In testing the weight of articles sold it is customary for the sealer to weigh the goods, for no matter how accurate the scales may be, it is always possible for a dishonest person to give short weight. Tests are, therefore, made by visiting the shops and stores, and verifying the weight of goods made ready for delivery to customers. It is highly complimentary to the merchants of Newton that no criminal prosecutions have been made for some years, and inaccuracies called to their attention have been promptly remedied. The department has required the discontinuance of the use of wooden trays for the handling of butter and lard, as it usually added about 2 cents to the cost of the article purchased. The cardboard trays now used weigh something, of course, but they enable the merchant to handle the goods much more cleanly than would be otherwise possible, and the department requires a weight allowance to be made for their use.

A feature of the department work but little known is the frequent testing of scales used in the cordage, silk and worsted factories of the city, where labor is paid by piecework, and where a variation of a quarter of a pound on a man's work would make quite a difference in his yearly income.

The testing of scales used for prescription work by druggists, formerly done once in three years, is now required annually. This work is the most delicate done by the department on scales so adjusted that the needle never comes to a positive rest and its resting point must be accurately figured out. Some idea of the minute detail of this test can be gathered from the fact that the milligram weight is so small that it taken over 420,000 to weigh a pound. The department countersinks its mark on weights of this class in order to obtain the mark without affecting the weight. In this connection it is interesting to note that 927 such weights were tested last year and 256 were condemned, some of them being 50 per cent incorrect. One druggist called particular attention to several penny weights thus tested and told the sealer where they were reported as light weight that they had been given to him by one of the clergymen of the city who had found them in the contribution box.

In many instances where the sealer has been asked to investigate suspected conditions of short weight the mere fact that he has been called upon is sufficient to make the person under suspicion extremely careful, and the public is therefore protected, even if violations of the law are not found.

The office of the sealer is somewhat of a museum of various devices used to cheat the customers, and which the sealer has the right to confiscate wherever found. There are quite a number of the so-called "Family" spring scales, which are not allowed to be used in this city, dry measures of all kinds and conditions, ice cream moulds and cartons, liquid measures of such soft material that great indentation can be made in the sides with the pressure of the fingers, berry boxes not up to standard, and weights and scales in all conditions of decrepitude.

The sealer is also the custodian of a set of standard weights and measures, which are the property of the state. The standard yard stick is a handsome piece of steel, the standard metre is also of steel and enclosed in a hardwood case, the standard weights from 50 pounds to one-sixteenth of an ounce are of nickel steel, the liquid standards ranging from a gallon to one-quarter pint are of cast steel, and the standard dry measure from a half bushel to a quart are of the same material. The test scales of the city are, like the prescription scales, of so delicate a nature that the needle is never at absolute rest. All of these standard weights and measures are inspected every three years by the state department of weights and measures.

Some of the duties of the sealer are to test the moulds and cartons used for ice cream, and something over 600 moulds have been seized during the past four years. He may also be called upon to test the size of hot water boilers used in many households and which usually hold 30 gallons. The grading of apples is one of his duties, the Federal law requiring every barrel of apples to be plainly marked with the name of the producer and the grade of apple it is supposed to contain. The sealer also verifies the number of gallons contained in barrels of varnish, shellac, the measures for selling gasoline, the size of cans used by paint manufacturers, cartons containing cereals and, in fact, almost everything used in the household, office or factory.

Sponges bought by weight have been found soaked with liquid cement to make them heavier, and at over $4.00 a pound, considerable money can easily be saved. Shellac barrels found two or three gallons short, means a saving of $1.50 a gallon to the purchaser. In such ways as these this department, comparatively unknown, is modestly and quietly performing its work and saving thousands of dollars to the citizens of Newton.

OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

The anniversary of the Garden City Young People's Branch of the W. C. T. U. was observed Wednesday evening, Oct. 27th, at the Newton Y. M. C. A. by a public rally and the formal installation of the new officers for the present year. The Vice-President of the W. C. T. U. for the State of Massachusetts, Mrs. W. H. Gleason, was the speaker of the evening and installed the incoming officers in a dignified and interesting manner that made a deep impression on the audience. The reception accorded the new President of the Branch, Benj. Messer, of Newtonville, was the most enthusiastic the members ever witnessed. The Glee Club of Newtonville Methodist Church rendered a number of selections, and other songs with a reading completed a most delightful program. The next regular meeting of the Branch will be held in the Methodist Church at Newtonville, Wednesday, November 24th, at 8 o'clock.

OPERA IN PLAYERS' HALL

On Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, November 9, 11 and 12, the Newton Amateur Opera Association will give its second series of performances in Players' Hall, West Newton. Victor Herbert's "Serenade," has been chosen for presentation at this time, and brilliant performances are assured, judging from those of "Flordora" given last season. The active membership of the organization is made up of young people of musical and dramatic ability throughout the city, and a cast of fifteen principals with a chorus of forty-six voices will sing "The Serenade." The cost of these performances is met from the annual dues from the associate memberships, for whose pleasure exclusively the performances are given. These affairs have already taken their place among the foremost musical and social events of the city.

a small way. The Hospital is now able and ready to take care of any case and is therefore a protection to the city as well as a charity.

Mr. Bray called attention to the work being done by the Hospital and the District Nursing Association, with between 4,000 and 5,000 calls made each year. The Training School for Nurses is also doing splendid work with from 65 to 70 pupil nurses on duty most of the time. Each nurse gives three years to the work and there were 350 applicants this year for about 40 places. The hospital plant is conservatively estimated as worth about a quarter of a million dollars.

Miss Mary M. Riddle, the matron, Alderman Early and Mr. F. L. Richardson, of the board of trustees, also spoke.

The matron, Miss Riddle has recently been granted a leave of absence until July 1st, 1916 and Miss Allen has been appointed as Acting Matron.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

A Halloween party will be held next Monday evening at the John A. Andrew Home for Veterans and their wives, for the benefit of the fund with which to build an annex. This Home, the only institution where old soldiers can be maintained without separating them from their wives, has 28 inmates already with a waiting list of 18 more. Supper will be served at 6.30 and an entertainment will be given at 8 o'clock.

The Home is located at 92 Washington park, Newtonville.
